The importance of our legacy

What legacy will you leave to your children, your friends, and the people around you?

I have a great example. My Grand-father Meunier didn't wait till the end of his life to share his legacy with his children. Each year, after they were of majority age, he gave each of them a tidy sum. In addition, after his passing, he left them his notarized spiritual will.

We were truly grateful since this spiritual testament was worth more than money. Each of his children were able to build their lives on solid rock and with solid values.

In their own way, Simeon and Anna were great prophets as were the others who had come before them. Today in 2020, who are our prophets? Inspired by the Holy Spirit, Simeon held the Child who would be our sacred history.

And what about us? Who presented us in the Temple? Spend some time and ask your parents who encouraged them to bring you to Church for your Baptism? This could lead to an interesting conversation.

Simeon and Anna enabled God to act through them. Believing in Christ means we allow Him to act in our lives and with Him, we enrich our own sacred history.

God has given us the gift of our lives. Just like Christ, we place our lives in God's hands. Jesus exemplified our great spiritual inheritance. While nothing will happen in the blink of an eye, our entourage, society, friends, and our parents can provide a wonderful example of what we can become.

In this Gospel passage, there is no mention of a ceremony or ritual. Instead we focus on two people, Simeon and Anna, whose words enlightened Mary and Joseph. Jesus' parents returned to their village. Our pathway with Christ will depend on our choices as disciples.
