HOUSE RECORDS

Summaries of Soufflenheim house records from 1315 onwards in the Haguenau notaries 6E16, the Roeschwoog notaries 6E33 and 7E44, the Ancient Archives, and the 1782 church account. Sorted by Date and Location and Date.

MEDIEVAL RECORDS

Soufflenheim is first mentioned in documents in the 12th century, when the Cistercian abbey of Neubourg was given a farm there in 1147. The village council is mentioned in 1156, and the village and its ban in a 1245 document concerning taxes paid to the church and vicar. Three houses sold during the 14th century are the earliest house records in Soufflenheim:

Heinze and Wife Daughter of Deceased Freidrich, 1368 Thursday After St. Michael, G5772 (11)

In front of Wölfel Drutmann, magistrate in Haguenau, has come Heinze, forest guard of Soufflenheim, who declared that he sold for himself and his children, also his wife the daughter of deceased Freidrich in Soufflenheim, to Nicolas vicar of Soufflenheim, after discussion has taken place, one house, barn, yard, with all rights and dependencies, in the village of Soufflenheim, one side Heinze Roppenheim, provost, the other side the street named Pfaffengasse. So that he can now own the house as a property and I will pay to him a loan to continue to live in it.

We both promise that this will be in good form of law, never attacked in its form or conditions, that the terms will be respected. We also promise to behave as honorable persons in this house and this letter will be in form of a record to prove our decision. As further proof the seal of the bailiff has been added. Thursday after St. Michael's day 1368.

Vogelmann Pfefferer, 1379 Thursday Before Candlemas, G5572 (13)

In front of me, Johannes Dantz, magistrate in Haguenau, has come Vogelmann Pfefferer of Soufflenheim, and declares that he sells a house to Cunzel Cremer, burgher of Haguenau, for him and his heirs in money of schilling and pfenning of Strasbourg currency, on St. Johannes Day. This house contains a farming house, barn, garden, and all dependencies and rights attached to it, and is placed near the heirs of deceased Wernher.

This has been passed, as I recognize with this, in all good form of right and excluding any device. The money has been received with condition of payment of yearly 5 schilling of Strasbourg currency to be paid to the Holy congregation in Soufflenheim, with mortgage in case of no payment of this same right.

Cunzel has declared to be satisfied with all the above mention of rights and obligations, cost and eventually loss, and so will his heirs, as the right is in this land, and for better security the seal has been attached to this letter. On Thursday before Candlemas in year 1379.

Johannes Pfeff and Cunégonde, 1382 Thursday Before St. John, G5772 (14)

In front of me Cunze Rosebaum, magistrate in Haguenau, has come today Johannes Pfeff of Soufflenheim, with Cunégonde his legitimate housewife, and declare that they both have decided to sell, after discussion and agreement, a house to Herr Clauwes (Claus) vicar of Soufflenheim and his heirs, a property on the ban of Soufflenheim with all rights and dependencies attached to it, in the village of Soufflenheim between Claus Zürn and the old river named Eberbachel, just near the barn of the named Claus, to this is also required the payment of a loan in money to the Holy congregation. Seal is attached to this. Thursday before St. John 1382.

HOUSE NUMBERING IN THE CENSUS

By Mark Drexler, April 2020

The house-numbering system used in the 1819 census appears to be the same as that used in the 1820 death records. It seems probable that the same system was used through the whole period of recording house numbers in birth and death records. The correspondence is not 100 percent, but the discrepancy is explained by a few numeral-recording errors and probable movement of a few households.

Between 1819 and 1836, the Mairie/school was built on the spot of the communal shepherd's house (hirthenhaus), which was demolished. House #10, in both the 1819 and 1836 censuses, was an inn, very likely 'The Crown'. If 'The Crown' was in the same place as it is today, that is just two or three spaces west of the Mairie (directly across Grand Rue from the East tip of the Oelberg). In comparing the 1819 and 1836 censuses there is a 'frame-shift' at about house 12 or 13, which appears to be the location of the Mairie. These observations indicate the house numbering and census enumeration started near the church and proceeded eastward.

SOUFFLENHEIM STREETS IN THE 1836, 1841 AND 1846 CENSUS RECORDS

Information was entered from only 3 censuses. The 1841 census did not have house numbers, so the number of households on each 'street' were counted. The 1836 census was used as a 'standard' and parts of the others were adjusted (re-sorted) in an attempt to get things to match up.

The censuses are not consistent in the number of streets. It is not nearly as simple as streets being occasionally renamed. 1841 is missing several streets and 1846 adds some new ones.

It appears as if any given 'street' was actually some area that included houses not even close to the actual street. Naturally, many houses did not front on any major street. I think of these census 'streets' as zones having the named streets as a prominent feature. These zones are fluid in their boundaries.

The early area called 'Gotz eck' or similar (in the inventories/contracts) seems to be the same as what we see later called 'Gaenseck'. The pronunciations seem close enough that a little sloppy hearing and the presence of Goetz might have caused a scribe or two to drop the 'n'. The 'eck' part may have been derived from the rather tight bend in the Eberbach. Perhaps the zone (and/or the street named Gaenseck) at one time began near Grand Rue and went north as far as they liked. Some of the 'Gotz eck' properties bordered a river, which must be the Eberbach.

Soufflenheim Streets in the Census Records

1836 in order of enumeration; first two sections of 1841 also; third section of 1841 and all of 1846 rearranged.

Comments:

- Rue dit Gentzeck: Rue du Marche or Rue des Sabots for the south portion of the street?
- Rue dit Stey: Once called Steig.
- Schmuck Gaessel: Once called Spengler Gaessel?
