Benefits Management

How often do we hear projects not meeting stakeholder expectations? How projects have not contributed to organization or business area goals and objectives. How project managers are unable to articulate whether they have been able to deliver to project objectives, as they call for project closure post-go-live. This course provides participants with a systematic approach to monitoring and managing the benefits that stakeholders seek from projects. Benefits are the difference transformation will make for the business and it's customers. This course provides a structured approach to ensuring the delivery of business benefits and tracing their journey from identification to benefits realization.
