A number of battles stick out in British history: Hastings, Agincourt, Crecy, the defeat of the Spanish Armada,

Blenheim, the Somme, El Alamein, Jutland, Normandy, Arnhem - and many others.

But two battles really shout above the rest:

Waterloo and Trafalgar.

Both took place in the Napoleonic Wars and both removed the threat of invasion by the enemy.

Waterloo – Arthur Wellesley 1st Duke of Wellington

Trafalgar - Viscount Horatio Nelson, Vice Admiral of the White,

Join us at this traditional Royal Navy dinner to remember the sacrifice and the valour of those that were in the battle.

Join us for good company, good food, and good music.
