ID TALENT ALBANY (girls)

Discovering the talent of the future

DESCRIPTION

The main objective of the ID TALENT program is to identify and develop youth talent in different countries, providing young women with unique opportunities to live transformative experiences. Through this program, we seek not only to discover the skills of each participant, but also to provide them with the space and tools necessary to enhance their skills, generating future opportunities both on a sporting and personal level.

At ID TALENT, we understand that each young person has unique potential, and it is essential that they are exposed in an environment that allows them to show their qualities to the fullest. Participants are challenged and guided through a series of activities and experiences that not only highlight their talent, but also prepare them to face future challenges.

This programme offers young women a platform where, by demonstrating their talent, they can access new opportunities inside and outside the international sports field. We firmly believe that the personal and professional growth of these young people will be the key to their success, and ID TALENT is the first step to achieving their goals.

OBJECTIVES OF THE ID TALENT PROGRAM

 - To evaluate and detect young people with potential in different sports disciplines, mainly in football, who can develop at an international level.

 - To provide them with the opportunity to learn and absorb the values and principles that define a high-level professional club, both on and off the pitch.
- 3. Developing character and confidence in young people:
 - Expose participants to situations that help them gain self-confidence and prepare them to face future challenges, not only in football but also in their personal and professional lives.
