No.28 Generation Z

“The times in which our generation lives are not ordinary times. We dwell on the interface between two worlds —a world as it was and a world as it is meant to be. Everything is in place, all the infrastructure to bind the world together as one, the technology by which all of humanity can share deep wisdom; all that is needed so that the secret of oneness can be grasped within the human mind. The stage is set. All that’s left is for us to open our eyes.”

Rabbi Menachem M. Schneerson, Likkutei Sichot 13

The secret of oneness the Rabbi refers to is a God that can be grasped by the human mind made much easier with the Convergence Matrix; the God of Abraham/Sinai, Yeshua and 1776 is presenting as pure intellect and power to reveal a plan for human ascendance written across the tablet of time...an offer of peace with terms.

Generation Z is actually a misnomer in that the term includes every human being living in the approach to the end of human history as it is understood and a new beginning with Yeshua in 2026 Jerusalem. All would be well advised to read Pamphlet No.2 Mankind’s Final Test of Reason before moving on to the issues that interest them the most; the time of religion has passed and the time of reasoned certitude is upon all mankind.

The common understanding of Generation Z is roughly those ages 15-30 and there may be no better assessment of who they are and what they are than that of Nigerian author Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie:

“In certain young people today...I notice what I find increasingly troubling: a cold-blooded grasping, a hunger to take and take and take, but never give; a massive sense of entitlement; an inability to show gratitude; an ease with dishonesty and pretension and selfishness that is couched in the language of self-care; an expectation always to be helped and rewarded no matter whether deserving or not; language that is slick and sleek but with little emotional intelligence; an astonishing level of self-absorption; an unrealistic expectation of puritanism from others; an over-inflated sense of ability, or of talent where there is any at all; an inability to apologize, truly and fully, without justifications; a passionate performance of virtue that is well executed in the public space of Twitter but not in the intimate space of friendship. I find it obscene.

People who ask you to ‘educate’ yourself while not having actually read any books themselves, while not being able to intelligently defend their own ideological positions, because by ‘educate,’ they actually mean ‘parrot what I say, flatten all nuance, wish away complexity.’

People who wield the words 'violence' and 'weaponize' like tarnished pitchforks. People who depend on obfuscation, who have no compassion for anybody genuinely curious or confused. Ask them a question and you are told that the answer is to repeat a mantra. Ask again for clarity and be accused of violence.

And so we have a generation of young people on social media so terrified of having the wrong opinions that they have robbed themselves of the opportunity to think and to learn and to grow."

It is they more than anybody who will determine if the final singularity is as needed or as deserved.

Empowering some might say and then move to leverage the fear not realizing the only fear that should guide is the fear of a very extant God close and getting closer every day; a God unwilling to negotiate the offer of peace with terms and quite willing to destroy those threatening a plan for mankind 6000 years in the making.

Where does one start with a generation that believes fossil fuels should be eliminated and yet none are willing or able to answer how aircraft, ubiquitous long haul diesel trucks, heavy construction equipment, ships, trains and main battle tanks can be electrified? The endemic nihilism is staggering, matched only by the narcissism of a generation that instinctively knows they are the walking dead; why preserve or build anything if the end is nigh?

It need not be so given the path to escape the field of battle that is Yeshua; reconcile with God and learn to walk the walk of the righteous...one right with God.

Doing so will require understanding and accepting the ineffable intellect and power that chose the title God when setting mankind on the journey to ascendance provided measures that were meaningless until this very moment; He has made everything beautiful in its time; also the [wisdom of] the world He put into their hearts, save that man should not find the deed which God did, from beginning to end. Ecclesiastes 3:11

The ever expanding matrices include correlations that are converging at this very moment but as it concerns Generation Z specifically there are three measures ignored at great peril with the first being the measure of all things: "The Torah and moral law of Sinai, Yeshua as a precisely defined messiah of purpose, the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States, republican governance as defined by Jefferson and Adams, are the benchmarks by which all else is to be measured...gone are the debates as to every belief system on earth having equal stature."

The second measure is as insurmountable as the first. Deconstructionists who pick and choose quotes by the founding fathers to assert or deny some aspect of religious influence on the founding documents are very adept at painting the issue with shades of gray to deflect from a singular unified endorsement by the signers of the Declaration of Independence which has existed in plain sight since July 4th 1776; Jefferson's source of unalienable rights.

From time immemorial Judaic scholars have always capitalized any words or names bearing the imprimatur of G^{td} to signify the words and names are a direct reference to G^{td} while avoiding more formal titles; Jefferson's capitalization of the words "Laws of Nature and of Nature's G^{td}" is an acknowledgement of the authority vested in the document and provides the second of three measures; the G^{td} of Sinai placed His imprimatur on the Declaration of Independence and by extension the Constitution.

Marxianity depends upon tribalism and preference ergo, in anticipation, God provided a third a measure to provide a clear distinction between the tribalism known as identity politics and equal protection before the law; Sir Henry Sumner Maine's status society versus contract society.

