No.20 2nd Civil War

"It is our duty still to endeavor to avoid war; but if it shall actually take place, no matter by whom brought on, we must defend ourselves. If our house be on fire, without inquiring whether it was fired from within or without, we must try to extinguish it."

Thomas Jefferson to James Lewis, Jr., 1798

What lesson is to be learned by the 2022 midterms wherein Republicans garnered over 4 million more votes than Democrats yet the 'red wave' failed to materialize? I would posit the vote fraud infrastructure created by Mark Elias in 2020 was solidified and as such free and fair election are a thing of the past...unless Marxianity is contained or destroyed in the next two years leading up to November 2024. The 2024 election will determine the president and congress presiding over the last 18 months of human history as it is understood and it can be said with certitude the election will be the most consequential in history; determining who will be in control of the military and whether or not the United States fulfills its commission to protect Israel and the Holy Nation.

At best, the false religion of human intellectual arrogance will do as Lenin did in 2017 when after losing the first and last election in the Soviet Union nee Russia he simply abrogated the results. Make no mistake, Marxians fully intend to implement the final phase of Antonio Gramsci's Theory of Cultural Hegemony before 2024 and after sixty years of "praxis" (process) there will be a War of Maneuver i.e. violent revolution; a David and Goliath confrontation given Marxian control of the permanent state, the media, Big Tech, financial services, Wall Street, large corporations, Madison Avenue and the academy i.e. the classic definition of a fascist state...the Leviathan.

"[Montesquieu wrote in his Spirit of Laws, X,c.2:] 'The right of natural defense carries along with it sometimes the necessity of attacking; as, for instance, when one nation sees that a continuance of peace will enable another to destroy her, and that to attack that nation instantly is the only way to prevent her own destruction. Thence it follow that petty states have oftener a right to declare war than great ones, because they are oftener in the case of being afraid of destruction.'" Thomas Jefferson: copied into his Commonplace Book

Of all the pamphlets heretofore the 2nd Civil War, a 2nd War of Independence, is one to which Thomas Jefferson would insist upon lending a hand, or words, and as such many quotes will be by his hand starting with "Fear [is] the only restraining motive which may hold the hand of a tyrant" from his Rights of British America, 1774...fear God; the beginning of wisdom. With the Convergence Matrix empirically evidencing existence all should fear.

For those who believe God has turned His back on the United States and the battle for the soul of America has been lost, take heart; the God of Abraham/Sinai, Yeshua and 1776 has allowed the evil that is Marxianity free rein to accumulate overwhelming power before bringing the false religion to its knees just to make a point for all the world to see...at which time mankind will be forced to make the penultimate choice; choose God or lose all.

The 2nd Civil War now engaged in the United States is actually a critically important battlefield of the final confrontation between good and evil pitting those who adhere to the "Laws of Nature and of Nature's God" against those who do not; the false religion of human intellectual arrogance, Marxianity, posing as a political ideology in an incongruous alliance with a political ideology posing as a religion...Islam. Both seek the destruction of the Constitution so as to destroy the state of Israel and the Holy Nation. Consider Psalm 83: 2-6:

"O God, have no silence, do not be silent and do not be still, O God. For behold, Your enemies stir, and those who hate You raise their heads. Against Your people they plot cunningly, and they take counsel against Your protected ones. They said, "Come, let us destroy them from [being] a nation, and the name of Israel will no longer be remembered." For they have taken counsel with one accord; against You they form a pact."

What Americans are witnessing is a civil war, a holy war, declared by Marxianity and Islam in the 1960s when the civil rights movement was redefined as the seminal event in American history with insoluble race replacing class distinctions...while at the same time the Soviets created the "Palestinian" people and flag; the oppressed versus the oppressors. Neither of which have had solutions but rather both have been allowed to fester for decades to create cannon fodder for evil incarnate when the confrontation turns violent and existential.

One need only look at the red/blue political map to realize the closest historical analogs are medieval fiefdoms and the antebellum south where island centers of blue power and wealth are surrounded by vast swaths of red Marxians fully intend to subdue to create a physical plant for electrical power and a source of food. Do not shy away from the term civil war in that it is now up to Marxianity to decide whether the battle will be fought with ideas or lethal weapons...but it will be fought even though Marxians have a sixty year head start on preparation.

Every commander knows the importance of territory and like the Democrats before the Civil War, Democrats of today have for 60 years been attempting to expand both the number and power of slave states using illegal migrants to leverage seats in the House of Representatives; vote fraud writ large. In a strategy mirroring the successful Marxist seizure of South Africa in the name of racial equality and democracy, of late Marxian political power is expanding in direct proportion to the influx of Hispanics across the virtually open southern border.

History does indeed rhyme and Marxian Democrats steeped in historical determinations are well versed; a perverse slave trade has been resurrected by open border policies...human trafficking benefiting Marxians, the Chamber of Commerce and cartels at the expense of the citizens of the United States.

The policies of Obama and Biden created an incentive for human traffickers to prey on migrants who have been lured into a reality of physical abuse, sexual predation and exploitation of labor to pay their way to America. Marxians are the worst of predators in that they are willing to trade lives for political power and wealth as did Northerners who engaged in the slave trade before it was outlawed. Marxians decry and condemn the founders for the slave trade then but say nothing about the human trafficking that sustains illegal migration now.

In California, where Governor Gavin Newsom said the Republican Party was destined for the dustbin of history, a vocal secessionist movement arose with the 2016 election in a manner reminiscent of 1861 South Carolina. It was just one of many parallels to an antebellum south prideful as to its genteel and sophisticated aristocratic institutions; synonymous with Hollywood and High Tech elitists who live in gated luxury while average people struggle to pay mortgages, rents, fuel and food.

The most obvious secessionist strategy is nullification; "sanctuary" states have blatantly ignored federal laws with the most well-known being drug and immigration laws. The idea of nullification was actually introduced by Thomas Jefferson and supported by fellow James Madison; nullification held that the Constitution limits federal authority to narrowly defined enumerated powers and as such legislation enacted by congress exceeding those powers were unconstitutional and as such states have a right, and a duty, to make a judgment as to the constitutionality of a law and if unconstitutional refuse to enforce a law within the state.

Jefferson and Madison drafted the Kentucky and Virginia Resolutions later passed by the respective state legislatures in response to President John Adams ill-conceived Alien and Sedition Acts of 1798 which contributed to Jefferson defeating Adams to become the 3rd president. The difference between then and now goes to constitutionality; the Alien and Sedition Acts of 1798 were allowed to expire when reason prevailed, but today no reasonable person would suggest federal laws prohibiting controlled substances and illegal immigration can and should be nullified...and there is absolutely no debate as to federal authority to enforce both, but the sanctuary states simply respond 'become ungovernable'.

