Farm Bureau Financial Services

Meet Crissie

Crissie has been a Farm Bureau agent since 2022 and is dedicated to helping individuals and families feel more confident in their overall financial wellbeing. She and her team take a personal, relationship focused approach—getting to know each client’s goals, understanding what matters most to them, and creating customized plans that support their insurance and financial needs. While many companies rely heavily on algorithms, Crissie believes that nothing replaces the value of genuine human connection. Building strong relationships with her client/members is the most rewarding part of her work.

Farm Bureau Financial Services plays a key role in supporting that mission. Through a wide range of insurance and financial solutions, the organization is committed to helping people protect what they’ve worked hard for and plan for the future with confidence. From safeguarding homes and farms to preparing for retirement and unexpected life events, Farm Bureau Financial Services provides the tools and guidance needed to build long-term security.

For anyone looking to protect their home, vehicles, family, farm, business, or long-term future, Crissie is ready to help. She welcomes the opportunity to talk through your needs and prepare for the unexpected together.

The Plan That Changed Everything

When Jordan bought his first home, he felt proud—but also overwhelmed. Between the mortgage, repairs, and everyday expenses, he worried about what might happen if life threw him a curveball. He knew he needed a plan but didn't know where to start.

A friend recommended meeting with a financial services professional who could help him sort through the noise. During their first conversation, Jordan was surprised by how much clarity he gained. They talked through his goals, his concerns, and the future he hoped to build. Together, they created a simple, realistic plan that protected his home and set him on a path toward long-term stability.

A few months later, an unexpected medical bill arrived—one that would have derailed him before. Thanks to the plan they built, Jordan had coverage and savings in place to handle it without panic. For the first time, he felt prepared instead of vulnerable.

With that weight lifted, Jordan could focus on enjoying his new home and planning for the future. Financial services didn't just give him policies—they gave him confidence, direction, and the peace of mind to move forward with purpose.
