Invasive Watch: Teasel
Spring is a good time to work on non-native invasive plants. One plant the Land Stewardship Unit at MetroParks targets this time of year is Teasel. Two types grow in the MetroParks, common teasel and cut-leaved teasel. Common Teasel has purple flowers and cut-leaved has white flowers. Teasel is a biennial that grows during its first season as a rosette and then in its second year produces a flowering stalk. It is highly competitive and will grow in dense patches. Each plant can produce up to 2,000 seeds and if left untreated can form dense monocultures that outcompete native plants (photo 1).

Don’t Forget!!
It’s that time of year again. Annual dues need to be paid this month. Individuals owe $10 per year, while family memberships are only $15 per year. Please complete the attached form and bring it with your dues to the Annual Meeting on April 11th at Chrisholm MetroPark. (You have already made a reservation for the meeting, and sent your RSVP to Roger Koch, haven’t you?) Remember, only dues paid members are eligible to vote in the election of new board members, and to attend Members Only activities. Hope we see you there!

How to identify? Look for the following:
- Large wavy leaves growing in pairs cupping the stem (photo 2).
- Prominent white line dividing leaves.
- Prickly stems.
- Cone shaped flower head with purple or white flowers (photo 3).
MetroParks uses a variety of techniques to control this plant. It is important to match the appropriate control method to the plants life stage and time of year.

If you notice this plant on your property, there are a few methods you can use to control it. For small populations of Teasel you can hand pull the rosettes when the soil is wet. If the plant has flowered, use hand pruners to carefully cut the flower heads, immediately drop into bag, and dispose of. Be careful, seeds easily fall off the head and can be dispersed onto the ground. Do not put this plant in your compost, because it will spread. You should also revisit the plant throughout the growing season because it will likely grow new flower heads.

For larger areas, you can mow the area frequently to prevent the plant from flowering. One mowing will not be enough because it will produce new flower heads after the first cutting. Often a foliar spray application may be necessary. Match the appropriate herbicide to your area and always follow product label guidelines.

It is important not to ignore this plant in your yard or field. Teasel is so aggressive that it will displace the other plants growing in the same area. For questions or more information on invasive plants and plant control, contact the Land Stewardship Unit at MetroParks of Butler County.

Spring has arrived and so have the wildflowers. We investigated some different species at our April wildflower hike at Rentschler Forest MetroPark. Look at some of the species we found!

Bloodroot, a part of the Poppy Family, has a single white flower that grows up through the middle of the leaf (Niering, 1979). The plant produces a red juice from the roots which was used for dying clothes and baskets by the Native Americans (Henn, 1998).
Rue Anemone, in the Buttercup Family, is a perennial that loves forests and woodland habitats (Henn, 1998). This plant, often mistaken for wood anemone, is made up of three lobed compound leaves with about 2 to 3 flowers per stalk (Niering, 1979; Henn, 1998). Be sure to get out and see this flower soon as it’s blooming period is coming to an end.

Join us in your local MetroParks of Butler County in search of more wildflowers. Be on the lookout for Large Flowered Trillium, Mayapple, and Solomon’s Seal soon to bloom (Henn, 1998). Let’s get outdoors and find an adventure!
