

American History and Today (part one: 1914-64)

“Recounting the past in photos, film clips and music”

3 important lessons learned from World War I (1914-18) ¹

- Exhaust diplomacy before using force. War should always be regarded as a last resort.
- War is always unpredictable. Once large-scale violence is unleashed, it’s difficult to control.
- History teaches life lessons. "There's a danger that World Wars become so distant in our memories that they become abstract." Since 1945 the major powers have not fought each other.

3 important observations gleaned from the Roaring Twenties

- The U.S. experienced culture clashes that began in earnest as immigrants arrived after World War I (1914-18); African Americans migrated from farms in the south to cities in the north; women newly empowered with the vote entered politics; Catholics began climbing the economic ladder.
- Prohibition of alcohol (1919-33) had unintended consequences, such as fueling organized crime.
- Unrestrained global economic growth is likely to encounter Isaac Newton’s Third Law of Physics: “For every action there is an equal and opposite reaction.”

3 important observations gleaned from The Great Depression (1929-41) ²

- The decline of the U.S. economy in 1929 pulled down most other countries. Then in 1930 U.S. protectionist policies promoted retaliatory tariffs in other countries, worsening collapse.
- President Franklin Roosevelt’s New Deal policies in 1933 either began or accelerated the economic turnaround, and his reassuring words (fireside chats) were the essence of leadership.
- The Depression was backdrop to some of the most memorable stories written John Steinbeck’s “The Grapes of Wrath” and “Of Mice and Men,” and Harper Lee’s “To Kill a Mockingbird.”

3 important lessons learned from World War II (1939-45)

- Acknowledge the “messy complexity” of other cultures. Germany underestimated the Soviet Union’s resolve and Japan gambled that the U.S. would bargain for peace after Pearl Harbor.
- Hold to your society’s fundamental principles, such as democracy, especially in times of crisis.
- Promote multilateral, multinational solutions in foreign policy.³ World War II brought about a wave of fervent internationalism that resulted in the creation of the UN, the Fourth Geneva Convention, the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, and the World Bank, among others.

3 important observations gleaned from the first decade of the Atomic Age (1945-56)

- By assuring “mutual destruction,” nuclear weapons have served as a useful deterrent to war.
- Nuclear technology has been used for peaceful means. The first nuclear reactor to provide electricity to a national grid opened in England in 1956. Fifty years later (2006) there were 442 reactors in 32 nations that generated one-sixth (16%) of the world’s electricity.⁴
- The 1951 film “The Day the Earth Stood Still” was a warning of sorts. It was based on a 1940 short story that was updated after the nuclear bomb (1945), then released during the Korean War.

References:

1. “3 Important Lessons Learned from World War I,” July 28, 2014. Cooper Allen, USA Today.
2. From multiple sources that appear under the title “Great Depression.”
3. “Choices Under Fire: Moral Dimensions of World War II,” a book by Michael Bess.
4. “New Scientist” story Sept. 4, 2006, written by John Pickrell.

3 important observations gleaned from the Eisenhower administration years (1953-61)

- 34th U.S. President Dwight D. Eisenhower had an acute political sense, and outstanding leadership qualities, each “born out of a sense of self-security” (owing to his military training).⁵
- A fiscal conservative, Ike resisted efforts by some Republicans to repeal parts of The New Deal.⁵
- Eisenhower created the U.S. interstate highway system, the largest public works program in the country’s history, which connected 47,000 miles of roads and transformed U.S. business.

2 important observations gleaned from the U.S. presidential election of 1960

- 72 million Americans viewed the first debate between VP Richard Nixon and Senator John F. Kennedy, which was 40% of the U.S. population (180 million). By comparison, 84 million Americans (26% of the U.S. population), viewed the first Clinton-Trump debate in 2016.
- Presidential elections are won by electoral votes, not popular votes. A (wise) campaign strategy devotes most of the candidate’s time, money, attention and energy to those “feasible” states that constitute a majority and does not waste time (where there) is little chance of success.⁶

American History and Today (part two: 1964 to present day)

3 important observations gleaned from the U.S. war in Vietnam (1962-75)

- French colonial occupiers were defeated by the Vietnamese in 1954, but fearing further spread of communism in Southeast Asia, the U.S. created a “South” Vietnam, which set the table for war.⁷
- Some 3 million Vietnamese died during the war, which repulsed people throughout the world. As television images conveyed the carnage, protesters took to the streets mid-1960s to early 70s.⁷
- The Tet Offensive on January 30, 1968, refuted the hopeful outcome of the Vietnam War predicted by the Lyndon Johnson administration, and yet five more years passed before Richard Nixon announced the end of the war during his “Peace with honor” speech on January 23, 1973.

