

Patchwork

Banking on our final approach
we see quadrangle cultivation penned in by alien trees.

I contain too much history to dwell on patchwork here— instead, I recall the iron will race across the earth, deserting the lingering rust of spirit.
Buffalo grass,
no longer essential, retreats from our future.
It was not charming and is not grieved.