The nullification of immigration and drug laws by states and cities is a strategic component of Planned Chaos in the form of the enemy of my enemy is my friend; Marxians have no interest in social stability at the lower rungs of society the rich, prideful, sophisticated and genteel Hollywood and Silicon Valley California chic assiduously avoid. The California middle class is evaporating leaving a virtual two tier economy of desperately poor and obnoxiously wealthy behind the walls of gated communities who believe themselves to be morally superior, healthier and romantic; elites inclined to various causa sui virtue signaling endeavors, philanthropy at a distance, from inside a self-congratulatory bubble.

Like the southern aristocracy, the Marxian aristocracy distances itself from both the fields and the urban squalor; building islands of wealthy suburban enclaves from where a partnership with the environmental movement endeavors to restore nature to a pristine state dominates...with the result being green energy, the blocking of infrastructure projects and tearing down dams to insure the "natural" flow of water to keep the Delta Smelt alive while farms in the Central Valley wither and die.

The southern aristocracy did much the same in opposing public roads, bridges and canals which would bring the unwelcome federal government; California infrastructure has been neglected for years and yet a virtue signaling high speed rail to nowhere managed to consume tens of billions with no start date in sight after twelve years.

California in and of itself is a peculiar institution with the wealthy privileged few dictating the terms of society to massive numbers of struggling poor with little in between...and just like the aristocracy of the antebellum south the children of the elites attend elite academies while the children of fully one third of the nation's welfare recipients, and many more living at subsistence levels, attend failing schools that indoctrinate more than educate. Subsistence and lack of education were the principle weapons of control used by the slave holders along with fear. California claims the largest share of federal welfare dollars, the public schools are a disaster and Californians fear being one paycheck away from the crime and drugs of growing homelessness the citizens of the "golden state" see every day.

California Marxians proudly proclaim an economy that is the 8th largest in the world but contrary to Obama it can be demonstrably proven Marxians didn't build that; California was built by hard working people from all over the world who first flocked to the gold fields then stayed in the most beautiful place on earth to ranch, farm, plant orchards, build railroads, industries, cities, towns, communities...and Disneyland.

The population of California exploded after WW2 and the spoiled “boomers” with no connection to the heartland set about consuming their inheritance; California in the 1960’s will be remembered at the end of history as ground zero in the assault against Judeo-Christian America not to mention the tech oligarchs and Imaginarium elites from that generation will be remembered as the cotton kings of California’s peculiar institution.

What is often missing from the discussion of slavery in the antebellum south is the deeper implication of preserving the slaveholders aristocratic lifestyle; Democrats engaged then and are engaging now in social engineering designed to benefit a chosen elite few at the expense of all others and once again slaves will have to be freed...this time by a new breed of Democratic-Republicans. The idea of the Democratic plantation is not a thesis the academy and the conservative aristocracy care to consider even though simple common sense demands they do so...especially given the aforementioned maps of red/blue counties.

The issue is far more complex than the also to be expected Marquis de Queensberry approach to the subject as exemplified by roving correspondent for the National Review Kevin Williamson article titled ‘The Plantation Theory’ i.e. the reference is a “repugnant and condescending” trope that like ubiquitous Nazi and Hitler false equivalences is “sloppy thinking” that should be “verboten”. Perhaps considering the many parallels and patterns of the matrices he and other likeminded elites might reconsider.

‘The Plantation Theory’ as an apologetic makes valid points as to black Americans being denied access to the free market and as such receptive to the New Deal which shifted the entire black voting bloc to the Democratic Party; risk adverse blacks liked the safety net which explains why the estimation of socialism is higher in the black subculture than capitalism requiring risk.

The article provides a reason for loyalty to the Democrats but fails to provide a rationale for allowing the safety net to be transformed into a hammock costing an amount equal to the national debt since Johnson said “I’ll have those niggers voting Democratic for 200 years” ...the Democratic Plantation as described by a southern Democrat.

‘The Plantation Theory’ inadvertently touched upon an aspect of the plantation effectively expanding the debate when noting that women in general are also receptive to the safety net which serves as a segue to touch upon defenses erected by neo-Marxists centered on race. Apologists point out there are more whites, mainly single white mothers, on welfare than blacks avoiding the per capita truth thus providing a shield of invisibility protecting both the black subculture from criticism and by extension the equally dysfunctional women of the millennial generation; two wrongs within the welfare state...single mothers and rampant obesity obfuscated.

On the other hand, in an excerpt from his must read "Death of a Nation: Plantation Politics and the Making of the Democratic Party" titled '5 Phases of the Democratic Plantation' Dinesh D'Souza takes a comprehensive walk through history making a compelling argument the Democratic Plantation not only exists, it integral to Democratic Party planning. One reference D'Souza makes is of special note as it concerns the genealogy and shared logic of socialism; the most powerful intellectual defending the South's peculiar institution of slavery in the 19th century was socialist George Fitzhugh.

George Fitzhugh wrote the first known English-language book to use the word "sociology" in its title...Sociology for the South. Fitzhugh, a true blood socialist, was an equal opportunity slaver who believed people of any color should be enslaved by their superiors, writing in the Richmond Inquirer:

"Nature has made the weak in mind or body slaves ... The wise and virtuous, the strong in body and mind, are born to command" "The principle of slavery is in itself right, and does not depend on difference of complexion". Compare the words to Marx in his "The Poverty of Philosophy":

"Without slavery, North America, the most progressive of countries, would be transformed into a patriarchal country. Wipe out North America from the map of the world and you will have anarchy, the complete decay of modern commerce and civilization. Abolish slavery and you will have wiped America off the map of nations."

"Slavery is a form, and the very best form, of socialism" wrote Fitzhugh, "Socialism, proposes to do away with free competition; to afford protection and support at all times to the laboring class; to bring about, at least, a qualified community of property, and to associate labor. All these purposes, slavery fully and perfectly attains. ... Socialism is already slavery in all save the master ... Our only quarrel with Socialism is that it will not honestly admit that it owes its recent revival to the failure of universal liberty, and is seeking to bring about slavery again in some form".

On that note Fitzhugh was prescient...and history is waiting for mankind to recognize that truth. Marxism does not speak to the creation of wealth but the theology is not shy about advocating the eradication of peoples and cultures that did not contribute to history or enslaving those unwary lesser peoples and cultures.

D'Souza recognized the plantations had shifted from the rural south to the urban north and coasts when the Civil Rights Act was passed in 1965 and "LBJ saw the opportunity to create a new type of plantation in which blacks could be exploited in a different way. On this plantation they had a different casting role, not as exploited workers who did not vote but rather as exploited voters who did not work".

Marx was wrong; slavery came to America to die at the cost of hundreds of thousands just as Fitzhugh was wrong in his shared disdain for truly liberal enlightenment thinkers like Jefferson to whom equality before the law was paramount...hence Civil Rights legislation.

