

America's most endangered historic places: Cedar Key, Hotel Casa Blanca, May Hicks, more

May 7, 2025

The Pamunkey Indian Baptist Church was first established on the Reservation in 1865.

Pamunkey Indian Tribe, Handout Via National Trust For Historic Preservation

Pamunkey Indians Making Pottery, Last of the Tribe of the Mighty Chief, Powhatan

Pamunkey women making pottery at the Pottery School on the Reservation in the early twentieth century.

Pamunkey Indian Tribe, Handout Via National Trust For Historic Preservation

A portion of the archeological remains found along the Reservation's shoreline, representing 10,000 years of Pamunkey life and history.

Pamunkey Indian Tribe, Handout Via National Trust For Historic Preservation

Hotel Casa Blanca, Idlewild, Michigan.

Ronella McGregory, Handout Via National Trust For Historic Preservation

San Juan Hotel, San Juan, Texas.

Gabriel Ozuna, Handout Via National Trust For Historic Preservation

A. Nakamura Co., prior to World War II, circa 1930-40.

Tim Yuji Yamamoto, Handout Via National Trust For Historic Preservation

Nanka Shoten and A. Nakamura Co. buildings, Terminal Island, Los Angeles.

Adrian Scott Fine/L.A. Conservancy, Handout Via National Trust For Historic Preservation

Memorial to Japanese fishing village on Terminal Island

Adrian Scott Fine/L.A. Conservancy, Handout Via National Trust For Historic Preservation

River Arts District in Asheville, North Carolina during the flooding from Tropical Storm Helene in 2024. The French Broad River crested high enough to breach the first floor of the buildings.

Drew Wallace, Handout Via National Trust For Historic Preservation

The destroyed River Arts District in Asheville, N.C. along the French Broad River on Oct. 1, 2024 in the aftermath of flooding caused by Tropical Storm Helene.

Thomas Costello II, USA TODAY Network

Exterior of The Turtle with original paint scheme, circa 1986, Niagara Falls, New York.

University Of Nebraska-Lincoln Libraries, Handout Via National Trust For Historic Preservation

The Turtle, Niagara Falls, New York.

Cherrish Beals, Handout Via National Trust For Historic Preservation

Aerial view of The Turtle with Niagara Falls beyond.

Cherrish Beals, Handout Via National Trust For Historic Preservation

Cedar Key after Hurricane Helene, October 2024.

GREG LOVETT, THE PALM BEACH POST Vis USA TODAY Network

Rainbow over 2nd Street, Cedar Key, Florida.

Pat Bonish, Handout Via National Trust For Historic Preservation

Historic photo of the Wellington, Pine Hill, New York

Shandaken Historical Museum, Handout Via National Trust For Historic Preservation

The Wellington, Pine Hill, New York.

Shelley Smith, Handout Via National Trust For Historic Preservation

Mystery Castle, Phoenix, Arizona.

Robert Graham, Handout Via National Trust For Historic Preservation

Mystery Castle, Phoenix, Arizona

Robert Graham, Handout Via National Trust For Historic Preservation

Oregon Caves Chateau in 2017 before it was closed for restoration.

Harley Cowan, Handout Via National Trust For Historic Preservation

Oregon Caves Chateau in 2017 before it was closed for restoration.

Harley Cowan, Handout Via National Trust For Historic Preservation

May Hicks Curtis House, Flagstaff, Arizona.

Josh Edwards Of Cornerstone Environmental Consulting, LLC, Handout Via National Trust For Historic Presevation