A MESSAGE FROM THE DESK OF YOUR PRESIDENT

I hope everyone of you had a safe and fun summer filled with lots of shells. With September approaching rapidly, I had been looking forward to in-person meetings again. Unfortunately, the pandemic has curtailed physical meetings for now. A recent poll of the membership reveals not enough of you are ready for physical meetings yet.

The big item this past June was the Conchologists of America convention held in Melbourne, Florida. With about 135 registrants and only 16 dealers, it was the smallest convention I've ever attended. But everyone had a great time, and it was wonderful seeing so many shell friends in the flesh again. The next convention, to be held in Galveston, Texas, should be larger with more attendees and more dealers. It will take place starting May 31st. Hope you can make it. See more info inside on page 8.

Our own Shell Show is scheduled for Feb 18th & 19th, with set up on the 17th. The Show forms are now available on the club's web site. We need volunteers to man the admissions table, the club sales table, raffle table, help with the set up and tear down, bring food, and generally help out during the show. We can't hold a show without club members stepping forward to help out. A number of exhibitors have already enquired about our show.

Since the Gulf Coast Shell Club has cancelled their September planned show, that leaves us showless for Florida this year. Please get vaccinated, if you haven't already done so, and get the booster shot when available. And please wear a mask when out shopping.

Be safe, everyone,

John

THE SHELL COLLECTOR'S CODE OF ETHICS

I realize that molluscs are part of our precious national wildlife resources, therefore:
 I WILL make every effort to protect and preserve them not only for my own future enjoyment, but for the benefit of generations to come.
 I WILL always leave every shelling spot as undisturbed as possible.
 I WILL take only those specimens needed for my collection and for exchange at the time... Shells in a box cannot reproduce while I am waiting for a place to send them.
 I WILL leave behind the damaged and the young specimens so that they may live and multiply.
 I WILL NOT collect live egg cases unless they are to be used for study, and then, only in small quantities.
 I WILL NEVER "clean out a colony" of shells.
 I WILL practice and promote these conservation rules in every way possible.

FOSSIL HIGHLIGHT

John Jacobs

Florida is a fabulous place for fossils, both vertebrate and invertebrate. The molluscan fossil assemblages here are truly wonderful with abundant species ranging in size from the very small to large species like horse conchs. A favorite amongst fossil shell collectors is a muricid species called Subpterynotus textilis (Gabb, 1873). The age range for the species is 20.43 to 0.781 mya. The size is known to about 56mm in length. This is one of five known species within the genus. It is unfortunate that we don't know the coloration of this shell, but the sculpture is exquisite.

Molluscs on Stamps: Summer Treasures

John Jacobs

Several new releases occurred this past summer. I thought I would show off a few notable designs instead of detailing every new issue.

I'll start with the April 23, 2021 Latvia stamp depicting the freshwater unionid Margaritifera margaritifera. This was issued in a sheetlet of 10 tete beche stamps (stamps printed with the bottoms connected). This issue is notable because it is the first stamp from Latvia to depict a mollusc.

St. Vincent & the Grenadines issued this miniature sheet of 5 plus a souvenir sheet on June 7th. They depict hermit crabs, all occupying various gastropods.

As the hermit crabs grow, they need to find and move into larger shells. Although some species of hermit crabs can inhabit sections of plant stems, broken coconut shells, hollow cylinders of wood, or other similar objects, most prefer living in seashells.

Conchologists of America Convention

After skipping 2020, due to the Covid-19 pandemic, the COA convention was back on track for 2021. Held in Melbourne, Florida this past June, it was a smaller convention than usual, but still turned out to be a fun event. Alan Gettleman and Phyllis Gray were the co-hosts of the convention, and despite having to scale back the events, they managed to host a great convention.

Here are a few pics from the convention:

Published in September 2020, “Monarchs of the Sea: The Extraordinary 500-Million-Year History of Cephalopods” by Danna Staaf, PhD, is a rarity amongst books about molluscs these days—it’s only $15.95 list price.

Molluscs have been around for more than 500 million years, and during that time have seen many iterations of cephalopods roaming the ocean. Their fossil remains are prized by paleontologists and collectors alike. The incredible variation in the shells of both nautiloids and ammonoids is well known and continues to amaze. The modern varieties of cephalopods are astounding and include squids, octopuses, cuttlefish, and the only extant shelled cephalopods, the nautilus.

If you are interested in learning more about cephalopods, then this book should be added to your reading list.

October 1st is World Postcard Day, so here is a vintage card from 1907. This card has 24 views of Florida under the shell

Conchologists of America 2022 Convention

To attend the convention and participate in the presentations, field trips, and silent auctions, you must be registered. Registration forms will soon be available on the COA web site conchologistsofamerica.org.

May 31 - June 4 , 2022

The convention consists of several pre-convention field trips, the Welcome Party, presentations/talks, Silent Auctions, the Banquet, an Oral Auction, and the Dealers Bourse. No registration is required to attend the oral auction and the bourse. The bourse normally consists of about 10,000 square feet of space for dealers from around the world displaying a huge variety of shells and shell-related items.

When making your hotel reservation at Moody Garden, mention this is for the COA 2022 convention. Reservations are now being accepted.

Bring that special shell to the meeting and talk for a few minutes about it. What was it that appealed to you about that specimen? Was it the color, the family, the location it came from?

Do you have a question on the identification of a shell? Whatever the reason, blow your horn, show it off.