Unfortunately, the Civil Rights Act became a weapon in the hands of neo-Marxists who redefined the movement as the seminal event in American history. The national debt is fast approaching $30T due to the government plenary overreaction to “expert” projections of over 2 million dead Americans; closing the economy due to a virus even the CDC now admits is no more deadly than a bad flu season...if the actual Covid deaths were reported accurately. Not letting a crisis go to waste, Covid was used to justify mass mail in voting to remove the unlike Cyrus Trump.

The end result is that as of 2021 discretionary funds are nothing more than sleight of hand and a choice will have to be made between defense and the plantation, and if the choice is the welfare state, China will have eliminated far more American military assets with a virus than the Japanese did at Pearl Harbor.

Defense is not a priority for Marxians but the plantation is and its survival depends upon expanding slavery into as many states as possible to secure the House of Representatives which is a strategy denied to southern slave holders by the 3/5th compromise...a compromise as to counting slaves for the purpose of representation in the House of Representatives Marxians use to vilify the founders in one of the most egregious slanders of historic deconstruction. The 3/5th compromise 1) forced the slave holders to concede blacks were human beings as to representation, and 2) was designed to limit the congressional power of slave holders with an eye on the eventual elimination of slavery.

Marxianity has virtually opened the southern border to illegal migrants; insisting upon expansive voting schemes impervious to audit and successfully challenging a common sense question on the census that goes to the heart of representation; are you a citizen?

Unlike the Democrats of the old south, Marxian Democrats for over 50 years have not only managed maintain but expand the plantation system to include dependent whites and Hispanics at the expense of blacks. There are now upwards of 43 million illegal migrants which translates to 61 seats in the House of Representatives equaling the 61 for black Americans; workers versus dependents which reduces blacks to second class political tools in the ever calculating eyes of the false religion Marxianity.

To put the implications in perspective, illegal migrants in California now have more votes in the House of Representatives than 22 states combined and in every instance the balance of power has shifted to Democrats including 22 midterm elections that were Republican victories when 2018 midterm voting ended but flipped over the next days and weeks due to vote harvesting.

It is the clustering which evidences the last, but most important, analogy to the years leading to and including 1861; Democrats have effectively seceded from the Union to preserve the peculiar institution of “sanctuary” plantations in open defiance of federal immigration law. There are over 500 “sanctuary” cities and jurisdictions which have elected to ignore federal immigration laws mandating illegal migrants detained by authorities, even for criminal activity, are not to be reported to federal authorities ostensibly for humanitarian and safety concerns e.g. immigrants must not be afraid to call the police to report crime for fear of deportation is the most prevalent reason. The effect of cities, jurisdictions and states ignoring federal law is the same process central to the secessionist movement in 1861.

The perverse irony of the rhyme across history goes to weaponization of Civil Rights; Marxians are quick to accuse anybody who might threaten their agenda to be racist or phobic as a strategy specifically designed to channel all criticism of their policies and the resulting dysfunction into narrow but manageable channels. With gender identity, men in women’s sports and blatantly racist Critical Race Theory Marxians crossed a clear line delineating ideology from reason and have set to work divesting half the country of their civil rights...and the strategy is beginning to fold.

Marxians turned Washington DC into an armed camp for two reasons; send a message the military is under Marxian control...and well founded genuine fear. The same applies to the tech oligarchies desperately trying to shape the narrative using censorship; acutely aware of the precarious hold they have on the plantation. There is probably no better example of self-preservation than the print media that now asserts any criticism of their work to be violence, harassment, suppression, abuse and even threats to physical safety warranting cultural stigmatizing, cancellation, banning and legal sanction, both civil and criminal. America is fast becoming a fascist tyranny wherein the government requires its citizens to affirm a man is a woman simply because he “feels” he is a woman and declares it to be so...but don’t mention God publically.

The final bitter irony of the rhyme is the role played by black Africans in the seven decades before 1860 and the seven decades leading to this second inevitable Civil War; the Democrats fought then and are fighting now to keep blacks upon the plantation even imposing an unwritten Fugitive Slave Act; black Americans who dare to leave the plantation and identify first as Americans are flogged mercilessly as “house niggers” by actual “house niggers” in the media and the masters of Marxianity in politics, the Imaginarium and academia who deign tell them what to do, say and think.

In his book "America Aflame" Professor David Goldfield came to a number of conclusions about the Civil War comparing the political divide then and now; Goldfield deemed the Civil War, America's greatest failure, the result of religion fusing with politics thus eliminating the political center. Religion, specifically evangelical Christianity, "poisoned the political process" i.e. moderation and compromise essential to a political center was rendered virtually impossible by religious "how do you compromise with sin" moral certainty i.e. "By transforming political issues into moral causes, you raise the stakes of the conflict and you tend to demonize your opponents"

Goldfield cites the "Second Great Awakening" which can be traced to the same year the Constitution was inaugurated in 1789; 72 years before the start of the Civil War. The "Second Great Awakening" was a Protestant revival that reached its peak in the decades before the Civil War manifesting as an appeal to emotion and the supernatural, rejecting the deism and enlightenment rationalism of Jefferson. Converts believed the Awakening heralded a new age of man...not realizing the churches were opening the door to a parasitic false religion born in 1843 that would prey on utopian dreams.

The North and the South would both frame their positions and cause in terms of religious certainty accusing the other side as being sinners...the center disappeared and the Civil War ensued. Goldfield concludes "Today's government gridlock results, in part, from this religious mindset that many issues can be divided into good and evil and sin and salvation". As with most histories of the Civil War, his is written in Union blue barely conceding an absolutely morally certain north ignored the Constitution in an effort to not only defeat but punish the southern states; states which could do little more than desperately grasp at scriptural straws to defend the indefensible as northern abolitionists sought to vote slavery out of existence.

Northern abolitionists believed they were morally justified in divesting, without compensation, property specifically protected in the Constitution; spending massive amounts of money campaigning to persuade and yet never seriously addressed the subject of manumission which would have cost less than half the cost of the war itself had slaveholders been willing to sell which most, even in the north, were not. One reviewer opined of Goldfield's analysis of the Civil War in a way that speaks volumes:

"The price of that failure was horrific, but the carnage accomplished what statesmen could not: It made the United States one nation and eliminated the divisive force of slavery. The victorious North moved ahead, a land of innovation and industry. Religion was supplanted by a gospel of economic and scientific progress, and the South was left behind."

The price of the Civil War was indeed horrific; the Civil War was fought between the aristocrats of the north and south with the masses caught between paying the price for the war in blood...mirroring the European religious wars the founders had fought to put behind the new country. Thereafter the focus upon Christianity lends to narrative rather than history. The perception the north as "a land of innovation and industry" supplanting religion with "a gospel of economic and scientific progress, and the South was left behind" certainly describes the rise of libertarians but at the same time creates an odd juxtaposition; the vast industrial might of the north long predated the Civil War leaving the distinct impression Goldfield's entire exercise is designed to define the Christian religion as an impediment to progress.