In 1861 Sir Henry James Sumner Maine published his most enduring work Ancient Law which put forth his thesis that governance progressed from a Society of Status to a Society of Contract; every form of governance before the Constitution of the United States reflected a society of status wherein who you were determined what benefits would be forthcoming from governance. There is nothing "progressive" about identity politics.

Marxism is probably the most reactionary false religion cum ideology that has ever cursed mankind and the end result of the tribalism will be the same as it has been across history; perpetual tribal warfare, distrust, resentment, cycles of revenge, territorial conflicts and refusal to forgive past wrongs as is the norm in the Middle East, Balkans and Africa. The melting pot has gone cold and cultures 1000 years in the making are at risk if Americans and the nations of the Anglosphere and Europe fail to recognize the threat posed Marxianity; a threat captured in part by Victor Davis Hanson in an article titled 'A Rendezvous with Rwanda?'

When reading the article pay particular attention to the hubris of institutional capture enjoyed by Marxianity that has resulted in a dangerous double standard as to speech...and come to accept Marxians created the black subculture intentionally knowing a War of Maneuver, violent revolution per Gramsci, was inevitable.

Per Victor Davis Hanson: "Blacks, who make up about 12 percent of the population account each year for about 50-55 percent of all homicide victims and murderers taken together. But beyond that, there is an epidemic of disproportionately black violent crimes (over 50 percent of all firearm assaults and juvenile violent crime). In the black community, over 72 percent of births are out of wedlock, one-parent households account for about 64 percent of all black families, and a third of blacks have felony convictions. These current challenges might deserve more focus and federal action than simple cash payouts for the sins of the pre-Civil-Rights era."

At the moment blacks are second only to the alphabet of sexual perversion as a protected and favored group in large part because with one out of three adolescents identifying with the alphabet the traditional extended family is being undermined...a goal shared by openly Marxist Black Lives Matter. Puberty is difficult and made even more difficult by exposure to hard core porn on phones and personal computers which has resulted in a generalized teen angst complicated by activists in K-12 schools presenting a distorted view of family relations, the role of sex in society which amplify mental health of bodily self-perception.

The issue of porn will be litigated with the introduction of the Herbert Marcuse Refutation Act but the impact of activists touting sexual identity transition as a cure all for the pain and angst shifted from being predominately an issue for young males to young females where one will find the majority sexual surgery butchery. To make matters worse the age when the effort to groom a trans identity has lowered to include the very young in grade school while at the same time the activists are instructed there is no requirement to notify parents.

Common sense more than suggests public K-10 schools have no business even broaching the subject of human sexuality until the first year of high school at which time the single semester of instruction would not include any mention of sexual preferences that deviate from the "Laws of Nature and of Nature's God". Common sense also more than suggests, it demands that no child under age 18 receive irreversible puberty blockers and sexual reassignment surgery. The Marxian intransigence evidences rejection of common sense in favor of agenda.

The danger to freedom and liberty posed by government endorsed protected tribes is readily apparent in the case of Jack Phillips and Masterpiece Cakeshop wherein after winning a religious freedom victory in the Supreme Court was immediately targeted by activist Autumn Scardina who requested a pink on the inside blue on the outside cake to celebrate transition. Phillips lost his appeal of a lower court ruling in favor of Scardina in the Colorado Court of Appeals which ruled the refusal to bake the cake was not a free speech issue.

The issue is less free speech than freedom of association. There was once a time before Civil Rights legislation signs that read "We reserve the right to deny service to anybody for any reason" were common but the legislation forced association. It is an issue dating back to the mid-19th century as noted by Frédéric Bastiat in his book The Law.

"But we assure the socialists that we repudiate only forced organization, not natural organization. We repudiate the forms of association that are forced upon us, not free association. We repudiate forced fraternity, not true fraternity. We repudiate the artificial unity that does nothing more than deprive persons of individual responsibility. We do not repudiate the natural unity of mankind under Providence."

There is a reckoning on the horizon. The time of religion has passed and the reality of certitude is upon us; God exists and with certitude comes the requirement to have nothing to do with those who violate the "Laws of Nature and of Nature's God" and the moral laws of Sinai. Religion has meaning only in the context of history as an actual plan and the implications are enormous; it is axiomatic those who are ignorant of history are doomed to repeat history but never before has ignoring history risen to the level of a capital indictment...until now.

Since 1970 when civics classes were virtually eliminated from the public school curriculum and the classic liberal arts higher education Thomas Jefferson believed critical to freedom began a transition from classic liberalism to "progressive" neo-Marxist indoctrination under the false flag of "liberal", most Americans have lost touch with what it means to be an American. A majority have never read, must less studied, the Declaration of Independence or the Constitution of the United States and now Americans are on the verge of losing their freedom.

How can it be that Americans allowed Marxian academics the likes of Bill Ayers to develop public school curricula that John Murawski in Real Clear Investigations described as a program that teaches children "how race, class, gender, sexuality and citizenship status are tools of oppression, power and privilege. They are taught about colonialism, state violence, racism, intergenerational trauma, heteropatriarchy and the common thread that links them: 'whiteness.' "

The reckoning begins with the honest conversation Obama and company is too cowardly to have.

