"Teamwork Isn't Just for the Super Bowl"

I'm sure many of you watched the Super Bowl last weekend and with a big win, impressive teamwork, and performances, we were reminded why teamwork matters.

Whether you're a sports fan or not, there's something powerful about watching a group of people work together, encourage each other, and finish strong. That's true in football and in school.

Every day here, we see students supporting teammates during games, helping classmates study, cheering each other on, and coming together for events.

So this week, take a moment to think about how you contribute to your teams — in class, in clubs, on the field, or even just in the lunchroom. A high-five, a kind word, or a genuine "you've got this" can make someone's day, just like a great assist on the field.

Go out there and be a team player!

SCHOOL SHOUT OUT

Mr. Ruben- Assistant to the Principal

Mr. Ruben is a valued member of the secondary team. He has spent 3 ½ years at Brookesmith and has a love for classic cars.

He previously retired from the railroad and served 6 years in the Army National Guard.

MATH IN EVERYDAY LIFE

All the buildings, roads, bridges, transport systems and other structures around us are part of the built environment and they're all built on math. Architects use geometry, algebra and trigonometry to design buildings that are aesthetically pleasing and structurally sound.
