TWO RULES FOR TRUE HAPPINESS

JOY is the one thing that marks us out as followers of Christ. A true disciple of Christ is known for his or her spiritual joy that only God gives. Ironically, this joy comes from carrying our cross and following in the footsteps of Christ. This is the joy that does not come fundamentally from material acquisitions out of human merit alone rather, it is solely from God's gift, mercy, grace, and Incarnation that elevate humanity, allowing us to relate to Him through friendship rather than fear. Our relationship with God grounds us in the joy of our biological families and also our universal family of faith that we all belong and share in Christ.

Every human shares a universal desire for a full, happy life and as well as a deep sense of belonging. However, Christ reveals a profound paradox: true happiness is not found by searching for it, but by losing oneself in selfless love and service. This spiritual truth is perfectly captured by two simple rules: see Christ in others, and be Christ for others.

To see Christ in others means recognizing every person as an infinitely loved child of God, treating them with reverence and hospitality, much like the Shunammite woman who welcomed the prophet Elisha. To be Christ for others requires living out our baptismal identity. This means ordering our loves properly by putting God first, taking up our cross, and rejecting the urge to judge or marginalize others. By generously pouring ourselves out in imitation of Jesus, we reorient our lives toward the Divine, ultimately finding the unimaginable joy, peace, and lasting fulfillment meant for us in Christ.

The Gospel of Matthew tells us that Christ does not condemn familial affection but instead establishes a proper "order of love." Our bond with Jesus, forged in baptism, must take precedence. Loving God first does not diminish earthly relationships; instead, it purifies and deepens them. True love requires sacrifice, mirroring Christ's ultimate sacrifice on the cross. Ultimately, believers are encouraged to shift their prayer lives from seeking favors to expressing profound longing for divine friendship, trusting that their daily crosses manifest God's transformative power.

It is true that now we must endure the trial of discipleship by having a share in His cross but later we will have a share in His glory. We can be assured that only in the One, the Only Begotten Son and Saviour of the World, can we be one.

Fr. Dominick Mbah, MSP