In the context of Christianity as negative influence and an impediment to progress the thesis is hauntingly familiar to the neo-Marxist revisionism of Howard Zinn rather than the truth as Russell Kirk noted in Academic Freedom: An Essay in Definition:

"In medieval times, the learned man, the teacher was a servant of God wholly, and of God only. His freedom was sanctioned by an authority more than human...The academy was regarded almost as a part of the natural and unalterable order of things. ... They were Guardians of the Word, fulfilling a sacred function and so secure in their right. Far from repressing free discussion, this "framework of certain key assumptions of Christian doctrine" encouraged disputation of a heat and intensity almost unknown in universities nowadays. ...They were free from external interference and free from a stifling internal conformity because the whole purpose of the universities was the search after an enduring truth, besides which worldly aggrandizement was as nothing. They were free because they agreed on this one thing if, on nothing else, fear of God is the beginning of wisdom."

History does indeed rhyme, and the elements of the poetry over time suggest the arrogant intellectual poets morphed from principled enlightenment thought and reason reaching its apex with Jefferson into purely secular postmodernist rationalizations presaged by Rousseau who naively asserted men were inherently moral...culminating with Karl Marx; an angry false prophet who set aside his Jewish heritage and set upon destroying the impenetrable wall of Judeo-Christianity that stood in the way of his admitted communist religion.

When Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn concluded the horrors of Soviet and the deaths of 60 million of its own citizens could be reduced to "Men have forgotten God, that's why this has happened" his warning was not restricted to the Soviet Union, Nazi Germany, Cambodia and China; the existence of God has been removed from political calculations in the west and it can happen here if Americans fail to rise. The conflagration evil seeks includes a race war Marxians are actively fomenting...visible from the higher vantage and from ground level.

It is virtually impossible for those who would preserve and defend the Constitution to mention God without being excoriated by the academy, media and Imaginarium; virtues and morality are relative to those with foundation of ever shifting sand...but both virtue and morality are absolutes to those who embrace an extant Creator with certitude.

Professor Goldfield, concerned with government gridlock, a poisoned political process, no moderation, no compromise and the labeling of the opposition as evil unworthy of self-governance by a religiously uncompromising system of belief, certainly realizes the false religion Marxianity is far more influential than the discordant and often compromised Christian churches, hence far more dangerous.

The truth be known, it is Marxianity that started this Manichean holy war and it is Marxians who seek to destroy Christianity. Many will have already noticed the irony of a declaration of war, a holy war traditionally fought one religion against another for primacy, being answered by standard bearers hoisting the colors of reason and certitude; adhering to the "Laws of Nature and of Nature's God" independent of religious institutions in that the time of religion has passed. The religion of human intellectual arrogance Marxianity insisting upon a holy war and it has an answer with this writing; if they want a war, let it begin here.

"We do, then, most solemnly before God and the world declare that regardless of every consequence, at the risk of every distress, the arms we have been compelled to assume we will use with perseverance, exerting to their utmost energies all those powers which our Creator hath given us to preserve that liberty which he committed to us in sacred deposit and to protect from every hostile hand our lives and our properties."

Thomas Jefferson: Declaration on Taking Up Arms, 1775

A Civil War of ideas if Marxianity will allow but a war none the less to preserve and protect the Constitution of the United States and by extension Israel until 2026 in accord with the words of Yeshua; "Do not think I came to bring peace to the world. I did not come to bring peace, but the sword". Those who answer the call will first have to organize lest a million stones, cast from a million hands from a million directions be reduced to naught.

Not Secession but CommonSenseCession

"Were we to give up half our territory rather than engage in a just war to preserve it, we should not keep the other half long."

Thomas Jefferson: Instructions to William Carmichael, 1790

American patriots have an uphill battle to fight against the Leviathan made worse by small 'r' republicans and libertarians incapable of calling a spade a spade e.g. Marxians that treat them as enemies and seek to slander, libel, cancel and eliminate them are in fact enemies. For that reason this civil war will require a new breed of Republicans hearkening back beyond Abraham Lincoln to the America of Thomas Jefferson and John Adams; Democratic-Republicans to whom honor and principle are no more negotiable than the "Laws of Nature and of Nature's God" by measure...to supplement the first and most important measure:

"The Torah and moral law of Sinai, Yeshua as a precisely defined messiah of purpose, the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States, republican governance as defined by Jefferson and Adams, are the benchmarks by which all else is to be measured; gone are the debates as to every belief system on earth having equal stature."

The foundation has been detailed and the reason provided...the God of Abraham/Sinai, Yeshua and 1776 did not provide evidence of existence and the needed definition of history in history to have the evidence ignored.

The current republican breed is not only useless and feckless but also part of the existing political infrastructure and as such unwilling if not downright terrified of upsetting the status quo...when the utter destruction of Marxianity is the only way to protect and defend the Constitution. A "...a decent respect to the opinions" of small 'r' republicans and libertarians requires an understanding of the situation at hand that in turn requires going to the beginning to understand the end...to once and for all set aside the idea America is irredeemably evil and racist with the truth in the context of a plan nearing an end.

With America evenly divided as was prophesied and on the brink of hot war if the cold war of ideas proves fruitless there is nothing more important than objective truth given the context provided by the Convergence Matrix with its measures i.e. now that the God of Abraham/Sinai, Yeshua and 1776 has evidenced existence there will be a very real price to pay for deceit and lies. At the top of the list are those in the media acting as the propaganda arm of Marxianity and the big tech censors. Only the truth will save them and their followers.

The truth will not come easy and regardless of the effort made it is impossible to have the whole truth, nothing but the truth, so help you God...which means the search for the truth must be redoubled and relentless. Often the truth begins as a patchwork and only by using common sense to connect the dots will the truth be known; it took minutes to unlock the first paragraph of the matrices and then years to piece together the message. It was a message in plain sight and the only answer to why it remained hidden...it was not the appointed time.

Without going through all the details suffice it to say the timing of Yeshua had everything to do with the fall of the second temple in 70AD approximately 800 years after the Assyrian diaspora which spread those who had their DNA imprinted by fear of God at Sinai across Europe; Northern Africa and the Levant. Did you know there were just 2 million Jews in Judea when the temple fell but another 5 million elsewhere? It was part of a plan to build the house promised to David in 1 Chronicles 17:

"And it will come to pass when your days are finished to go with your forefathers, then I shall raise up your seed after you, who will be of your sons, and I shall establish his kingdom. He will build Me a house, and I shall establish his throne forever. I shall be to him as a father, and he will be to Me as a son, and I shall not remove My loving-kindness from him as I removed [it] from he who was before you. And I shall station him in My house and in My kingdom forever, and his throne shall be established forever."

