To Whom It May Concern,

This letter of recommendation is on behalf of Robert (Bob) Wilson.

I have had the pleasure of knowing Robert for the past five years; most recently, since October of 1990, as an employee under my direction in Cardiology. Bob clearly has a demonstrated aptitude for learning Non-Invasive Cardiology procedures. He approaches new procedures and technology with a positive attitude and appropriate self-confidence.

Robert has been trained to perform the following procedures:

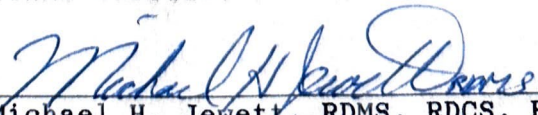

- . 12 Lead Electrocardiography and Rhythm strips using a standard Hewlett-Packard Pagewriter or Computerized Interpretive (XPi) system.
- . Exercise Stress Testing and Thallium Stress Testing using a Quinton Q5000 computerized analysis system.
- . Patient application of Del-Mar Avionics Holter Recorder.
- . Active participant during Code Blue and Trauma Codes.

Bob expressed a desire to learn Echocardiography/Doppler procedures during his tenure with us. A clear indication of this was the fact that during quiet times I would find him in the back room of the department reading an Echo book. Although he did not have the opportunity to learn Echocardiography procedures because of staffing and financial constraints, I would thoroughly endorse him in that direction. His attention to detail and the compulsive aspects of his personality would greatly contribute to his career goal of becoming a Sonographer.

On the personal side of Robert, he is someone I liked from the first time I met him. He is good with patients, has the ability to develop relationships with the Professional staff, and is a valued co-worker and staff member. During a recent period when our staffing was down by two-thirds because of the "flu", Bob came in on a moments notice, performed all of the required tasks, and worked double shifts as needed. He always had a smile and was willing to do whatever it took to get the job done.

During these years that I have known Bob, I have seen him grow and mature. I personally will miss him, and professionally we are loosing a good employee.

I wish Bob well in all his future endeavors and hope he has much professional and personal success.