Disposing of Marxian Shibboleths; Race and Colonialism

"Racism does not have a good track record. It's been tried out for a long time and you'd think by now we'd want to put an end to it instead of putting it under new management."

Thomas Sowell

God does not recognize race per se but has from the beginning emphasized greater and lesser peoples and cultures with the 'prime directive' being the greater is tasked with elevating the lesser but never is the greater to be made less by contact with the lesser e.g. RAP "music" by the likes of Cardi B and her song WAP (Wet Ass Pussy) which has come to define the moral mindset of Marxians laser focused on sex and sexuality.

It might be said Roe V Wade was the result of the Sexual Revolution credited to Herbert Marcuse and it divided the nation like no other issue since slavery...with Democrats championing both. But now the definition has grown far darker with Marxians introducing the so-called Women's Health Protection Act (WHPA) to radically expand Roe; abortion would be legal unto the moment of birth in all 50 states without any restrictions.

The false religion of human intellectual arrogance is fast approaching the Judeo-Christian wall bot Gramsci and Marx anticipated; it is a wall with "If it is war you want, let it begin here" engraved across the stone of Sinai.

With race and climate change disposed of there is only colonialism.

Did you know that in 1900 the United States had 200K miles of railroad compared to 400 miles in Columbia even though long before colonized by the Spanish along with vast swaths of territory including what would become Florida, California and New Mexico 80 years before the Pilgrims landed? The question that must be answered goes to why the Spanish colonies did not thrive and grow as did the United States, eventually losing Florida and every territory north of the Rio Grande and Colorado rivers?

To answer the questions one must gain the higher vantage where history is measured in thousands and hundreds of years in the context of a plan only God could author. Return to the beginning to understand the end...the Beringia land bridge and the first inhabitants of the Americas.

One aspect of the first humans to inhabit the Americas requires an answer the many studies tracing the possible migration routes south from the Beringia land bridge do not. How is it that by 1492 there were only an estimated 2-4 million Native Americans in what would be the United States but upwards of 60-110 million in Mexico, Central and South America?

If the common sense Pacific coast corridor thesis is correct there must be an explanation for why the migration pushed on past California all the way to the tip of South America then settled and flourished in between; building lasting edifices on par with the Great Pyramid of Giza and some like the stone megaliths of Saksaywaman that cannot be explained?

"How very wet this water is." L. Frank Baum, The Marvelous Land of Oz

"How very wet this water is"; it is obvious that G+d intended North America for a special purpose and that truth is implied in fact; for thousands of years North and South America were left undiscovered. The fact that the American continent stood waiting for centuries while advanced seafaring civilizations matured elsewhere is highly improbable to say the least. There has never been a convincing argument as to why China's Ming Dynasty treasure/trading vessels of the 15th century failed to discover and colonize North America.

The description of the great fleet under Admiral Zheng He as a coastal fleet is belied by Great Admiral's crossing of the Indian Ocean and other great expanses multiple times; Australia was well within range even if one accepts the "coastal fleet" explanation. The largest of the ships with nine masts was more than twice the length and breadth of Nelson's HMS Victory, and yet the Chinese Emperor, after six different long range forays to both India and Africa, forbid voyages after 1433 and for reasons unknown ordered the fleet of over 3000 ships destroyed...60 years before Christopher Columbus.

The only plausible explanation in the context of convergence is that the time was not right according to a plan...our Creator's plan. North America remained in the benign hands of the indigenous peoples until the scriptural strength of the gentiles was realized. Alexis de Tocqueville captured the truth in Democracy in America:

"Although the vast country...was inhabited by numerous tribes of native peoples, one can justly say that at the time of its discovery it was still no more than a wilderness. The Indians occupied it but did not possess it. It is through agriculture that man takes possession of the soil, and the first inhabitants of North America lived by hunting. Their implacable prejudices, their unbridled passions, their vices, and, perhaps most of all, their savage virtues marked them out for inevitable destruction. The ruin of these tribes began the day that Europeans landed on their shores. It has continued ever since and is even now being carried through to completion. Providence placed these people among the riches of the New World but made their enjoyment brief. They were there, in a sense, only in anticipation. These coasts, so well suited to trade and industry, these rivers so deep, this inexhaustible Mississippi valley, this whole continent, in fact, seemed but an empty cradle awaiting the birth of a great nation. Here civilized men would attempt to build society on new foundations. Applying for the first time theories either previously unknown or deemed inapplicable, they would stage for the world a spectacle for which nothing in the history of the past had prepared it."

The answer is tied to the end of the Ice Age and the temperature rise that melted the ice sheets. Those who crossed the Beringia bridge went south to warmer climes; passing California which at the time was very cold and wet even as they hugged the coast with the snow covered Cascades and Sierra Nevada appearing to be an impenetrable barrier to the east. South they went and in time the Beringia bridge melted and over the span of thousands of years the desert southwest came into being; dividing North America from Mexico. From Mexico City to the tip of South America the populations thrived...until Europeans with their immunity to countless pathogens stemming from African/Asia trade infected a population without immunity.

