S.A.L.T. SKILL #15 EDIBLE PLANTS

MUSHROOMS with Bill Warner

The class is an introduction to mushroom hunting in Arizona, including a brief introduction to basic mushroom biology and morphology, mushroom toxins, and information on several of our easier-to-identify "known edible" species. It turns out that Arizona has excellent mushroom hunting, at least in wet years, with many of the classic "gourmet" edibles being represented, including porcini and other boletes, chanterelles, oyster and lobster mushrooms, shaggy manes, cauliflower and coral mushrooms, and dozens of others. The talk will provide a beginning mushroom forager with the basics of the how, when, where and a peak into the what to look for in useful macrofungi for our state.
