

Frequently Asked Questions

Where will the films be available?

All films will be available on the Asinabka Festival Website.

How do I attend a screening?

Guests will attend a screening by purchasing a ticket to a program(s) in advance, and they will receive a private link via email where films can be viewed.

What if I don't live in Canada, can I attend a screening?

Theoretically yes, we're not using any geo-blocking so you should be able to attend a screening from anywhere in the world, as long as you have a wifi connection.

How long do I have to watch a film program?

Links to film programs will only be accessible for a scheduled 24 hour period of time. See details on the specific film program page for each screening.

What happens if I buy a ticket but cannot attend? Can I get a refund or give the film link to a friend?

Yes refunds are possible. No please do not share the links with anyone else. Please support Asinabka Festival and Indigenous Filmmakers and encourage friends to purchase their own tickets.

When and where can I buy tickets to see film programs?

Tickets will go on sale through Eventbrite on Friday Sept. 4th, 2020. Links to Eventbrite will be on the page of each film program.

When do ticket sales close for each film program?

Since "screenings" are accessible for a 24 hour period of time, ticket sales will close 2 hours before the end of each screening.

What if I want to attend multiple screenings? Can I buy a Festival Pass to see all the films?

Yes you can attend multiple screenings, but you will have to buy tickets to each film program separately. Unfortunately, for the security of the films, no Festival Passes will be sold this year.

How much are tickets?

Tickets to each film program will be $5 per screening + additional fees.

What methods of payment will be accepted?

Payments can be made with credit or debit card.

What if the price of tickets is a barrier for me?

We strive to make Asinabka Festival accessible for everyone, if you find the cost of tickets to be a barrier, please email us and let us know which programs you'd like to attend, and we'll do our best to accommodate your request.
