Alameda Native Brings Mobile Auto Detailing Service to Island Residents

Local entrepreneur Jaime Galindo has built Alameda Auto Spa around a simple idea: make professional vehicle care more convenient while keeping the business focused on the community he calls home.

ALAMEDA, Calif. — Alameda Auto Spa is a locally focused mobile auto detailing service serving residents and businesses throughout Alameda and Bay Farm Island. Founded by Alameda native Jaime Galindo, the business brings detailing services directly to customers rather than requiring them to leave their vehicles at a traditional shop.

The company provides interior and exterior detailing, paint protection and waxing, stain and odor removal, headlight restoration, maintenance detailing and related vehicle-care services. Customers can also send photos of their vehicle's interior and exterior by text to receive pricing before service begins.

"I'm from Alameda. I work in Alameda. My goal is to provide residents with a dependable, professional detailing service that genuinely cares about the community and the quality of work delivered."

"I wanted to build something local and personal," Galindo said. "When someone hires a local business, they should know the person behind it cares about the community and the work being done."

A LOCAL-FIRST APPROACH

Unlike businesses that travel across multiple cities, Alameda Auto Spa concentrates its service area on Alameda and Bay Farm Island. The mobile model is designed to give customers the convenience of having their vehicles serviced where they are.

The business operates seven days a week and is available for appointments throughout its service area.
