SETTLEMENT PATTERNS

An archaeological survey by Madeleine Châtelet in 2001 (Prospection de Soufflenheim, pp.13-14) identified the approximate boundaries of the village from the 8th to the 16th centuries. The original settlement on both maps is the smaller dark gray area.

- Areas where ceramics of light-colored paste were found show the inhabited part of Soufflenheim from the 8th to the 10th centuries (Figure 3).
- Areas where gray ceramics were found show the inhabited part from the 10th-16th centuries (Figure 4).

EARLY RECORDS

Soufflenheim is first mentioned in documents in the 12th century, when the Cistercian abbey of Neubourg was given a farm there in 1147. The village council is mentioned in 1156, and the village and its ban in a 1245 document concerning taxes paid to the church and vicar. Three houses sold during the 14th century are the earliest house records in Soufflenheim:

Heinze and Wife Daughter of Deceased Freidrich, 1368 Thursday After St. Michael, G5772 (11)

In front of Wölfel Drutmann, magistrate in Hagenau, has come Heinze, forest guard of Soufflenheim, who declared that he sold for himself and his children, also his wife the daughter of deceased Freidrich in Soufflenheim, to Nicolas vicar of Soufflenheim, after discussion has taken place, one house, barn, yard, with all rights and dependencies, in the village of Soufflenheim, one side Heinze Roppenheim, provost, the other side the street named Pfaffengasse. So that he can now own the house as a property and I will pay to him a loan to continue to live in it.

We both promise that this will be in good form of law, never attacked in its form or conditions, that the terms will be respected. We also promise to behave as honorable persons in this house and this letter will be in form of a record to prove our decision. As further proof the seal of the bailiff has been added. Thursday after St. Michael's day 1368.

Vogelmann Pfefferer, 1379 Thursday Before Candlemas, G5572 (13)

In front of me, Johannes Dantz, magistrate in Hagenau, has come Vogelmann Pfefferer of Soufflenheim, and declares that he sells a house to Cunzel Cremer, burgher of Hagenau, for him and his heirs in money of schilling and pfenning of Strasbourg currency, on St. Johannes Day. This house contains a farming house, barn, garden, and all dependencies and rights attached to it, and is placed near the heirs of deceased Wernher.

This has been passed, as I recognize with this, in all good form of right and excluding any device. The money has been received with condition of payment of yearly 5 schilling of Strasbourg currency to be paid to the Holy congregation in Soufflenheim, with mortgage in case of no payment of this same right.

Cunzel has declared to be satisfied with all the above mention of rights and obligations, cost and eventually loss, and so will his heirs, as the right is in this land, and for better security the seal has been attached to this letter. On Thursday before Candlemas in year 1379.

Johannes Pfeff and Cunégonde, 1382 Thursday Before St. John, G5772 (14)

In front of me Cunze Rosebaum, magistrate in Hagenau, has come today Johannes Pfeff of Soufflenheim, with Cunégonde his legitimate housewife, and declare that they both have decided to sell, after discussion and agreement, a house to Herr Clauwes (Claus) vicar of Soufflenheim and his heirs, a property on the ban of Soufflenheim with all rights and dependencies attached to it, in the village of Soufflenheim between Claus Zürn and the old river named Eberbachel, just near the barn of the named Claus, to this is also required the payment of a loan in money to the Holy congregation. Seal is attached to this. Thursday before St. John 1382.
