While women throughout the ages have been using their placenta to heal after birth, the Food and Drug administration does not recognize this information. The services discussed here are not medical, clinical or pharmaceutical, nor intended to identify, diagnose or treat any condition. Families/women that choose to utilize the encapsulation services do so only after doing their own research and take full responsibility for any and all outcomes.

Instructions for Calling Wendy After Birth

Tell your provider that you intend to keep your placenta. Take along a disposable cooler. If possible, give me a heads up that you are in labor. Tell your nurse you will keep your placenta. Have someone keep an eye on it after birth and ask for it to be packaged up.

Please call me soon after your birth. Except during the night – I don't need to know that you birthed at 2 am – AT 2 am! Pack the placenta in ice in your cooler and take it to the car if needed.

Call between 8am and 10pm Cell: 239-470-5749 Home 239-482-7595

Out of concern and with an overabundance of caution please advise me if you were found to be Group B Strep positive before birth. Colonization during pregnancy should not exclude you from using the placenta capsules since I steam the placenta and hold it at a temperature of 160 F for 30 minutes which is the recommended procedure for bloodborne pathogens. The hospitals are very unlikely to release the placenta if you do have GBS. Also, if you or the baby develop any kind of infection or fever during or soon after birth please do not consider ingesting your placenta capsules.

After birth:

Suggested dosage for encapsulated placenta is:

Days 1-3 6 capsules per day, take 2 in the am, 2 in the afternoon, 2 in the pm.

Days 4-14 4 capsules per day, 2 in the am, 2 in the pm.

Days 14-? 2 capsules per day until you run out or forget to take it – an Indicator that you no longer need it.

Placenta does increase breast milk production. Some breast engorgement is common a few days after birth but if you are still really uncomfortable 7 days after birth I would back down on the number of smoothies or capsules to see if that makes a difference.

Note: Traditional Chinese medicine says that the method used to prepare your placenta is meant to make the healing properties go deeply into your body. If you feel a cold or a breast infection coming on, stop using your placenta until you are feeling better.