The house built by "as a son" Yeshua was western civilization; at times a house of horrors thanks the Trinitarian Catholic Church created by Athanasius; identified as evil incarnate in the first paragraph along with Mohammed and Marx/Engels. A concise summary of western civilization is leading to the founding of the United States is squeezed between the births of Mohammed and Marx/Engels...the final confrontation at hand in microcosm.

The last date in the historical summary is 1570 and Elizabeth 1 of England breaking with the Catholic Church and the creation of an island refuge for Protestants. It would be from England white Anglo-Saxon Protestants would emigrate to what would be the United States 200 years later. From the higher vantage where God exists and time fuses with history and Judaic scripture that the incredibly unlikely reestablishment of Israel is clearly the very reason for the United States; reestablishment and protection unto 2026 exactly 250 years after 1776.

Perhaps in that context one might better understand why for 60 years white Anglo-Saxon Protestants have been a primary target of the false religion Marxianity. There is no arguing the fascist Leviathan has turned the full weight of the federal government against those who oppose; denying equal protection before the law and creating preferred classes. As such the question of "[W]hen a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security" becomes operative.

How much is too much is addressed in an essay titled 'What Does Fidelity to Our Founding Principles Require Today?' by Michael Anton. To wit:

Finally, what does the denial of this right entail? What would it force us to do or accept? Anything and everything? Where are the limits?

The Declaration of Independence says “while evils are sufferable,” clearly implying that at some point evils cease to be sufferable. But are we to understand that insight to be wrong? Are we to accept all evils as sufferable—forever? Are we required to suffer them? God commands us to accept a certain amount of suffering as the price of living in His creation. Does He also command us to accept eternal torment from the hands of wicked men?

The implicit—and sometimes explicit—conservative answer appears to be “yes.” Turn the other cheek. Bend the knee. Endure your beatings. Forever. For if there is no recourse to a higher principle or law, then there is no other choice. To borrow from Machiavelli, the “effectual truth” of conservative pusillanimity about the right of revolution is perpetual self-subjugation to tyranny.

The conservatives justify this counsel of perpetual passivity with the observation that things can always get worse. But things can also be made better, by the actions of men. It is the office of prudent men to discern when things are bad enough that action is justified, or even obligatory, and to devise a plan propitious of success. It is the office of the conservatives to ensure that such thoughts are never thought, and punished when they are.

And more to the point:

“Is the right of revolution ever justified? Was it justified only that one time, in 1776, but never again? If so, why was it justified then and what makes it unjustifiable ever again? Because of historicism? Because the American Revolution was somehow an irreversible leap forward?

Is it that you think things can't ever get bad enough to justify recourse to this right, or merely that they won't? Is there some deep structural reason for America's privileged position, or is our miraculous continued good fortune merely your expectation? If the latter, then you are implicitly admitting, at least in theory, that the right of revolution might, at some point, be justified—and that it has not been obviated by “history.”

There is a critical distinction to be made as to difference between Democratic-Republicans who seek to preserve the Constitution versus Marxians who want to replace it with a social justice blank check piece of paper like that of South Africa so admired by Obama and Ruth Bader Ginsberg. It is as Abraham Lincoln said: "We the people are the rightful masters of both Congress and the courts, not to overthrow the Constitution but to overthrow the men who pervert the Constitution." Democratic-Republicans now have a platform with the pamphlets and a vehicle in CommonSenseCession to evict Marxians from Washington DC and there is no time to waste.

In a response to Michael Anton, Peter Berkowitz wrote 'Fidelity to Our Founding Principles Requires Conserving the Constitution' and made the following observation: "In the face of all lesser dangers to freedom – including ineptitude, corruption, and decadence – doesn't fidelity to America's founding principles require the hard work of maintaining families, building associations within civil society, forming majority coalitions, winning elections, and engaging in lawful reform rather than the armed resistance and violent seizure of power essential, Anton emphasizes, to the revolution of 1776?"

Berkowitz is spot on as to work that will be necessary within the states in CommonSenseCession but he fails to recognize Marxianity for the evil that it is...and the ominous potential for violent revolution the theology of the false religion calls for in the end. Aside from the fact Marxians are on the wrong side of the end of history and doomed to inevitable failure there is life in the interim wherein, ironically, their petite revolution will be as it was in summer 2020 when Marxian cities bore the brunt of the "mostly peaceful" riots that inflicted more than $2 billion in damage; damage that in the future can be contained to the same cities with militias authorized by law to act in the absence of titular law enforcement with the same protections afforded police officers.

CommonSenseCession will draw heavily upon the same nullification strategy embraced by Marxian states but with a difference; nullification to enforce the Constitution rather than circumvent to law e.g. immigration laws will be enforced and the various pieces of legislation detailed in the pamphlets series passed, including the Kate Steinle Illegal Migrant Registration Act and the American vote Integrity Act. Doing so will require public debates and the said legislation for the entire world to see and for good reason.

"It has a great effect on the opinion of our people and the world to have the moral right on our side."

Thomas Jefferson to James Madison, 1809

After the 2020 elections Marxianity spoke as one voice to decry what the false religion termed an “insurrection” meant to disrupt the peaceful transfer of power that defines the American republic when in truth Marxians seek the end of the republic...there is no truth in them. The primary reason for the timing of the Convergence Matrix goes to the failure of the Christian church to teach the gospel to every nation and the failure of Americans to fulfill the role of the shining city on a hill to lead, not rule over, lesser people’s and cultures.

With the message written across the tablet of time evidencing 1776 was the third direct intervention by God to provide instruction to mankind there is a once in history opportunity to fulfill the objectives of a plan none have ever been able to define until now; establish republic Jefferson and Adams would endorse, relight the beacon of hope to the world by example...and by extension expose all mankind to the gospel and let individuals decide.

Marxians will rail at the idea and accuse Democratic-Republicans of proselytizing which is pure projection e.g. Marxians fly the rainbow pride and Black Lives Matter flags at embassies while conditioning aid to acceptance of ideology entirely foreign, and often offensive, to the host countries. It would have been far better long ago to simply place a plaque with the translated words of the Declaration of Independence outside every embassy and then leave the people to their own devices rather than pursue the utopian dream of making the world “safe for democracy” or to “end tyranny in our world” as George W. Bush proclaimed to be the policy of the United States in his second inaugural address. The people of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam would be familiar given the first line of their declaration of Independence quotes Jefferson almost verbatim.

When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.—That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed,—That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness.

Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security.