Even with the deaths of tens of millions of indigenous people the simple truth is that from Mexico City southward they still vastly outnumbered the Spanish colonizers and the lesser peoples and cultures subsumed the greater. No so in North America where the Anglo-Saxon English population would vastly exceed the indigenous populations and as such the greater people and culture would result in the opposite; the lesser would embrace and adapt the ways of the greater and to a substantial extent be assimilated.

It is incumbent upon every individual in western civilization to read The myth of the 'stolen country'. What should the Europeans have done with the New World? by Jeff Fynn-Paul for Spectator USA. Like the Jewish Annotated New Testament edited by Amy-Jill Levine and Marc Z. Brettler the essay provides concise and accurate "connect the dots" knowledge for those in dire need.

The knowledge is critical given the truly intersectional nature of colonialism and race as it concerns Africa and Africans. Contrary to popular belief the colonization of Africa did not begin in earnest until 1880 for a simple reason; a number of European trading centers were located on the coasts of Africa but the high mortality rate associated with interior diseases such as malaria resulted in prohibitive cost benefit calculations until advancing technologies and the need for resources to fuel them changed the equation.

As late as 1870 only 10% of the coastal African continent was controlled by European powers but with steam shipping, railroads and medicines such as quinine the interior cost benefit equation changed; between 1880 and 1914 colonization by France, Britain, Spain, Italy, Germany, Belgium and Portugal would result in 90% control.

In the 35 years between 1880 and 1915 European control of Africa grew to 90% and within another 35 years "liberation" movements started the process of creating countries across the map of Africa and yet the societies are still largely tribal; the cities shadows of their western counterparts and the standard of living the lowest in the world. Zimbabwe is a basket case and South Africa not far behind, but because they and so many other African countries are Marxian to point out the truth is "racist".

In truth, the 100 years of colonialism was the best thing to happen to black Africa; South Africa began building railroads in the mid-19th century and its 19,004 miles of railway represent 80% of Africa's rail infrastructure. In 1989 the luxurious Rovos Rail was commissioned...a last contribution before Mandela and the ANC took over; it is a rail line that along with the famous Blue Line cannot be maintained given the theft of iron and steel.

When Britain exited Africa after the proliferation of Marxist national liberation movements there were 46,000 miles of railroad compared to 250,000 in the United States...200,000 of which were built by 1900. Consider the fact that not one African tribe developed the idea of a keel which allowed seafaring yet the Phoenicians did so around 1300BC. The idea of the "noble savage" is nothing more than a fiction to advance an agenda.

Jonah Goldberg wrote a piece for National Review titled In Defense of Elitism which captured the truth before the truth became verboten:

---About a decade ago, one of the Smithsonian museums here in Washington had an exhibit on the history of human civilization, or something along those lines. I didn't see it, but a friend of mine went and his description always stuck with me. One of the displays was a comparative timeline of different cultures. At, say, 1250 you'd see what the British, the Japanese, the Chinese, or the Arabs had come up with. The sight that really struck home for my friend was a beautiful Renaissance Italian clock, with movable gears and a stunning hand-painted face with a sun and moon alternating for AM and PM. The clock came from the 15th or 16th century, I think. But that's not really important. On the same timeline for African culture there was a wood mask with eye- and mouth-holes cut out in some "novel" way. The little explanatory card on the wall tried to make it sound, somehow, as though the handcrafted clock and the mask were similarly impressive accomplishments. To which my friend responded, roughly, "Are you high?"

I may have gotten the details a bit off here, but the substance is obviously true. Some things are better than other things. Some cultures are better than other cultures. Some things are more worth studying, celebrating, and emulating than other things. Or as the late William Henry III put it in his wonderful book, In Defense of Elitism, "It is scarcely the same thing to put a man on the moon as to put a bone in your nose."---

It is not, and never has been, about race but rather greater and lesser peoples and cultures and now you know why the God of Sinai first impressed upon the chosen people that all things revolved around His existence and then imposed the strictest civil, dietary, temple and moral laws...to create a disciplined people and culture that would defy all odds and one day reestablish Israel while at the same time guiding mankind to ascendance.

"I will insist the Hebrews have [contributed] more to civilize men than any other nation. If I was an atheist and believed in blind eternal fate, I should still believe that fate had ordained the Jews to be the most essential instrument for civilizing the nations ... They are the most glorious nation that ever inhabited this Earth. The Romans and their empire were but a bubble in comparison to the Jews. They have given religion to three-quarters of the globe and have influenced the affairs of mankind more and more happily than any other nation, ancient or modern." John Adams in a letter to F. A. Van der Kemp, 1808

Unfortunately, it is as Edmund Wilson, literary critic and author, surmised "The Jew lends himself easily to Communism because it enables him to devote himself to a high cause, involving all of humanity, characteristics which are natural to him as a Jew."

