in English it is "Central Platform Mound."

SUE DOVE VE AWKEY

S'EDAV VA'AKI Museum (Pueblo Grande Museum) is an archaeological site once inhabited by the Hohokam culture, just east of downtown Phoenix, next to Sky Harbor International Airport. It's a National Historic Landmark and Phoenix Point of Pride accessible by the Sky Train and the Light Rail. Now part of the City of Phoenix Arts & Culture Department, it's the largest preserved archaeological site in Phoenix.

A group of four people, three men and one woman, are standing in front of a display case. The display case is made of wood and has a sign that says "SALT" on top. Inside the case, there are various items, including a large wooden sign, a small statue, and some papers. The people are dressed in casual attire, and the setting appears to be a convention or exhibition hall.

Our dear friend, Peter Huegel, is retiring from S.A.L.T. at the end of 2025. He has been a member for 10 years and a S.A.L.T. Board Member for the last 3 years. We will sorely miss him and his many talents and expertise!

Peter has been the liaison between S.A.L.T. and the Mineral Museum since our exhibit was opened there in December 2024.

We are looking for a volunteer liaison that would only need to update the exhibit with new items created by S.A.L.T. members every 6 months or so and make sure the Rockhounds have S.A.L.T. Brochures to hand out to their visitors. Please call Charlie at 602-524-6910 if you are interested!

BOOK RECOMENDATION by Mari Townsend

Several SALT members asked me about the book I purchased at the S'edav Va'aki gift shop. The book was co-authored by Chris Loendorf PhD. Chris is the advisor for the San Tan chapter of the Arizona Archaeological Society.

The book is easy to read and understand. I recommend it for all our SALT members to gain more knowledge of the people that built the Pueblo we call S'edav Va'aki. The authors are from our community, our circle of friends. Chris Loendorf can be seen at the San Tan chapter of the AAS meetings occasionally. Laurene Montero and Doug Mitchell are frequently spied at the museum at S'edav Va'aki. Barnaby Lewis is more elusive, but I have seen him with Chris Loendorf at San Tan AAS meetings, on occasion. The book can be purchased at the S'edav Va'aki gift shop for $29.00 and worth every penny for the knowledge you will glean.

About the book

S'edav Va'aki and the O'Odham: Sonoran Desert Farmers and Canal Builders is about the Ancestral O'Odham (previously called the Hohokam), people who built one of the largest and most sophisticated canal systems in the New World prior to the coming of Europeans. The book is written for the general public and describes how these desert farmers thrived for millennia in the Sonoran Desert of south-central Arizona.

S'edav Va'aki has long been an important and special place, home to many residential neighborhoods, communal areas, and public buildings constructed by the entire community. Over one hundred years of archaeological excavations at the village of S'edav Va'aki, a National Historic Landmark and museum, have led to fascinating discoveries that have shed new light on the past in the Southwest. This work has helped resolve many previous questions and we now know the O'Odham, Native Americans previously called the Papago and Pima, are descendants of the S'edav Va'aki residents. As shown here, by incorporating knowledge of the descendant O'Odham communities it is now possible to come to a much fuller and complete picture of prehistory and early history in the Phoenix Basin where S'edav Va'aki was located.

About the Authors

Dr. Chris Loendorf is the Senior Project Manager for the Gila River Indian Community Cultural Resource Management Program. He received his Doctorate from Arizona State University and has over 35 years of experience studying the Ancestral O'Odham.

Douglas R. Mitchell is a Research Associate at S'edav Va'aki Museum. He received his master's degree from Arizona State University. He has worked in England and northern Mexico but spent the majority of his 45-year career in Arizona archaeology.

Laurene G. Montero is a Research Associate at S'edav Va'aki Museum and former City of Phoenix Archaeologist. She received her master's degree from Arizona State University and has been a professional archaeologist in Arizona for the past 35 years.

Barnaby V. Lewis is the former Tribal Historic Preservation Officer for the Gila River Indian Community. He is an Akimel O'Odham elder who learned the songs and oral history of the tribe while growing up in the community. Loendorf, Mitchell, and Montero are also adjunct faculty in the School of Human Evolution and Social Change at Arizona State University.

About the Illustrator

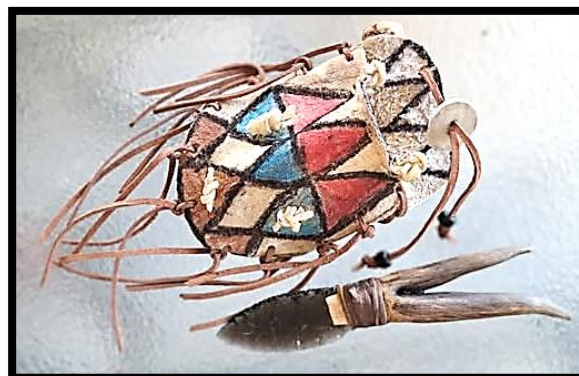

Robert B. Ciaccio has over 35 years of archaeological experience in southern Arizona. He has worked for Desert Archaeology, Inc. for over two decades, and his illustrations of prehistoric life have been internationally published. His goal is to bring the past to life in order to foster a better understanding of our shared humanity. The images he created for this book include Native American descendants of the Ancestral O'Odham.