The fact that Jefferson capitalized the "Laws of Nature and of Nature's God" as is the way of Judaic scholars to convey deference to God indicated the words were meant to be a measure. Russia just recently passed by a vote of 397 votes to none with no abstentions legislation in their lower house, the DUMA, nicknamed (as Marxians did in Florida with "don't say gay") the "Answer to Blinken" law which prohibits LBGT propaganda. The Russians and the majority of the world's people are not accepting of the LGBTQ+ lifestyle and trans identity; believing correctly that the accepting the violation of natural law and the inability to confront the so called anti-racism movement is weakness and decadence they want nothing to do with.

The same distance applies to Judeo-Christians; one cannot be a Christian and a Marxist at the same time and that includes associating with the LGBTQ+ and trans identity communities. Separation has been an effective tool used by G+d across the entire history of mankind and in the case of CommonSenseCession will no doubt be labeled racist and white supremacist by Marxianity providing substantial evidence separation is the best possible course of action in that Marxianity detests anything G+d may approve.

With CommonSenseCession the negative influences of Marxianity and those who subscribe to the false religion will face a formidable opponent in Judeo-Christian warriors who refuse to submit or associate. Freedom of association is a basic right for good reason as Paul said in 1 Corinthians 15:33: Do not be deceived: "Bad company corrupts good morals." Frédéric Bastiat said it best in his classic The Law:

"But we assure the socialists that we repudiate only forced organization, not natural organization. We repudiate the forms of association that are forced upon us, not free association. We repudiate forced fraternity, not true fraternity. We repudiate the artificial unity that does nothing more than deprive persons of individual responsibility. We do not repudiate the natural unity of mankind under Providence."

I make no apologies to those who have succumbed to LGBTQ+ and trans identity theology any more than the jot and tittle I refuse to extend to the black subculture in that if there is no stepping away from what is obviously at odds with the God of Abraham/Sinai, Yeshua and 1776 they will lose their blessing, their souls and any chance to realize an eternity of possibilities...consigned instead to endlessness separated from God.

It has been said revolution is in the American DNA but what does that mean when half trace the imperative to the founding fathers and colonists who fought not only for freedom from Britain but also to, as Berkowitz wrote, "...to preserve their moral, religious, and political inheritance" while the other half can trace their identities to the Jacobins of the French Revolution? Ironically, Berkowitz also wrote "Anton finds repellent much of the America in which he lives. His conviction that rot pervades the nation puts him in some respects closer in spirit to the French revolutionaries who aspired to not only change the regime but to effect, as Edmund Burke wrote in "Reflections on the Revolution in France," "a revolution in sentiments, manners, and moral opinions.""

Berkowitz concludes his response to Anton by writing "Even amid gross abuses of power, shameless policy promiscuity, and the widespread politicization of education, Americans continue to enjoy greater freedom than citizens at most any other time and in most any other place. Therefore, reforming rather than overthrowing American government is not only prudent but also required by the nation's founding principles.'

Berkowitz and Anton are both right and wrong to various degrees but what they lack is certitude; a God that placed His personal imprimatur upon the founding document and the United States itself does not enter into their calculations; neither is willing to accept the Manichean nature of this winner take all confrontation. It would seem both would have been better served if a vision of America après armed conflict with Marxianity was detailed in that there is only one logical outcome of a Marxian victory.

"Fascism is the stage reached after communism has proved an illusion." Friedrich von Hayek

How difficult would it be to consistently point out Marxism has nothing to offer as to creating wealth but rather begins with the seizure or control of the means of production and transportation after which the individual fades into the background as a mere cog in the machinery...given creating wealth is an individual endeavor.

Anton is right to conclude there is a pervasive rot permeating America but it can be reversed if first defined in an understandable way...counterbalanced by the reality of an inevitable end in 2026. Across the entirety of western civilization and Anglosphere people have come to depend on the political process and government for solutions even though time and again the process has failed to upgrade infrastructure, create jobs, education, etcetera, when the historical imperative and vehicle was local or private...and often successful despite the state rather than because of it. It does no good to decry massive government spending, regulation and intrusion until one accepts the state is a parasite that drains the life blood of society as a whole while producing nothing tangible.

Within the span of 130 years Americans went from something new under the sun, the middle class and leisure time, to comfortable complacency in large part due to Popular Culture Psychosis (PCP) inducing toxin immobility which in turn has allowed a self-righteous, dangerous and intellectually arrogant theology to arrogate political power to an exclusive club of elites. Those Marxian elites have created an American dependent class numbering over 60% of the citizenry; dependents who like children look to the state for lasting life problem solutions and willing to vote accordingly thus providing the margin of election wins to keep Marxians in power.

What now seems to be winning strategy is actually Marxianity's greatest weakness in that with the national debt exceeding $30T Cloward/Piven are at the doorstep but American workers, Democratic-Republicans are in a position to slam the door. The 30-31 states in CommonSenseCession need only engage in civil disobedience as to the federal government and if threatened with violence cut off the power and cease the transportation of goods until the process of dismantling the federal government according to a favorite Michael Anton quote begins:

"Our founders sought to establish the weakest possible federal government capable of performing its essential functions, for three fundamental and intertwined reasons. First, government is inherently dangerous, so the less power it has, the better. Second, the states—being closer to the people and more responsive to regional differences and needs—are better equipped to handle most matters than a far-off centralized administration. Third, the states were prior to the federal government; the people, through their states, created the latter to serve them, not the other way around."

"According to the parchment (the Constitution), the federal government is supposed to field and fund an army and navy, protect the borders, make treaties, regulate foreign trade and interstate commerce, maintain a sound common currency...and that's about it."

Make no mistake as to what lengths the evil that is Marxianity will go to in order to defeat those who stand in the way. It is as Sun Tzu warned: "An evil enemy, will burn his own nation to the ground...to rule over the ashes"

The first act of massive retaliation against Marxianity would be the reintroduction of the God of Abraham/Sinai, Yeshua and 1776 into the Public Square and classrooms as history using the Convergence Matrix. It is important to remember that Yeshua in 2026 Jerusalem does not mean the end of history but human history as it is understood...life will go on and it is incumbent upon Americans to have solutions in hand or in progress.

Two of the proposed legislations, the American Family Homestead Act (AFHA) and the Kate Steinle Illegal Migrant Registration Act (IMRA), are in perfect accord in that building millions of family homes will require millions of workers...who if here legally will not be out of place and threatening the Constitution in 2026. In addition, there is enough leeway in the home financing to stipulate 'Made in America' materials. Both acts provide an incentive to work, will create millions of manufacturing and construction jobs while also allowing a step away from the debt precipice.

Even the imminently appropriate titled Generation Z will have a measure of what true fairness is with the Executive Compensation Act; designed to release trillions into nature's economy. Then there is the Main Street Initiative to revitalized city centers and the Urban Renaissance Corps not only get the homeless off the street but train them for the world to come. The time of religion has passed and that includes Marxianity.

