Commercial Emergency Roadside Repair Service Expands Along Oregon's Southern I-5 Corridor

Sutherlin, Oregon – May 20, 2022

Fleet and commercial truck operators working the southern I-5 corridor between Creswell and Grants Pass that need emergency roadside repair now have 24/7 support from Mobile Diesel Service (www.mobilediesel.co), a diesel repair company that's been providing service in the region for more than 20 years.

"We are elated to be able to provide trucking companies and owner-operators 24/7 emergency/on-site repair for breakdowns along this section of Oregon's heavily traveled I-5 corridor and connecting highways in what amounts to about a 100-mile radius from our main shop," says Shawn Smalley, general manager of the family-owned diesel repair service headquartered in Sutherlin, Oregon. "We have four service trucks that are constantly on the road providing this invaluable service to truckers. We can also provide towing services when needed."

"Joe Foss, a 30-year veteran roadside service technician, will handle our 24/7 emergency road service out of Canyonville. Joe is a valued member of our all-star team here at MDS, and he'll take great care of our customers in the expanded southern service area. We also have Stephen Hannan, another roadside expert technician, taking care of our northern section that extends almost to Eugene."

"Our service technicians are well-versed in CAT, Cummins, Detroit Diesel, Power Stroke and Duramax engines, as well as the drivetrains, chassis and suspensions in Class 5-8 big rigs and trailers. We perform service, repair and engine upgrades of diesel-powered pickups and RVs," adds Smalley.

MDS's staff of ASE-certified diesel technicians have been providing repair services for commercial fleets and owner-operators in Oregon's Umpqua Basin region for more than two decades. MDS is well respected for their work in expert diesel repair, diagnostics, fabrication, welding, and maintenance services on medium and heavy-duty trucks, heavy-duty diesel pickups and motorhomes.
