VIEW FROM THE BIMAH

The King Is In The Field....

Elul, the month that precedes the High Holidays is a time of preparation. During Elul we get ready to receive G-d's judgment for the upcoming year. But beyond attempting to put ourselves in our Creator's good graces, it is also a time to spice up our relationship.

Jewish tradition speaks of a king who all year long is closed off in his palace and inaccessible. Even those lucky few who do get to meet with him need to follow a strict protocol, and only get to see the king for a short period of time. But once a year, the king dresses in civilian clothes, walks around the field – a place where ordinary folks frequent – and greets everyone with a smile.

This metaphor is a way of explaining what Elul is about. All year long, the nature of our relationship with G-d is one that is merit based. It takes special preparation and requires much effort to come close to our Creator. During Elul, however, no such efforts are necessary. There is no need to meet G-d on His turf; He's already come towards us. All that is required is our willingness to meet. And when we do, there is no awkwardness or feeling that we're being scrutinized. Meeting us on our level means that He embraces us just as we are and He makes us feel whole.

When it comes to reconnecting with G-d, we sometimes feel that we are not good enough. We might think that we've been out of touch for a while, and feel uneasy about renewing our bond. Elul strips away all those insecurities and sends a strong message that G-d is crazy in love with us, regardless of how many time we think we may have disappointed Him, and He is eagerly waiting for our advances.

So as we come closer to Rosh Hashana and spiritually prepare for the New Year, let's remember that as a loving father, there's nothing that G-d wants more than reconnecting with us. He already did His part – doing His utmost to make our meeting as comfortable as possible. All we need to do is to walk over and say "Hineini – Here I am."

May you and yours be inscribed and sealed in the Book of Life, for a good and sweet year!

Rabbi Y. Goldenberg

SISTERS IN THE HOOD

To quote the Lion King, “The circle of life – It’s the wheel of fortune, it’s the lift of faith, it’s the band of hope.” Since the last newsletter, YI has experienced many life cycle events. Deb and Zev Clement had a baby boy, Adian and Alex Ferstenberg had a baby boy (Grandparents, Karrie and Norman).

Jen and Michael Shafman had their second baby girl (Grandparents, Marian and Ted).

Chatzkel became a Bar Mitzvah and celebrated twice with family and friends. First, on his actual birthday, when he was counted in his first minyan, and second, was between camp and school with lots of music and dancing.

Mendy left his Monsey Yeshiva and started attending the Rabbi’s alma mater in Montreal.

Rivka graduated from high school and is now in Israel in Seminary at Nechama Dina’s alma mater. Do you see a pattern here?

Daniel and Sheryl got married. We are sorry that Daniel left the community, but YI will always be part of his family as he will be a part of ours. Daniel’s Mom always wanted him to marry a nice Jewish doctor. MAZEL TOV to all of you.

Moshe’s Grandmother past away. Both Shuli and Arthur lost their Mothers. The whole YI family extends sincere sympathies to all of the families. May you all be comforted in Zion.

Bill and I took another cruise. It was a wonderful week away. As we traveled out/in of Bayonne, we did not have to take a plane to the ship. Bill also told everyone that his phone did not work, so he was not bothered by business calls.

Nechama Dina is in charge of the Kiddush calendar, call or E-mail her to set a date. Any occasion or none at all is a reason to host a Kiddush. Please note that the liquor supply is running low. Be a sport, if you drink it, help to replenish it.

As the High Holidays are around the corner it is time for CAROL’S NAGS.

1. Please do not wear/use fragrances. The Shul is hot and crowded, many people are sensitive.
  2. If possible leave baby carriages outside. Do not block the stairs. Park carriages, wagons, scooters, hover boards and spaceships on the grass under the big tree.
  3. Please put down the seat and lid. Toilets are dangerous places for small children.
- These are the most important issues at this time.

You are always welcome to help yourself or your children to a snack. Please only use open packages from the fridge and pantry, and remember to close them after use.

I have noticed more women standing when their husband’s get an Aliyah. It is a good way to share in the honor on our side of the Mechitzah.

Along with rest of my family; Bill, Samuel/ Shlomo, Kit, Matthew and Ellie we wish your family a happy, healthy and sweet New Year.

May we only experience Simchas.