Although my writings are crafted for Jefferson's ploughman there is a need to reach out to both the intellectuals and the lumpen proletariat at the same time and as such the true nature of the organized crime that is Marxism requires a succinct yet comprehensive essay as a prelude to truth; Why Marx continues to fascinate would-be revolutionaries by Kevin D. Williamson for the National Review.

The Young Jacobins across all of western civilization, America in particular, have been divested and invested at the same time with HaShem no longer subject to debate; divested of the idea there is no price to pay for license and fully invested in deciding on an individual basis whether or not endlessness or an eternity of possibilities will be their fate. As Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn concluded... Young people are acquiring the conviction that foul deeds are never punished on earth, that they always bring prosperity.

There is a blood in the water mentality motivating a Jacobin faction that dominates social media and technology sectors; unrelenting in highly organized attacks on those who refuse to adhere to the dogma of the false religion Marxianity. Google and Facebook use algorithms to silence heretics and Twitter serves as an attack platform for neo-Marxist Jacobins. Social media resembles Paris at the height of the Reign of Terror; swarming with organized lynch mobs driven by emotion unencumbered by reason and the only the heads of their victims will sate the thirst for blood.

Less a culture war than a cultural revolution, a neo-Marxist Inquisition has begun mirroring that of Mao who unleashed the young upon the "four olds" in China to destroy the past; the faithful must eliminate old ideas, old habits, old customs and any vestiges of the old culture so as to fundamentally change society in the name of "progress" including tearing down monuments as the Taliban did to the Buddhas of Bamyan and ISIS did to Palmyra and many other cultural treasures.

Since the death of George Floyd (a fatally intoxicated career criminal on the edge of a cardiovascular precipice) at the hands of police (that by any objective standard were doing everything "by the book" as Susan Rice infamously said) a movement anchored by neo-Marxist Black Lives Matters has metastasized into an "anti-racist" movement with international reach. But more than that, Marxianity has been exposed as a definable secular religion in violation of the 1st Amendment establishment clause; dogma not data; passion not reason; intellectual relativism rather than the laws of nature...and entirely committed to eliminating the Torah of Sinai, Yeshua and 1776.

Marxianity is a deeply intolerant false religion that failed with class distinction and so adopted race distinctions knowing full well there would never be resolution; Planned Chaos with blatant racism in the guise of 'anti-racism'. It is a religion of zealots devoid of the tempering restraints attendant to the fear of God i.e. "white racism" is part of the DNA and as such only the elimination of the wrong thinking Judeo-Christian white "race" will suffice...echoing Susan Sontag and the fervent dreams of Bill Ayers.

The Jacobins in the street perceive they are the "elect" and destined to usher in an age of peace, tolerance and diversity that looks beyond the color of one's skin...not realizing or refusing to admit the United States is as close as mankind has ever come to that dream as Holman Jenkins wrote:

"The charge of 'systemic racism' is their obsession. Using the word rightly, however, 'systemic' in America has been our attempt to protect individual rights against the immoral chaos of nature, including human nature, from which all kinds of racial and other irrational hatred emerge. This may be a losing battle in the long run - nature will prevail, civilization won't."

That the young Jacobin fascists are morally and ideologically bankrupt is evidenced by the mindless answer to a call for revolution with no clear vision of the future; putting faith in a false religion openly advocating violence and the suppression of speech rather than engaging and debating ideas. Theirs is a strategy that will end one way or the other with this writing; a verbis ad verbera, from words to blows, in that blows in defense of the Constitution are far more than a virtue...blows have become a duty.

'Because half-a-dozen grasshoppers under a fern make the field ring with their importunate chink, whilst thousands of great cattle, reposed beneath the shadow of the British oak, chew the cud and are silent, pray do not imagine that those who make the noise are the only inhabitants of the field; that of course they are many in number; or that, after all, they are other than the little shriveled, meager, hopping, though loud and troublesome insects of the hour.'

Sir Edmund Burke

Black Lives Matter is a far cry from the moral certainty black lives matter in that a moral society will demand that all lives must matter...but in a post-truth world three avowed Marxists simply seized upon Saul Alinsky's tenth rule, "do what you can with what you have and clothe it with moral garments", to seize a tragic death to advance an anti-capitalist, queer alphabet, destroy the patriarchal nuclear family agenda that includes slavery reparations and the destruction of "apartheid" Israel.

It is an agenda that fully intends to advance the redefinition of the Civil Rights movement as the seminal event in world history and even now the push is being made internationally to label Israel an apartheid state in the effort to destroy the Holy Nation.

Like the black subculture, the last generation is being used as political pawns; a generation that has been denied a meaningful education and indoctrinated by popular culture to believe they are on the side of science yet disdainfully ignore the science as to gender; a generation that has abandoned thousands of years of societal traditions and yet they passionately think it is they who will shape the future beginning with destroying the past.

