Sudan Crisis – how you can help

Your kindness and generosity through ALWS are the reason families like this one can be welcomed with food and water, and love and care.

When you hear Ashta's story, you see what a blessing such a welcome would be. She's 32, and fled her home in Darfur with her husband and six children:

"At home I was growing onions. When a member of our community was killed, we decided to leave town ... We took our children and left. The older ones walked, the smaller ones were on the back of our donkey, and the baby was on my back. I'm relieved now, but I still think about what happened. I am happy we have received help."

Your compassion means ALWS can commit $100,000 to the relief effort of the LWF teams caring for Sudanese families fleeing to the Ethiopia and South Sudan borders.

You can see your ALWS action is needed urgently. Thank you for your continuing support!