Carol for Sisterhood

Ask the Rabbi...

*Have a question for Rabbi Goldenberg?
Email it to LSach@msn.com.*

Your answer will appear in the next newsletter.

Dear Rabbi,

“Why do we start blowing the Shofar in the month of Elul before Rosh Hashanah?”

BH

Many communities have a custom of sounding the Shofar following morning weekday services starting from the beginning of the Hebrew month of Elul. This is because there are numerous rules and customs on how to sound the Shofar on Rosh Hashana. Sounding the Shofar during Elul is a way of practicing the laws and techniques in preparation for the big day. Secondly, the sound of the Shofar elicits the feeling of Teshuvah, returning to G-d. Although this is crucial for Rosh Hashana itself, we do begin the process from the beginning of Elul. Having said that, on the day that precedes Rosh Hashana, we do not sound the Shofar, but I'll share the reason for that in a future installment, Please G-d.

The “No-Hassle Kiddush Initiative”

Dear Fellow Shul Goer,

I would like to present the community with an opportunity that could benefit its members: I’ll call it the “No-Hassle Kiddush Initiative”.

Finding Your Happy Place

By Lynda Sacharov

Humans aren't that complicated, our needs are simple...we want to feel fulfilled and be happy. Oh well... maybe that's where it gets complicated.

Mort Cohen had been married for fifteen years and has two children. His Mother, Rachel, was an Orthodox Israeli, his Father, Leon, was American. He and his family "pre-dated" the formation of Young Israel. His parents, along with other Orthodox families like the Haydens, Friedmans, and Yukowitz's all lived in the western section of Trenton, but decided as a group to move to Lawrenceville where they formed the "Minyanaires" so they could regularly conduct services.

The Minyanaires obtained a Torah and on a rotating monthly basis would have services in each others' homes. Over time, this became burdensome, and besides, they wanted to have a "real" Rabbi. Alternative locations were found such as the Lawrenceville Senior Center, Lawrence high school, a VFW Hall, and a small house on Texas Avenue with rotating Rabbis from out of town.

Ironically, it was at the Texas Avenue location where the Sacharovs came to know Young Israel. At the time, we were new to the area, my husband, Aaron, had to say kaddish for his Father, and was looking for an Orthodox shul. Although I'm embarrassed to admit it, I was on my way to the Acme one particular Shabbos morning and came across an elderly couple, who I "just knew" were Jewish, so I asked them...

As it turns out they were Mort's parents, Leon and Rachel Cohen...and invited me to attend services, even though I was in jeans at the time! They couldn't have been more gracious, and thus began our association with YIOL.

Mort became involved with Chabad, and was President of Chabad of Greater Mercer County for 18 years. He was instrumental in helping bring many of the present Chabad Rabbis to our area.

Mort's "day job" is running a "virtual" software company called Labcat, which creates and markets software used by the pharmaceutical and related industries during preclinical safety studies.

After being divorced for about 7 years, and as the "social being" he is, Mort got lonely and went online to meet someone. His "someone" turned out to be Judy Dogin, who had been divorced as well. After a few online chats and telephone calls, they decided to meet in Center City, Philly, where Judy lived at the time.

Upon entering the restaurant and spotting Judy, he summoned up his best "opening line", and asked her "where's the men's room?"...I guess it was that long ride from New Jersey!

Finding Your Happy Place

After about an hour of being together, Mort knew Judy was “his person”. Subsequent to a very brief courtship, Judy moved to our area and she and Mort bought a beautiful home in a park-like setting in Princeton.

Judy is one busy lady.... she is a child and adolescent psychiatrist and works administratively as a consultant for the County of Philadelphia and the State of Pennsylvania helping to design clinical programs for children ranging from pre-natal to age 21 and their families. Judy is also a certified Pilates instructor and gives one-on-one lessons in the fully-equipped Pilates studio (Princeton Boutique Pilates) in their home. She explained that Pilates helps build strength and flexibility.

Princeton Boutique Pilates

Since Mort works from his home office on one side of the house and Judy on the other, they will “meet in the middle” to visit with each other during “work breaks”.

A trip to Israel may be in their future.

When it comes to Mort and Judy, it’s not complicated.

They’ve found their “happy place”...and it’s with each other.