2 important observations gleaned from post-war America in the 1970s

- Space exploration (landing rover vehicles on Mars in 1976) served as a needed distraction from Vietnam War grief and helped restore the American people’s confidence in their government.
- In the wake of losing the Vietnam War, the 1976 film “Rocky,” intentionally or not, conveyed the message that losing with honor was an acceptable outcome, provided warriors did their best.

2 important lessons learned during the Reagan administration years (1981-89)

- Terrorism can only be defeated by a coalition of countries bent on destroying it by using all available options: legal, banking, sanctions, military, intelligence, and covert action.⁸
- NASA scientist James Hansen announced in 1988 with 99% certainty that “global warming has begun,” which he attributed directly to manufactured carbon dioxide build-up.

References:

5. “Lessons learned from Eisenhower,” by Albert R. Hunt, Bloomberg News, published June 3, 2012, New York Times.
6. “13 Lessons from the 1960 Presidential Campaign,” by Ted Sorenson, Campaigns & Elections, Oct. 26, 2010.
7. “Did the U.S. Learn Any Lessons from Vietnam?” by Robert Freeman, Common Dreams, Feb. 1, 2015.
8. “Lessons Learned from the 1980s” excerpted from comments on PBS Frontline by L. Paul Bremer, who served in the Reagan administration as ambassador-at-large on counterterrorism 1986-89; and who also worked for George W. Bush.

3 important observations gleaned from the 1990s

- U.S. Army General Norman Schwarzkopf led forces from a coalition of 35 nations in 1991 to expel Iraqi forces from Kuwait and entered Iraqi territory to complete the rout, but not to serve as an occupying force, which history taught then President George H.W. Bush was fraught with peril.
- 42nd U.S. President Bill Clinton easily won a three-way race in 1992 and presided over a thriving economy for the first seven of his eight years, much of it attributed to the technology boom.
- Some of Clinton’s best work and much of the U.S. Congress’ most productive days occurred when Republicans took control of the House of Representatives (1994 mid-term election) and “compromise” by both major parties was required/achieved to pass legislation.

3 important observations gleaned from the George W. Bush and Barack Obama administrations

- 43rd U.S. President George W. Bush claimed Iraq had “weapons of mass destruction” to persuade a majority in Congress to give him the choice to invade Iraq. No such weapons were found.
- Bloated technology stocks deflated through Bush’s two terms, and then in 2007 the so-called “housing bubble” burst, crippling the U.S. and world economies, leading to The Great Recession.
- Barack Obama was elected for two terms, becoming the first African American to serve as U.S. President (#44). His early policies pulled the U.S. economy out of its tailspin and his popularity around the world restored faith in the United States as the lone superpower on the planet.

3 important observations gleaned from the 2016 presidential election of Donald Trump

- Republican candidate Donald Trump tapped into simmering anger of the “white working class,” long regarded a reliable voting block for Democrats, to help him win a stunning election victory.
- Terrorism events at home and abroad in 2016 gave the appearance that a Democrat in the White House was unable to curtail violence, further hindering Hillary Clinton’s election prospects.
- By denying man-made contributions to “climate change,” calling it a hoax, and then in 2020 by minimizing the dangers of Covid-19, Trump proved his inability to grasp complex events.

3 important observations gleaned from the 2020 presidential election of Joe Biden

- Democrat Joe Biden won the election by offering sobering “change” to what most everyone described as a chaotic four years under incumbent Trump, whose most noteworthy achievement was sustaining a strong economy up until the Covid-19 pandemic took hold early in 2020.
- President Biden and VP Kamala Harris inherited millions of struggling households requiring financial aid and a raging Covid-19 pandemic but managed to turn things around early on.
- Steadily rising inflation marred Biden’s first term; Russia’s invasion of Ukraine (2022) and the terrorist attack on Israel (2023) stirred unrest worldwide, muting many Biden accomplishments.

3 important observations gleaned from the 2024 presidential election of Donald Trump

- Following through on promises made during his campaign, Donald Trump signed approximately 140 executive orders in his first 100 days in office addressing issues ranging from immigration and regulatory reform to dismantling Diversity, Equity and Inclusion (DEI) programs.
- Tens of thousands of federal workers were laid off early in 2025 by the newly formed Department of Government Efficiency (DOGE) headed up by billionaire and Trump supporter Elon Musk.
- Beginning in April 2025, Trump imposed tariffs ranging from 10% to 145% on nearly all countries of the world with the notable exception of Russia, which remained at war in eastern Europe since invading its neighbor Ukraine on February 24, 2022.

