This section of the kitchen features a long run of white cabinetry with a granite countertop. The upper cabinets are tall and have a classic panel design with black hardware. Below the countertop, there are several drawers and cabinets, also with black hardware. A black induction cooktop is integrated into the countertop. The backsplash consists of light-colored subway tiles with a decorative diamond-patterned tile insert. Under-cabinet lighting is visible, providing a warm glow. To the right, a built-in oven is visible within the cabinetry.

This section of the kitchen features a white island with a granite countertop. The island has a white sink and a black faucet. The island is supported by white cabinetry. To the right, there is a breakfast bar with a granite countertop. The backsplash consists of light-colored subway tiles. The ceiling has recessed lighting, and a pendant light hangs over the island.

You made a LASTING
IMPRESSION
on me.

My dad said our builder came up with the idea to use BRICK on our house.
He said it would last longer and look cooler
than the other houses on our street.

That was a BOLD DECISION - and it turned out to be the right one.

Thank you for making me feel
as invincible as our house.