The Young Jacobins across all of western civilization, America in particular, have been divested and invested at the same time with HaShem no longer subject to debate; divested of the idea there is no price to pay for license and fully invested in deciding on an individual basis whether or not endlessness or an eternity of possibilities will be their fate. As Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn concluded... Young people are acquiring the conviction that foul deeds are never punished on earth, that they always bring prosperity.

That the young Jacobin fascists are morally and ideologically bankrupt is evidenced by the mindless answer to a call for revolution with no clear vision of the future; putting faith in a false religion openly advocating violence and the suppression of speech rather than engaging and debating ideas. Theirs is a strategy that will end one way or the other with this writing; a verbis ad verbera, from words to blows, in that blows in defense of the Constitution are far more than a virtue...blows have become a duty.

'Because half-a-dozen grasshoppers under a fern make the field ring with their importunate chink, whilst thousands of great cattle, reposed beneath the shadow of the British oak, chew the cud and are silent, pray do not imagine that those who make the noise are the only inhabitants of the field; that of course they are many in number; or that, after all, they are other than the little shriveled, meager, hopping, though loud and troublesome insects of the hour.'

Sir Edmund Burke

And then there is the Black Robed Regiment and One Faith-One Voice to transform churches into centers of learning. Lincoln had a preference for preachers who acted as if they were "fighting bees" and as such it can be surmised he would not attend a sermon extolling forgiveness of homosexuality or murdering innocents in the womb nor would he appreciate shepherds who preach peace, peace when there can be no peace; a holy war has commenced and Lincoln like Jefferson before him understood the critical role played by fire breathing American preachers who started the fire under the War of Independence. The Black Robed Regiment boldly extolled the virtuous battle against tyranny that was the Revolutionary War; a war Thomas Jefferson recognized as a holy war as today and as such the regiment must rise lest the Republic fall.

"If ever there was a holy war, it was that which saved our liberties and gave us independence."

One Faith-One Voice is to fuse every denomination and sect of both Christianity and Judaism under the banner of Judeo-Christianity divested of the dogma, rituals and trappings of religion proclaiming the purest, simplest truth in preparation for the final confrontation now upon us. Churches must once again become fire breathing advocates for God, the moral law of Sinai, the reason of Yeshua...and founding documents bearing His personal imprimatur. For those Christians who have stumbled the matrices provide a singular opportunity for a second chance given the egregious error of the churches; contracts are invalid if the terms are unclear or falsified.

Every individual on earth can baptize in clear natural water now that they know that in doing so they recognize that Yeshua's sacrifice is far more than symbolic to HaShem to whom this perfect human being was "like a son"; Yeshua represented our Creator's first offer of peace with terms and we will never know how far mankind might have advanced if it were not for Athanasius severing the branch from the tree and its Torah roots. Yeshua is the key to opening the door to a true family of man; a door that has been reopened wide with the matrices.

A 2nd Civil War That Can Be and Must Be Won

"The unquestionable republicanism of the American mind will break through the mist under which it has been clouded, and will oblige its agents to reform the principles and practices of their administration."

Thomas Jefferson to Elbridge Gerry, 1799

Prescient Thomas Jefferson, prophet of governance, knew then this time would come; the Republican Party will be reborn and the mid-wife will be principled Democratic-Republicans armed with definition as never before to compel those seeking office under the banner of Republican to "reform the principles and practices of their administration"; definition that establishes clear moral lines; definition reestablishing the terms of the necessary debates by replacing politically correct speech, tailored to define the terms before the debate begins, so as to have the honest conversations Americans have fought and died for; Democratic-Republicans as the new home for those who despise the swamp dwellers that now occupy Washington DC whether (D) or (R).

Those well versed in American history might think Democratic-Republican is an odd descriptive given the original party of Jefferson and Madison were in opposition to the Federalists, including John Adams who brought the Constitution into being while Jefferson and Thomas Paine were fortuitously in France. Explore the difference between the two parties in what might be considered the first failure of American reason given the divisive nature of the intellectual battles that severed the friendship and tested the mutual respect shared by Jefferson and Adams; two greats who would reconcile before their deaths providing guidance for this moment.

The evil that was the French Revolution cannot be understated with Jefferson believing it to be the natural successor to the American Revolution; a secular and anti-religious revolution founded upon reason alone appealed to Jefferson but Adams and Burke recognized Voltaire was right when he said "If God did not exist, we would have to invent him". When the churches burned in France the barrier to mass murder was reduced to ashes and tens of thousands of men, women and children in Vendee who refused to bend to a state sanctioned church were butchered in the first genocide...literally in the name of progress.

It can be said the first American political parties, Democratic-Republicans and Federalists, resulted from the French Revolution. Jefferson never ceased believing in a God of reason and the bloody horrors in France led him to concede his differences with Adams were misplaced as to the need to infuse God in politics so as to provide the critical moral guardrails.

Just as the dates in the Convergence Matrix wrap around to form a virtual double helix giving life to mathematics so too the terms Judaism, Christianity, Democrat and Republican; Judeo-Christian and Democratic-Republican give life to the symbiotic identities necessary for the battles ahead.

To identify as JudeoChristian is to acknowledge what was never intended to be separated and to lesser extent identifying as Democratic-Republican is to commit to restoring the principles of 1776 and founding documents that bear the personal imprimatur of the God of Sinai. By no means a third party but rather restoring the Republican Party of Lincoln to once again confront Democrats.

Go to the beginning to understand the end and vice versa as it the way of God.

"[If a] people [are] so demoralized and depraved as to be incapable of exercising a wholesome control, their reformation must be taken up ab incunabulis (as if from infancy). Their minds [must] be informed by education what is right and what is wrong, [must] be encouraged in habits of virtue and deterred from those of vice by the dread of punishments, proportioned indeed, but irremissible. In all cases [they must] follow truth as the only safe guide and eschew which bewilders us in one false consequence after another in endless succession. These are the inculcations necessary to render the people a sure basis for the structure of order and good government." Thomas Jefferson to John Adams 1819

There are a number of eminent writers, Michael Anton and Peter Berkowitz in particular, capable of eloquent exposition as to the founding principles and the 'first things' but at the moment they are as prophets crying in the wilderness; lost in dark shades of gray that dominate the landscape trying to explain to ploughmen complex concepts made difficult to understand by a theology that has been allowed to define all things in shades of gray; prophets that now have a natural ally in an emissary that speaks the language of ploughmen fluently.

