

Eligibility for MATCH Official Payments

To be eligible for match official payments during the Philippine National Rugby League domestic rugby league season, individuals must be approved by the PNRL to be included in the PNRL Match Officials pool. Payments apply only to recognised match official roles, including Main Referee and Touch Judge appointments, and are paid on a per-game basis according to the individual's current match official certification level. The scaling payment model encourages individuals to pursue certifications recognised by the rugby league global governing body – International Rugby League (<https://www.intrl.sport/>).

Match officials must submit an expression of interest and provide evidence of their certification level before payments can be confirmed. Where an official does not hold a recognised International Rugby League Match Official certification, they may still be eligible for the non-certified payment rate if they are approved to officiate by the PNRL.

Eligibility for payment is conditional on the official attending the allocated fixture, completing the assigned role to an acceptable standard, following PNRL match day procedures, and complying with the standards of conduct expected of match officials. The PNRL may withhold or adjust payment where an official does not attend, leaves an appointment incomplete without approval.

Payments will be processed using the payment details provided by the match official, unless cash payment is arranged by the PNRL at the end of the match day. Officials are responsible for ensuring their personal and payment information is accurate and up to date.
