Family Dinner in Boston, MA

HOME SWEET HOME

Happy September Everyone! We hope you are having a great holiday weekend! We have just spent our first full week on the east coast. We have been on a mini break and have not had any climate talks or events this last week. What we have been doing is catching up on sleep and enjoying family time. Also, we've been busily catching up on emails, scheduling new events, updating the website, editing videos, and excitingly doing interviews with news and radio organizations. We are using this bit of downtime wisely, as this coming week we resume the tour in full force with 3 events in a single day! Pictured above you can see Shahir and Coco (my mom's dog) doing a read through of the new edit of the second printing of Beyond Debate! She has given us a warm

HOME CONT'D

Above is a snapshot from my college roommate's wedding which we attended this week. We had a great time in NH!

We have been met with quite a bit of excitement here on the East, and have been feeling this electricity surrounding our trip as we continue to confirm events. We are excited to have our first college and junior high school venues confirmed on the return home. We also have our interview with Senator Barbara Boxer this week, and are planning for our arrival in Florida, where the red tide continues to wreak havoc on the ocean and shores.

SPOTLIGHT

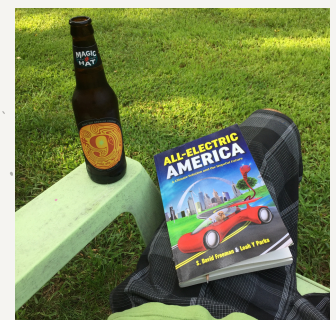

Thank you Ted Redmond from Pale Blue Dot for your work in carbon offsetting, and for offsetting our tour with methane capturing!

Pirate Coin from the 1600s. A man with a metal detector found this coin in MA and showed us his treasure!

Supporting the local tomato farmer in town. Delicious!

Shahir returning to leisure reading and enjoying a local brew!
