Boot Camp Instructors

Heather Lloyd – Concordis (Boise, ID)

Heather Lloyd, the Founder and CEO of Concordis Education Partners, brings decades of teaching, training, and administrative expertise to her transformative work in classical Christian schools. Leading a dedicated team, Heather's passion extends beyond administrative support to provide comprehensive gospel-centric, liberal arts consultation for 30+ schools nationwide. With extensive business experience and pedagogical insight, she uniquely guides Christian schools through foundational needs, including board development and strategic planning.

Heather envisions schools as uniquely joyful environments, serving students as individuals within classrooms, where children are trained in Christian discernment alongside mastery in academic fields. Through Concordis, she endeavors to shape the landscape of classical Christian education and to leave an indelible mark on the children within each institution she serves.

Jeff Adams – Concordis (Dundee, OR)

Jeff Adams has spent more than 20 years in education as a teacher, administrator, and consultant. He has taught at the middle school, high school, and college levels and spent five years working with L'Abri alongside his wife, Carrie. Jeff holds an M.A. in the History of Christianity, with minors in Systematic Theology, & Theology and the imagination. Jeff and Carrie live in Oregon, and have two kids who currently attend a classical Christian school.

Jason Farley – Concordis (Moscow, ID)

Jason has been working in classical education for 25 years as a teacher, head of school, board member, writer, and teacher trainer. He and his wife have been involved with founding schools, established schools, and everything in between. They are passionate about both educating young students and continuing education for adults. They live in Moscow, Idaho and have four children and one grandchild.

Ann Maura Hinton – Bridge Educational Services (Cary, NC)

Ann Maura Hinton, MS Ed, Ed Therapist, TBRI Practitioner, is the director of Bridge Educational Services, a ministry of Lifeline Children's Services. She has over thirty years of teaching experience in a variety of different learning environments with children with learning differences. Ann Maura is the mother of three grown children and lives in Cary, North Carolina with her husband Robbie.

Boot Camp Instructors

Robert Murphy - Arete Hall (Austin, TX)

Robert Murphy is Academic Dean at Arete Hall, with fifteen years of experience in STEM and Theology education. He holds an M.Div. from Covenant Theological Seminary and an M.A. in Mathematics from Webster University. He has taught over one thousand students, chaired both STEM and Theology departments. His work is marked by rigorous academics, integrated faith, and strong teacher formation. Robert is also a Ruling Elder at King's Covenant Reformed Church.

Patsy Hinton - Concordis (Columbia, SC)

Patsy Hinton is a classical Christian educator with more than two decades of experience serving schools as a teacher, administrator, consultant, and headmaster. She holds a master's degree in Education with a concentration in Curriculum and Instruction. Patsy currently serves as Headmaster of Covenant Classical Christian School in Columbia, South Carolina, and previously led schools in Georgia and Michigan. She also served as Dean of Academics at The Paideia School

Adrienne Freas - (Akron, OH)

Adrienne is the founder of Beautiful Teaching, LLC and the current Instruction and Curriculum Coordinator for St. Gregory Classical Academy in Akron, Ohio. A specialist in classical curriculum and professional development, she has held high-level advisory roles for Responsive Education Solutions and the University of Dallas. Throughout her career, she has led teams in creating virtue-based humanities materials, facilitated parent workshops, and guided both new and established schools toward educational excellence. Adrienne also hosts The Classical Education Podcast and is a frequent speaker at classical education conferences. She is the proud grandmother of ten, with another grand-blessing on the way!

Bill Stutzman - Concordis (Moscow, ID)

Bill Stutzman is Director of Pedagogy and Curriculum at Concordis, where he has helped develop the Integrated Humanities curriculum. During his 20-plus years in classical Christian education, he has served in both primary and secondary classrooms as a teacher of multiple subjects and has been an administrator at both levels as well as Head of School. Bill holds an M.A. in English Literature with undergraduate minors in Music and French, and he loves writing and performing music and poetry, reading, and learning as a lifelong pursuit. He and his lovely wife Cherise live in Moscow, Idaho, and have three grown, classically educated children.

Nathan Thurston - (Columbia, SC)

Nathan is the Technology Director and an upper school teacher at a classical Christian school. After graduating summa cum laude with a degree in Computer Information Sciences and Programming, he has taught Rhetoric and Logic for almost a decade. His mission is to come alongside classical Christian schools and mentor students in critical thinking and speaking well, while also providing technical solutions for every day operations. He believes in the vision of classical Christian education and hopes to see its resounding success in the foreseeable future.
