Going Strong in Strongsville

▲ This project involved painting a lot of square feet in many different parts of the facility.

There's nothing like a little confidence to start out with, because if you don't have it on a job like this, who needs to hire you? "Snyder Bros. Painting feels that this project is a TOP JOB because of the sheer magnitude and experience needed to complete it in a timely manner," said company owner Alan Snyder. The job demanded both confidence and experience, as the sheer volume of square footage meant a lot could go wrong.

The project was in an office building, where like it or not, people often spend more time than they do at home. If an excellent paint job helps make office workers feel "at home," they might even get some work done. This space looks like it would make both employees and customers feel like they were at some kind of resort.

"Located in the heart of Strongsville,

Ohio, this 200,000-square-foot space was purchased by Foundation Software, a leading construction accounting software firm," Snyder reported. "Snyder Bros. Painting was contracted to refresh over 125,000 square feet of office space, restrooms, break rooms, conference rooms, gym, decking, car port and atrium."

Job highlights included:

- Drywallers installed additional partitions for offices on two floors as well as added a new gym in the basement.
- Stripped and restained a sprawling 65-foot deck designed for employee lunch breaks.
- The bathroom looked way too '90s, so partitions and tile were painted.
- Break room cabinets, originally blue, were sprayed white.
- Worked cooperatively with other trades, including electrical, plumbing, drywall, A/V and more, to stay on the

So we agree with Alan – you've got what it takes!