Those who would lead Democratic-Republicans have a bar to surmount; every Republican seeking office should be prepared to answer these questions; Have you read every topical Jefferson quote?; Have you read every topical Adams quote?; Have you read the Federalist Papers in their entirety?; Have you read Reflections on the Revolution in France by Edmund Burke?; Have you read William Blackstone's four-volume Commentaries on the Laws of England in their entirety? If the answer is no the candidate is unqualified for office under the terms of a Democratic-Republican. For those who would follow there is Thomas Jefferson's letter to his nephew Peter Carr in 1785 as a starting point:

---“When your mind shall be well improved with science, nothing will be necessary to place you in the highest points of view, but to pursue the interests of your country, the interests of your friends, and your own interests also, with the purest integrity, the most chaste honor. The defect of these virtues can never be made up by all the other acquirements of body and mind. Make these then your first object. Give up money, give up fame, give up science, give the earth itself and all it contains, rather than do an immoral act. And never suppose, that in any possible situation, or under any circumstances, it is best for you to do a dishonorable thing, however slightly so it may appear to you. Whenever you are to do a thing, though it can never be known but to yourself, ask yourself how you would act were all the world looking at you, and act accordingly. Encourage all your virtuous dispositions, and exercise them whenever an opportunity arises; being assured that they will gain strength by exercise, as a limb of the body does, and that exercise will make them habitual. From the practice of the purest virtue, you may be assured you will derive the most sublime comforts in every moment of life, and in the moment of death. If ever you find yourself environed with difficulties and perplexing circumstances, out of which you are at a loss how to extricate yourself, do what is right, and be assured that that will extricate you the best out of the worst situations. Though you cannot see, when you take one step, what will be the next, yet follow truth, justice, and plain dealing, and never fear their leading you out of the labyrinth, in the easiest manner possible. The knot which you thought a Gordian one, will untie itself before you. Nothing is so mistaken as the supposition, that a person is to extricate himself from a difficulty, by intrigue, by chicanery, by dissimulation, by trimming, by an untruth, by an injustice. This increases the difficulties tenfold; and those who pursue these methods, get themselves so involved at length, that they can turn no way but their infamy becomes more exposed. It is of great importance to set a resolution, not to be shaken, never to tell an untruth. There is no vice so mean, so pitiful, so contemptible; and he who permits himself to tell a lie once, finds it much easier to do it a second and third time, till at length it becomes habitual; he tells lies without attending to it, and truths without the world's believing him. This falsehood of the tongue leads to that of the heart, and in time depraves all its good dispositions”--- Get right with God, while there is still time to choose good over evil.

While the world waits for unequivocal confirmation the message written across the tablet of time is authentic and extends time to organize, it would be both wise and prudent to gather family and leave the cities on the coasts for small cities and towns inland...and there focus on family and community. Once there do as Rebecca advises in The Separation for the American Mind: repair to places where you can regain your strength then build communities and institutions that support the spiritual, rights-oriented, limited government of the founding.

Americans who recognize the threat may for the moment feel overwhelmed which translates to a feeling of unwarranted helplessness when in truth once Marxians are isolated in island cities of blue surrounded by a country of red there will be a rebirth of freedom...which begins with certitude.

I have no doubt that the religiously inclined who read the Convergence Matrix are perplexed by 'the time of religion has passed and the time of certitude has arrived'. With the matrices providing empirical, mathematical, evidence the God of Sinai, Yeshua and 1776 exists everything has changed and will never be the same; certitude, the certainty of God, is indeed two steps above mere belief and one step above faith to the higher vantage above religion...it is a place of certitude where an uncompromising Judeo-Christian civil religion resides and with it civil disobedience on a biblical scale. It is not as if there is nothing that can be done to stop Marxianity as inferred by Thomas Jefferson to George Washington in 1780.

"It is mortifying to suppose it possible that a people, able and zealous to contend with their enemy, should be reduced to fold their arms for want of the means of defence"

It is not difficult to discern the moral law left in place when Yeshua amended the Sinai covenant to prepare the Jews for life without the temple under the roof of the house promised to David in I Chronicles; western civilization. That being the case it makes no difference what Christian denomination one might prefer, but it makes all the difference in heaven and on earth that moral law in accord with the "Laws of Nature and of Nature's God" defines how one who identifies as Judeo-Christian walks walk of the righteous.

Empirical evidence of the unfathomable intellect and power that chose the title "God" now presenting as pure intellect is no small thing; the matrices as an offer of peace with terms can accomplish miracles if those who would restore, preserve and protect the Constitution simply display the same humility that made America great; the humility of the founders of a nation conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition all men were created equal; the humility of representatives that over the span of 150 years never overstepped the boundaries set by the forefathers to put the Republic in danger; the humility of the millions of average Americans who built the economic colossus that led 80% of the world population out of abject poverty in less than 60 years...and the humility of the Americans who gave the last full Medal of Honor measure knowing their bodies would never be found and their stories would never be told.

The existing republican establishment will not press the advantage afforded by the matrices which, again, goes to the necessity of Democratic-Republicans; not to destroy the Republican Party but to restore the principles and virtues of Jefferson, Adams and Lincoln requiring every establishment republican to join the fight or step down and get out of the way. It is time to do the math.

"When peace becomes more losing than war, we may prefer the latter on principles of pecuniary calculation."
Thomas Jefferson to William Wirt, 1811

Massive retaliation against the false religion of human intellectual arrogance will require quantum change and only the shock to the system that is an extant God will revive the heart of America; a heart that will soon be beating with a resolve unseen since the War of Independence; the argumentum a fortiori leaving the libertarian degree of free markets as the measure of freedom far behind that of an extant God who placed His personal imprimatur on the founding documents.

For those disinclined to read the Not Peace but the Sword book trilogy, the Convergence Matrix, Jefferson Survives and Adams Ascendant, there are thirty pamphlets to choose from according to individual interest so as to assist in making the penultimate choice. For those who take up the sword there is Yeshua's Sword which will insure the blade cuts deep in all the right places; inflicting enough pain to stop the Leviathan in it in its tracks before America loses its blessing.

Godspeed,

Adler von Pfingsten

Recommended reading: When All Else Fails: The Ethics of Resistance to State Injustice by Jason Brennan. The introduction:

The economist Albert O. Hirschman famously argued that citizens of democracies have only three possible responses to injustice or wrongdoing by their government: we may leave, complain, or comply. But in When All Else Fails, Jason Brennan argues that there is fourth option. When governments violate our rights, we may resist. We may even have a moral duty to do so. For centuries, almost everyone has believed that we must allow the government and its representatives to act without interference, no matter how they behave. We may complain, protest, sue, or vote officials out, but we can't fight back. But Brennan makes the case that we have no duty to allow the state or its agents to commit injustice. We have every right to react with acts of "uncivil disobedience." We may resist arrest for violation of unjust laws. We may disobey orders, sabotage government property, or reveal classified information. We may deceive ignorant, irrational, or malicious voters. We may even use force in self-defense or to defend others. The result is a provocative challenge to long-held beliefs about how citizens may respond when government officials behave unjustly or abuse their power.