"To live with a gnawing grudge against one's own civilization is the way to a personal Hell, not to a Terrestrial Paradise." Russell Kirk, The Essential Russell Kirk: Selected Essays

The last generation and the faithful within the false religion Marxianity believe themselves to be part of a movement that will change the world, but in truth they are allowing themselves to be consumed by the evil that is Marxianity; useful idiots to be excreted when they are no longer of any use by white Marxian elites who care only about making themselves feel better about the destruction they have authored in the blind quest for a vague Utopian ideal, while assuaging their self-righteous hypocrisy.

There is a reckoning coming very soon and there are two truths the Jacobins should deeply consider in the short and long term; 1) city and state governments that abdicate a responsibility to enforce the law forego legitimacy, and 2) enforcement of the law by the federal government given the abdication is not optional and the law is clear as it concerns the BLM/anti-racism strategy; the Code of Federal Regulations defines terrorism as "the unlawful use of force and violence against persons or property to intimidate or coerce a government, the civilian population, or any segment thereof, in furtherance of political or social objectives."

Whether or not the 40th Amendment as to militias is considered or passed the militias will rise and the riotous destruction will end.

Think...lest a vision of the future presented in very specific terms is lost to the amorphous and ominous idea of a sustainable world of 4-3 billion people where all are equal, there are no class distinctions and race is a thing of the past; a world that cannot be without reducing every culture and individual to shades of gray insignificance for the greater good of the collective that is the ant hill.

"Equality of condition, though it is certainly a basic requirement for justice, is nevertheless among the greatest and most uncertain ventures of modern mankind. The more equal conditions are, the less explanation there is for the differences that actually exist between people; and thus all the more unequal do individuals and groups become."

Hannah Arendt, The Origins of Totalitarianism

Think...lest the greatest opportunity in history is lost. It is against this Marxist evil I stand as the true champion of all black lives with a reasoned proposition; what greater movement can there be than the historic Africa Exodus and a great African nation? Doing so would secure sub-Saharan Africa for black Africans while saving six million whites abandoned to Marxism in Africa.

Doing so would provide the impetus for resolving the Arab/Israeli conflict while laying the groundwork for a world at peace. Doing so would provide meaning and purpose on a biblical scale for the last generation, while at the same time providing time...to prepare for the meeting in 2026.

Those who refuse the offer of peace with terms now know with certainty the God of Sinai has proven time and again those who His threaten instruction, Torah, His plans and the Holy Nation are eventually destroyed. Choose wisely; choose the God of Sinai, "not of the philosophers and of the learned", and peace with terms or lose all.

The choice for those who would be led to destruction is not as difficult as some will make it seem; choose between those who would lie to advance an agenda or mathematics incapable of lying...in an offer of peace with terms written across the tablet of time.

Balance noisy grasshoppers; balance...you are at war with the Creator of all existence; He Who Is capable of translating "...their worm shall not die, and their fire shall not be quenched, and they shall be an abhorring for all flesh" into an endless reality. And remember that in the end...

"Society [has] a right to erase from the roll of its members anyone who rendered his own existence inconsistent with theirs; to withdraw from him the protection of their laws, and to remove him from among them by exile, or even by death if necessary."

Thomas Jefferson to L. H. Girardin, 1815

Up From the Basement

"If something cannot go on forever, it will stop."

Herbert Stein, Economist at the American Enterprise Institute

The common refrain that insanity is doing the same thing over and over again and expecting a different results has been institutionalized in government spending; in 2009 a $1T stimulus promising "shovel ready" jobs saw less than 10% doing so; the multi-trillion Covid relief was looted, schools were not reopened and tens of millions of Americans still working or receiving Government benefits received over $1000 each. To make matters worse the fattened unemployment benefits has resulted in a distorted job market wherein it pays not to work.

Marxians do nothing without a goal to advance the agenda. Millions are streaming across the southern border and their presence is touted as good for a labor hungry economy but they fail to mention there are millions who have learned to game the system and avoid work i.e. replacement made palatable.

The following are excerpts from an article titled It pays not to work in Biden's America — and here's the proof by Steve Moore, Casey Mulligan and E. J. Antoni:

- Did you know that families earning half a million dollars a year can receive ObamaCare subsidies? Or that in some states, unemployment insurance benefits can be equivalent to a job with annual pay of $100,000?
- Today there are still at least 3 million fewer Americans working than there were in 2019.
- "...in many states, welfare pays more than or nearly as much as respectable middle-class jobs.
- Often limits for public benefits have also disappeared while Congress and states have made benefits more generous.
- In some states families can earn over six figures annually in unemployment benefits.
- In 24 states, unemployment benefits and ObamaCare subsidies for a family of four with no one working are the annualized equivalent of at least the national median household.
- A family making almost a quarter of a million dollars annually still qualifies for ObamaCare subsidies in every state.
- In a dozen states, the value of unemployment benefits and ObamaCare subsidies exceeds the salary and benefits of the average teacher, construction worker, electrician, firefighter, truck driver, machinist or retail associate.

