Native American Center for the Living Arts

Niagara Turtle

Site overview

“The Turtle” is a modern three-story, 67,000-square-foot building, on a 1.67-acre property designed by Northern Arapaho architect Dennis Sun Rhodes. It is in the shape of a large turtle and faces the Niagara River and the American Falls. After its closure, it eventually was purchased by a developer: Niagara Falls Redevelopment Turtle LLC. It has remained closed since 1996. The developer was looking to raze the building to make way for a 20-story hotel.

How to Visit

The Native American Center for the Living Arts has been closed since 1996. It sits just a stones throw from Niagara Falls near the American Falls, opposite Goat Island. Visitor's can visit Niagara Falls State Park and can view it within a two minute walk from the falls
