"Holy Cow, It's March?!?" Edition

February/March 2020

Greetings!

Don't freak out, but Sunday is the first day of March. ;-) I thought we were supposed to "beware the Ides of March," because that's when Julius Caesar was assassinated, but ancient religions actually viewed the month as a time to celebrate rebirth and the new year.

Here in Long Beach, we've gotten a taste of summer with a few warmer days earlier this week, and now we're ready to pack up our puffy coats and break out the new Spring book releases.

Two books that I'm personally jazzed about are:

- Why We Can't Sleep by Ada Calhoun, called "a generation-defining exploration of the new midlife crisis facing Gen X women and the unique circumstances that have brought them to this point."
- Minor Feelings: An Asian American Reckoning by Cathy Park Hong which has been much-loved by our Bookstagram community and touted as "a ruthlessly honest, emotionally charged, and utterly original exploration of Asian American consciousness and the struggle to be human."

Photo: Jho and her new 'do with poet, entrepreneur and literary arts booster Nancy Lynée Woo. We love bookstore visitors and getting to meet the movers-and-shakers in the local arts community!

We'll have both available starting 3/1 at the bookstore, along with a whole range of amazing books to celebrate Women's History Month!

Check out our full calendar of author events, workshops and book club meetings this coming month. Hope to see you in-store and out and about!
