USA MEAT

If it's not CERTIFIED, it's not the best.

CERTIFIED = BEST BEEF

You want beef that is easy to prepare. Every bite should be tasty, tender and juicy. We feel the same way! Here's the big secret: Certified means it's certified to taste great, always. The rest is up to you – and we're here to make cooking beef simple.

FAST FACTS

- Angus is a breed, not a brand, and when you see the Certified Angus Beef ® label, you've found the best of the Angus breed.
- To earn our label, beef must grade Choice or Prime by independent USDA graders. Then, it must meet 10 exacting standards for taste and tenderness.

MOLINO GRASSI FLOUR

Molino Grassi got its start in 1934 grinding soft wheat for bread making. By the 1960s the business had matured and it was time to explore new horizons. The second generation of the Grassi family introduced the production of semolina, becoming one of the first mills to grind durum wheat in Northern Italy.

In the 1990s Molino Grassi became one of the first mills to embrace the importance of the organic movement. This opened up a whole new market and paved the way for collaborations with leading international brands and companies in the baby food sector.

Now in its third generation, Molino Grassi has established itself in Europe as leader for its innovative wheat milling processes as well as for its commitment to the restoration of the world's best heirloom grains.

The name Molino Grassi represents a guarantee of high quality and food safety.

Today the company boasts a modern and technologically advanced milling plant that grinds 220 tons of durum wheat and 220 tons of soft wheat per day.

Each year Molino Grassi grinds over 120,000 tons of grains: 70,000 tons of durum wheat for the production of dry and fresh pasta and 50,000 tons of soft wheat for the production of bread, pizza, sweet bakery and fresh pasta.
