

Summer 2017

Number of Wildlife Patients Treated since 2009: > 17,300

“...responsible stewardship of wildlife and habitat.”

Hello Friends of Wildlife!

Another BIG year at WRCNU. Our strange weather has played an important part in the early production of babies. We have seen more baby mammals so far this year than we typically see in an entire year. Baby birds and mammals have been arriving earlier than normal and in large numbers. The craziness started as early as December during a “warmer than normal spell” when we took in and cared for three amphibious patients: two frogs and a Tiger Salamander. Each must have thought Spring came early ... OR ... they got wind of the Great “WRCNU Bed & Breakfast” and thought they’d spend winter indoors munching on our

Volunteer Recognition

Every year we treat thousands of injured wildlife patients and we can’t do it without our many amazing volunteers. While we have many, many stars that stand out we can only highlight a few at a time. The following are four of our “Lead Volunteers” each of which do more than the day-to-day “animal work”, but are also part of our Volunteer training team.

Debbye Boe has been with us since Feb 2013 and has given WRCNU over 1,200 hours of her time. Debbye is a reliable supporter giving to WRCNU at least twice each week (including many holidays). She also has become one of our primary Open House Guest Greeters each year. Thank you Debbye! ❤️

Alison Schenk has been with us since July 2014 and has given WRCNU over 1,050 hours of her time. Alison has also taken on facility pest control, Hazardous Chemical training, Fundraising and more. Thank you Alison! ❤️

Claudia Henricks has been with us since May 2016 and has given WRCNU over 720 hours of her time. Claudia was a huge part of our fundraising committee’s success this year, giving many extra hours of her time to this huge annual task. Thank you Claudia! ❤️

Lisa Stoneham has been with us since June 2016 and has given WRCNU over 460 hours of her time. Lisa is an amazing help even with her very heavy school schedule. Lisa was also on our Open House Committee to ensure its success. Thank you Lisa! ❤️

WRCNU’s 7th Annual Wildlife Baby Shower and Open House—another GREAT Success!

Hundreds participated; did you? Mark your calendars for our 8th Annual event set for April 27, 28, and 29th 2018. We thank all of our amazing sponsors and business supporters as well as our hardworking Open House Committee members for making this (again) the best event to date ... Each year it gets bigger and better!

Open House Survey: This year we are asking for your input to make our event even better in the form of a postcard survey sent out to our Silent Auction participants. So PLEASE, if you received a survey postcard, quickly fill it out and stick it back in the mail to us—Thank you!