BONE ARTIFACT by Mari Townsend

This is the bone artifact my mother found in our yard in rural Ohio in the 1950's. Our land was located at the top of a hill along the Ottawa River. This is one of several artifacts she found at this site. Mom called this a bone needle. Chris Loendorf called many pieces in my collection Archaic, but this bone cannot be that old to have survived. What are your thoughts? Feedback welcome.

PARFLECHE by Ron Moses

I was fortunate to receive a beautiful Bo Earls obsidian and antler knife and have wanted to protect it while showing it off. I have been doing parfleche creations over the last couple years, and a while back there were some unused odd size rawhide pieces that got stored in the freezer. These were being saved for that future project that you don't yet know about. Well, when digging in the freezer, I came upon that forgotten cache of rawhide and immediately knew why it was put there. The result is this parfleche belt sheath.

More Parfleche going on in the Old Ways Workshop. This is a pouch traditionally used to hold corn meal tributes for earth gifts.

WINTER COUNT

MARK YOUR CALENDARS FOR FEBRUARY 15-21, 2026

REGISTRATION OPENED NOVEMBER 1, 2025
Registration closed before it began!

Winter Count, (started 1995), is part of a family of gatherings that strive to reconnect people with old ways of making fire, tanning hides, forming metal, weaving baskets, hunting, gathering and much more. We teach ancestral skills that were essential to the survival and well-being of all cultures, no matter what continent your ancestors came from. Through the understanding and mastery of these skills, people find that they can connect not only to a simpler way of living life but also to the roots of their heritage and to a pathway to interact more deeply with the natural world.

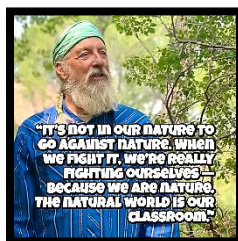

We provide a camp with some of the best instructors in their fields, teaching what they have learned through experience, experimentation and through source materials. Some of the instructors have spent many years perfecting their crafts. Some have managed archeological sites while others have lived deeply among the wild places, hunting, raising their own food and making their own clothing and tools from the most basic elements. We are a diverse group of people from many experiences, opinions, and family backgrounds, who come together to share what it is that makes us excited about life.

Winter Count is a drug, alcohol, and firearm free event.

Primitive wilderness survival

"It's not in our nature to go against nature. When we fight it, we're really fighting ourselves — because we are nature. The natural world is our classroom. We're part of the pattern, the organizers of our own experience. We recognize beauty in every sense because it's woven into who we are."-Holladay

Talked to Holladay and we've decided to open up a few more spots to the sold out "Echoes of the ancestors" class this February!

We have a massive venue and both of us are teaching so we're going to allow 4 more students in!

Message me to snag your spot or check out the link in my bio. — Dave Wescott

2026 Wuertz Farm Gourd Festival Update

Dear Valued Customers,

For 22 years the Wuertz family has put on the very popular Wuertz Farm Gourd Festival. You (our Gourd family) have been witness to our relationship growing, our business growing and even better our family growing!

With our kids' schedules growing and the realization of how quickly time is passing us by, we have made the very difficult decision to not have a gourd festival in 2026.

What does this mean for the future of the Wuertz Farm Gourd Festival? We aren't sure! Right now, we see all the things we keep wanting to do that end up on the back burner because of how much time festival planning takes up.

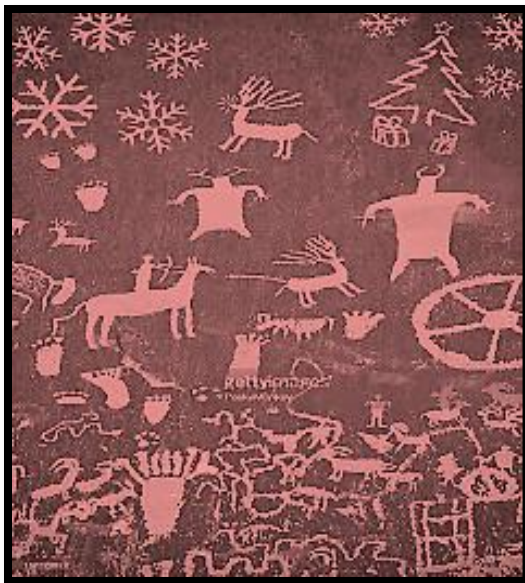

Since expanding our gourd shopping area, we have wanted to beautify the area and give it a little bit of the whimsical festival feel. We have also been wanting to expand our products, freshen up our store and expand our finished gourds for sale. The ideas are abundant; the time however has been hard to find.

We also must figure out where to store all the gourds that this year's crop is producing! It's the most acreage we have ever planted, and the gourds are looking amazing!

Thank you all for making our festival so successful that it has made stepping away (even if only for a year) extremely difficult.