- In New Jersey, a family of four can receive benefits equal to an annualized earned income of $108,000 with no one working.
- In Connecticut and New Jersey, a family earning $300,000 a year can receive ObamaCare subsidies
- New Jersey is a state where a family can earn the equivalent of $100,000 a year if both parents are collecting unemployment benefits and ObamaCare subsidies for health care. In Connecticut the benefits can reach $80,000.
- "...people move in and out of the unemployment system — working enough months until they again qualify for benefits.
- The expansion of the welfare state has created situations where work often doesn't pay. In many states, working a $20-an-hour job for 40 hours a week would mean a reduction in income compared to two parents receiving their unemployment benefits and health care subsidies. Until the unemployment runs out, there is very little incentive to go back to work, especially when the family is receiving more than their blue-collar counterparts who are on the job.
- In New Jersey, unemployment benefits and ObamaCare subsidies alone are worth an annualized $122,000 — that's 30% more for not working in most occupations.

Obviously the issue is not restricted to basements but even if one discounts the inordinate number of Antifa with wealthy parents to subsidize chaos there are millions of young Americans who have become used to a manner of comfortable complacency at odds with human nature and the God of Abraham/Sinai, Yeshua and 1776...and it will soon come to an end with a price to pay.

"The life of man in this world is, for the most part, a life of work. Every man worth calling a man should be willing and able to work. How can one be idle when others are busy? How maintain social respect, honor and responsibility? Work is the best of all educators, for it forces men into contact with others, and with things as they really are. If we consult biography, it will be found that the worthiest men have been the most industrious in their callings. Labor is the price set upon everything valuable. Nothing can be accomplished without it".

Samuel Smiles, Life And Labor (1887)

Young and old have become comfortably complacent; anesthetized by Popular Culture Psychosis (PCP) resulting in toxin immobility. Each and every one had no way to know until now that they are a threat to a plan 6000 years in the making and the United States is integral to the plan nearing its end. There are hundreds of quotes to warn comfortable complacency is no longer an option but one by Rose Wilder Lane in her book The Discovery of Freedom (1943) makes an understandable argument as to why America is exceptional.

"Why did men die of hunger for six thousand years? Why did they walk and carry goods and other men on their backs, for six thousand years, and suddenly, in one century, only on a sixth of this earth's surface, they make steamships, railroads, motors, airplanes, and now are flying around the earth in its utmost heights of air? Why did families live thousands years in floorless hovels without windows or chimneys, then in eighty years and in these United States, they are taking floors, chimneys, glass windows for granted, and regarding electric lights, porcelain toilets and window screens as minimum necessities? Why did workers walk barefoot, in rags, with lousy hair and unwashed teeth for six thousand years, and here are silk stockings, lipsticks, permanent waves, sweaters, overcoats, shaving cream, safety razors and more. On one small part of the earth, a few men use their energies so effectively to create a new world. It's incredible."

The reckoning will restore order in the face of Marxian chaos...the foundations of which have been detailed in the Pamphlets series and the Not Peace but the Sword books; the first step in restoring the Republic. With the God of Abraham/Sinai, Yeshua and 1776 fully engaged there is no doubt as to the inevitable destruction of the false religion Marxianity with only the how to be determined; patriots or the hand of God. In the meantime it is incumbent upon Americans and the Anglosphere to confront Marxianity with an alternative vision of the future.

God does not want anybody to suffer needlessly.

What to Expect and Aspire To

Climate change is a non-issue; history as it is understood will end in less than three and one half years in 2026 with a final intervention, think singularity, and a new beginning...not because I say so but the ineffable intellect and power who chose the title God says so in a message written across the tablet of time. As emissary writing ex cathedra on behalf of an extant Creator in defense of a Constitution bearing His personal imprimatur and His beloved Israel I am authorized to extend a counteroffer. To wit:

Certitude

- The Fear of a very real God of Sinai will be reintroduced to the bloodstream of America and then across western civilization; with grace comes scales none can avoid.
- The Ten Commandments will be displayed prominently in the civic square and taught once again in schools as history...with certitude.
- The Constitution will be restored with the repeal, clarification and addition of amendments;

- The republic envisioned by Jefferson, Adams and the founders will be established; a republic wherein the federal government wields narrowly defined powers and whose primary purpose is protecting individual rights to insure Americans are left to pursue life unmolested; a republic where conditions conducive to individual improvement is the primary focus; a republic where liberty with equal protection under law are sacrosanct...Adam's nation of laws not men;
- The federal judiciary will have checks to correct what Jefferson correctly recognized as the foremost flaw of the Constitution;
- Balanced Budgets will be the norm, not the exception and the national debt will be paid down;
- Elections for federal offices will be standardized to insure the integrity of the vote;
- Apportionment of seats in the House of Representatives will be based upon number of citizens not "persons";
- American English will become the official, sole, language for government business.
- Public Sector Unions will be eliminated and civil service reforms instituted;
- The weaponized administrative state will be disarmed and the non-delegation clause enforced;
- Nature's economy will be relieved of regulations designed to control not regulate; a mandate to eliminate 50% of unnecessary, intrusive, overlapping or redundant federal laws;
- All "hate crime" and affirmative action legislation will be repealed;
- The welfare state will be dismantled; there will be no "Green New Deal" and the old New Deal will be reduced to essential programs e.g. Social Security retirement and physical disability;
- The economy will be changed but not as OAC would have it i.e. the fatal flaw of the market economy will have a cure with the American Family Homestead Act (AFHA)

