The Votiva Experience.

Votiva is not just for older women! Any woman with vaginal dryness, pain with intercourse, stress urinary incontinence, vaginal laxity, or lichen sclerosis will benefit. Votiva uses radiofrequency energy to stimulate thermal remodeling, which results in new collagen and elastin formation, making the tissue more supple and elastic. This allows the tissue to expand and retract without tearing.

FormaV is applied internally for about 10 minutes and externally to the labia, perineum, urethra and clitoral area for about 10 minutes. If you have any pesky hemorrhoids, we can spend some time in this area to shrink those, too!

Our Votiva patients have improvement in lubrication, decreased pain and vaginal discomfort even after the first treatment. It also will start to help bladder control and mild stress urinary incontinence from the first treatment, but for full effect three treatments are necessary.

There is no downtime for normal activity. I went on a three-hour biking tour right after mine! However, we do recommend no tub bath, sex, or swimming for two to three days after the treatment. Best of all, there is minimal to no discomfort from the procedure. The FormaV wand is smaller than a routine ultrasound probe. Patients feel gentle warmth but nothing painful or too hot during the procedure.

Votiva patients are some of the happiest patients in our gynecology practice! Often they have not been able to have sex for years, or have gritted due to pain and gotten through it. We can combine the treatment with testosterone pellets as well so you will not only be able to have sex again, but actually WANT it and enjoy, too!

Katherine Coley, M.D., F.A.C.O.G., compassionate, genuine bedside manner has earned her the trust of many women for their health care needs. YOU'RE NOT ALONE— THE STATISTICS OF URINARY INCONTINENCE

Stress urinary incontinence (SUI), the most prevalent form of incontinence among women, affects an estimated 15 million adult women in the U.S.

29% of individuals ages 60-70 experience leakage when coughing, sneezing, or laughing compared to 17% of men and women ages 30-39. A portion of these individuals also experience urge incontinence.

Approximately, 1 out of 3 women over the age of 45, and 1 out of every 2 women over 65 have stress urinary incontinence.

In 2010, 211,000 women had some type of surgery for stress urinary incontinence.

Votiva Treatment Benefits

Votiva addresses feminine well-being, leaving most patients with immediate improvements.

The treatment will:

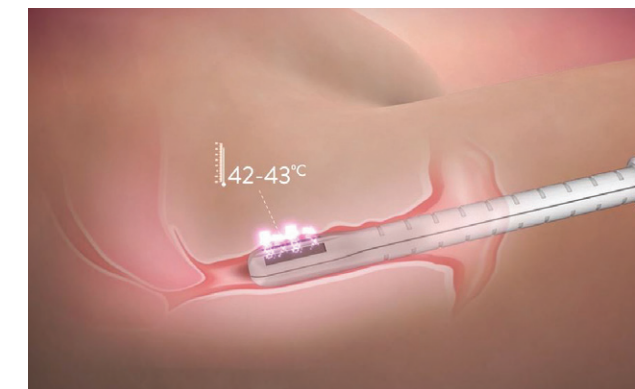

- Improve stress urinary incontinence
- Improve vaginal dryness
- Tighten internal and external laxity
- Strengthen vaginal muscles
- Enhance lubrication with painful intercourse
- Resolve lichen sclerosus pain

HOW VOTIVA WORKS

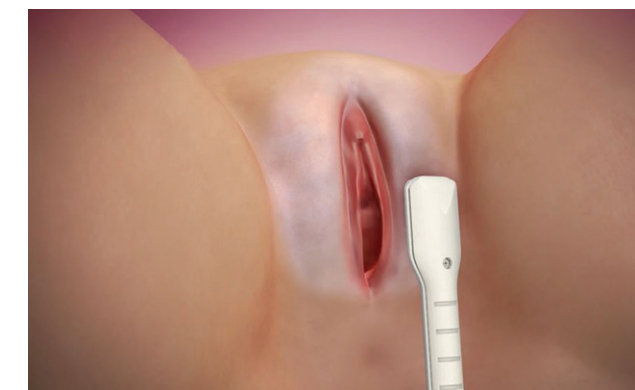

Votiva is a safe and effective treatment for feminine health. You can expect to feel a heating sensation during the treatment and for hours following the treatment. Patients are extremely happy with the results, and notice a difference after only one session. A series of three monthly treatments is recommended for an optimal outcome.