Film clips from “American History and Today”
Produced & presented by John LeGear at TimComm.com in suburban Chicago

indicates film clip can be found on YouTube (John LeGear channel)

1.	1-2:	Back to the Future (1985) starring Michael J. Fox to the tune “Sh-Boom” (1954) performed by The Koi Boys
2.	1-8:	World War I (1914-18) overview excerpted from The History Channel
3.	1-25:	Historian/Journalist Jon Meacham excerpt from his book/documentary “The Soul of America”
4.	1-34:	Inherit the Wind (1960) starring Spencer Tracy dramatizing “The Scopes Monkey Trial” of 1925
5.	1-37:	Route 66 by Marcia Ball as she celebrates the highway opened in 1926 and highlighting Pontiac, Illinois
6.	1-53	Cheek to Cheek from “Top Hat” featuring the incomparable Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers (1935)
7.	1-56:	1936 montage (historic images) from the middle of The Great Depression in America
8.	1-59	Amelia Earhart tribute from the film “Amelia” (2009) starring Hilary Swank and Richard Gere
9.	1-64:	War of the Worlds radio play by Orson Welles broadcast Oct. 30, 1938
10.	1-69:	Mr. Smith Goes to Washington (1939) starring James Stewart
11.	1-73:	The Great Dictator speech by Charlie Chaplin in his film of the same name mocking Adolph Hitler (1940)
12.	1-75:	Bombing of London in 1940 from the film Hope and Glory (1988) starring Sarah Miles
13.	1-77	World War II tribute (1939-45) and song A Nightingale Sang in Berkeley Square by Joanie Summers (1962)
14.	1-80	A Royal Night Out (2015 film) recalling Victory in Europe Day May 8, 1045
15.	1-90:	Vietnam before the U.S. War during Truman administration (1949) from “Vietnam” by Ken Burns & Lynn Novick
16.	1-94:	Korean War seals U.S. fate in Vietnam (1950) from “Vietnam” by Ken Burns & Lynn Novick
17.	1-97:	The Day the Earth Stood Still: Michael Rennie & Patricia Neal (1951) warn of the risks posed by nuclear bombs
18.	1-115:	Blue Suede Shoes by Elvis Presley (1956)
19.	1-119:	Duck and Cover civil defense film featured in schools throughout US in 1950s and early 1960s
20.	1-123:	The Constitution is our Rule book (from the film “Bridge of Spies”) starring Tom Hanks and Scott Shepherd
21.	1-130:	Alan Shepard space launch (1961) from “Hidden Figures” (depicting mathematician Katherine Gobel Johnson)
22.	1-143:	Johnny Angel: Shelley Fabares’ song serenades recount of The Cuban Missile Crisis in October 1962
23.	1-155:	I Have a Dream speech by Martin Luther King during the March on Washington on August 28, 1963
24.	1-165:	Twist and Shout: The Beatles (1963) blended with Matthew Broderick in Ferris Bueller’s Day Off (1986)

Part 2

25.	2-2:	A brief review of historical milestones since the Founding of Jamestown (NY) in 1607
26.	2-5:	Cassius Clay vs. Sonny Liston February 25, 1964
27.	2-11:	Historian/Journalist Jon Meacham excerpt from his book/HBO documentary “The Soul of America”
28.	2-19:	In the Heat of the Night (1967) starring Sidney Poitier and Rod Steiger
29.	2-24:	Remembering Vietnam: “I’ll Remember You” written by Kui Lee; sung by Elvis Presley (1966)
30.	2-44:	Vietnam prisoners come home from “Vietnam” in 1973 by Ken Burns and Lynn Novick (2016) 2-50
31.	2-66:	Ronald Reagan of Illinois/“Daydream Believer” performed by Anne Murray (1979)
32.	2-72:	Steven Spielberg: “History is its own reminder of how bad things can get”
33.	2-75:	Sally Ride & Challenger crew montage (1983) to “Mustang Sally” by The Commitments
34.	2-96:	The American President: Michael Douglas & Annette Benning (1995)
35.	2-137:	VOTE montage: Hillary Clinton & Donald Trump (2016); “Saturday Night Live” cast (NBC)
36.	2-143:	Charlie Chaplin plays “The Great Dictator” (1940) featuring his “defending democracy” speech as WW II
37.	2-170:	This is what heroism looks like in 2020: Health care providers and front-line workers savings lives every day
38.	2-185:	Insurrection: Mob attack on U.S. Capitol January 6, 2021, while Congress was in session certifying U.S. election
		Closing song: If I Can Dream by Elvis (recorded June 29, 1968...released December 3)