In short, a republic where the enslaving chains of dependency cannot be forged and the existing chains broken; the welfare state will be dismantled and the federal government will be divested of the ability to oppress, suppress, sell favors and buy votes. The individual will be sovereign as was intended from the beginning; blessed with unalienable rights, subject only to a republic which adheres to the "Laws of Nature and of Nature's God"; the republic envisioned by Jefferson and Adams wherein political power begins with the self-governing individual and every layer of the body politic retains a recognizable degree of separated political power whether city, county, state or federal.

"I wish... to see maintained that wholesome distribution of powers established by the Constitution for the limitation of both [the State and General governments], and never to see all offices transferred to Washington where, further withdrawn from the eyes of the people, they may more secretly be bought and sold as at market."

Thomas Jefferson to William Johnson, 1823

In addition, a number of common sense structural, social and global changes will be forthcoming:

- Federal agencies will be eliminated;
- Government budgeting and spending will be subjected to citizen oversight with implementation of a rigorous and detailed real time open books system;
- Fraud detection programs will be implemented across the federal system;
- Tort reform will be instituted to minimize lawfare and protect lawful commerce.
- A civil society centered on Main Street will be reestablished;
- Historic city centers will be restored and buildings reutilized;
- The streets will be clean and the nation's infrastructure rebuilt;
- Children will once again be able to play outside without fear and doors will rarely be locked;
- All able bodied individuals will be required to work as a condition of assistance;
- WPA level work and training centers will be instituted in large population centers;
- Spartan shelters with work requirements rather than homeless living on the sidewalk;
- Inmates will have A Chance At Last;
- Those receiving assistance will be subject to oversight with monetary receipts minimized;
- Disability definitions will be tightened precipitously;
- Fatherless children will have their fathers identified and fathers will provide for their children;
- Pornography will be eliminated;
- Abortion will be restricted to cases of rape, incest and physical threat to the mother's life;
- Sexual preferences and gender identity deviating from the "Laws of Nature's and of Nature's God" will be divested of the current civil rights status;
- Black Americans will have a single opportunity embrace destiny as the last chosen people;
- NATO will cease to exist and nuclear weapons will be minimized;
- A defense treaty with Israel to change every equation will be signed; and finally...
- Sunni Islam will have one final opportunity to embrace a two state solution on terms set forth by the God of Abraham over 3500 years ago...or fall with Marxianity.

This writing is a declaration of war; a war of ideas in that there is no greater force on earth than an idea whose time has come; a time chosen by the God of Sinai to establish the Republic envisioned by Jefferson, Adams and the founding fathers; the Republic intended by our Creator as a beacon to guide all mankind; a truly exceptional nation that will require displacing every other political ideology by Democratic-Republicans willing to "mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes, and our Sacred Honor" rising to fight the last holy war as history as it is understood passes into history.

After 100 years of “progressive” policies and programs designed to build a massive administrative and welfare state the current strategy of Marxianity constitutes a desperate gambit to gain absolute power by any means necessary so as to continue “a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object...a design to reduce” the United States to Marxist tyranny and as such, it is not only the right of Americans, it is “their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security”.

At the most fundamental level Americans must come to accept Marxians have a strategy that can be encapsulated into one of the favorite slogans of the ground troops; “become ungovernable”. Marxians need only irritate, disrupt, burden, impede and destroy until Americans come to believe the Constitution has failed; Planned Chaos per Ludwig von Mises and for decades the effort has followed a strategy penned in the “Prison Notebooks” of Italian communist Antonio Gramsci; slow but steady ‘never walk back’ infiltration of the process, “praxis”, with emphasis upon the academy, media and political system until Marxism achieves Cultural Hegemony and then a socialist victory.

As with every aspect of this writing Marxian academics will parse the thousands of political science and sociology papers expanding upon Marxism and proclaim how wrong the condemnation, which should advise Americans the rightness of the assessment. Can there be any doubt Marxianity is now a virtual state religion with the media, academia, judiciary, the Imaginarium and the agencies of governance in lockstep with the neo-Marxist “progressive” theology?

“They tried to substitute for Christianity a body of dogmas called “dialectical materialism.” As Orestes Brownson pointed out in 1849, and as Arnold Toynbee has also written, communism was really a kind of caricature of Christianity, borrowing certain of its moral affirmations, imitating its dogmas, and even appropriating some of its phrases. This made communism all the more dangerous: for the superficial similarities between Christian morality and the pretended Soviet morality sometimes deluded Americans and people in other free states into thinking that communism had high moral aspirations.”

Russell Kirk, The American Cause

They will not succeed.
