

Maat:

We have gathered in material form to express the very brilliance whom we are and no one else. We exist to win together. The way of ecology requires our brilliance.

Hierarchized binifications—insistence on viewing phenomena through a lens of binary assertions upon a plural reality—enculturated and woven into our cognitive frameworks for conceptually integrating limitless data streams, have born the deleterious historic effects of colonization as well as enslavement, forced labor, rape, murder and genocide as expressions of the war promoting bindings which hierarchy and binification place on the infinite mind, wearying the senses of the brilliant people. A theft of consciousness has ruptured the lenses through which we take in the data with which we collectively interact to co-create our dynamic lives and world.

To the pernicious conceptually imposed disharmonious thoughtform which disregulates the ecologies of creation in which and through whom we circulate life, by oversimplifying us into binaries; we must consider an alternative position of mental orientation which takes into account pluralities of data towards fully considerate and respectful reckoning with the fact that humanity can feel and is perfectly capable of warless states of beauty.

Cast off any semblance of disconnection between your regard for yourself and your innately accessible brilliant state of ecological wealth within a plurality of winning, which configures to serve each and everyone without exception.

Failure to exercise our full humanity to the nullifying degree which breeds atrocities such as the establishment of the “United States of America,” through errant limiting concepts of normalized abuse and violence must come to an end now, humanity. Customs which adopt for ourselves the same terms upon which wars are founded, built and perpetuated, customs fueled by circulations of fear, hatred, rage, faithlessness, vengeance, murderous rampages, manufacture and sale of weapons of mass destruction and the industrial desecration of our miraculous and sustaining Earth are neither ecological nor sustainable for humanity no matter what theory of macro nor microeconomics to which one subscribes.

Lift off.

Reform.

Orbit.

We encounter one another at the edge of the world.

For those of us who recall our birth visions, the intention across who's threshold we come at this present moment of our birth, invites synthesis of energies which are convergent with the birth vision intention of exceptionless collective winning. For those who are hazy in the recollections of our birth visions, engage in practices which cultivate well being, and let go of any learned habitual mental limitations which may be holding up a partition between your awareness and your whole self. You are needed.
