THE COMPASSIONATE JESUS CHRIST

Right from time, Jesus' zeal is for the salvation of humanity. His heart is known to be full of pity for the sick, the poor, the least and the last. In the Gospel this weekend we see Jesus making provisions for people who so long for God but who had no one to tell them the Good News. He chose twelve disciples, twelve following the foundation of Israel, the twelve tribes. He told them to go out, care for the people. Heal them. Proclaim to them the news that the Kingdom of God is upon them.

Jesus does not give us his entire life but forms disciples who will continue sharing his love with us. Yes, Love, true love, comes with a cost. We all know that. You love your children and, really, you don't care if they cost you sleepless nights from their infancy right through their Teen years, and beyond. I knew a wonderful man who used to say that he thought his children were expensive when they were home, but then they left and came back with their spouses and their children and became seriously expensive. But he never regretted the cost of love, nor do any of us. We do not regret the cost of loving our children, our spouses, and especially, the cost of loving our God.

We read about and even witness the martyrs' choice of God over their own lives. Yes, they are the heroes of our faith. But we can be heroes too. If we also were to lose our lives out of love for him, we know that we would only lose our physical lives. We are willing to pay the cost of love. The cost of love is our being in the world but not of the world. The cost of love is our being separate for the Lord, our being holy, for that is what it means to be holy. The cost of love is our being mocked for our faith by the pseudo intelligentsia of the world. Our statement of love is our saying with Joshua, "As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord." Joshua 24:15.

Our response to God's love for us is so little in comparison to the extent of his love. It is so little, and, yet it is so necessary. For there are many people who long to have meaning and purpose in their lives. There are many people who long to receive God's love. There are many people who can find God through us, the imperfect servants he sends to go into the fields of human beings and bring them his Love. In this way we are the Twelve. We are the New Israel. We are the People of God calling others to join the number of those being saved.

We pray today for the determination and the courage to be laborers in the Lord's fields.
