

Meet Maximus - who lives in WOOGAROO FOREST

His home saved him. Now we must save his home.

Home

Maximus lives in Woogaroo Forest - one of the last remaining habitats for koalas in this region.

Koalas rely on familiar trees and territories to survive.

Injured

Maximus was found sick and struggling. He required emergency treatment and spent six months in vet care. Without intervention he would not have survived.

Back where he belongs

Under wildlife legislation, rescued koalas must be returned to their original home range. Koalas rarely survive if relocated to unfamiliar habitat.

Maximus was returned to Woogaroo Forest - the only home he knows.

Maximus deserves to stay in his home.

Woogaroo Forest provides critical habitat for endangered koalas and many other species fighting for survival. If this forest is destroyed, koalas like Maximus may have nowhere to return to.

Help protect Woogaroo Forest

SCAN THE QR CODE TO EMAIL THE FEDERAL ENVIRONMENT MINISTER

www.savewoogarooforest.com.au/action