

Why appearance matters

Interviews: show
you prepared.

Work: be ready for the task.

Clean, comfortable and suited to the job.

Why good appearance matters

Interview: show you prepared.

Work: meet hygiene and safety needs.

Comfort: focus on your tasks.

Clean and job-ready. Expensive clothes are optional.

Shorts and sandals?

Leo arrives in shorts and sandals.

This task requires long pants and closed-toe shoes.

He changes before starting.

Before changing

Why: task-appropriate clothes support safe work.

Ben's waistband check

Ben's boxers show when he reaches.

He tries a comfy belt or trousers that fit.

Now his clothes stay put.

Why: Ben can move and focus on his work.

Maya's nail check

Maya is Deaf. She loves drawing.

Maya's long nails catch inside a work glove.

She pauses and asks for a solution before starting.

Why: her nails and gloves need to work together.

Riley's earring decision

What happened?

Riley's large earrings catch on her apron.

Keep working or pause?

What could she do?

Pause the task.

Store the earrings.

Ask what jewelry she can wear.

Why: jewelry should stay clear of the task for safety.

Aisha's night-before check

Tomorrow is her interview or first day at work.

Aisha checks her outfit for stains or creases.

She sets out clean clothes and shoes before bed.

Why: she can get ready without rushing.

My interview and work check

Clean body, hands and clothes?

Clothes stay in place as I move?

Does my look suit this interview or task?

Check the rules

Adjust comfortably

Ask for help

My goal: show I am prepared and ready.