Votiva uses up to two complimentary technologies to address vaginal laxity, dryness, stress urinary incontinence. Votiva with the FormaV handpiece, gently and uniformly heats the treated tissue, reducing pain and tightening the pelvic floor muscles. Votiva with the FractoraV and Morpheus8 handpieces offer fractional treatment that remodels tissue.

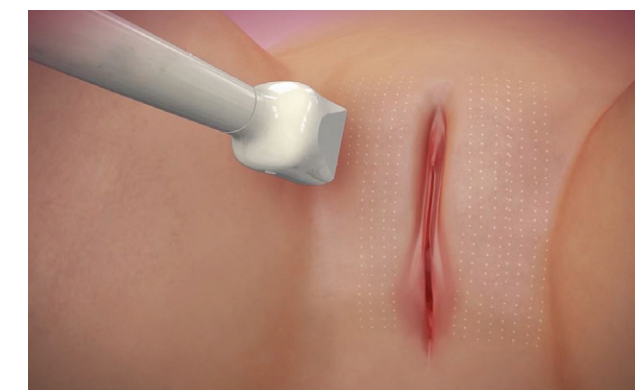

During a pre-consultation, leading Votiva experts Dr. Tracy Blusewicz or Dr. Katherine Coley will speak to you regarding your concerns and expectations. At this time, they will develop a custom-tailored treatment plan for you.

Votiva emits a gentle controlled uniform heat in the vaginal canal for internal contraction and healing. Most patients do not report any pain and are comfortable during treatment.

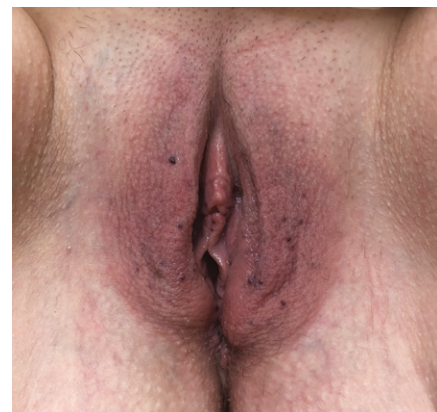

External treatment of the vagina, including the clitoris and labia minora help for greater contraction of the area. And can improve sensation and intercourse.

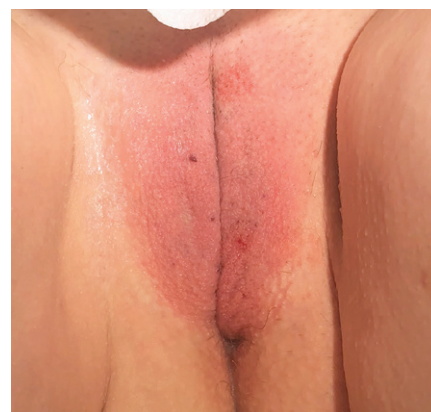

Fractional radio-frequency energy can be applied through microneedles that penetrate the layers of the skin for increased delivery of the RF energy beneath the tissue.

Votiva, an option worth strong consideration.

Overall wellbeing of the vagina can be significantly altered by childbirth, menopause and simply aging—events that we cannot avoid. Women no longer have to accept this as part of their daily lives. Advanced Women's Care has the answer in the form of its feminine wellness treatment, Votiva's FormaV and FractoraV. Votiva is the latest non-invasive technology to resolve issues related to vaginal dryness/thinning of the tissue, discomfort with intercourse, chronic external itchiness, as well as vaginal laxity and support of the bladder.
