

molested them....I always thought that they would find the bones of dead boys buried under his house....He invited my boyfriend and me to dinner one night. We arrived at his home that was practically bare from lack of furniture, but he had a little table set up to feed us. He brought in the food and then we hardly saw him the whole evening. As we were leaving, my boyfriend commented that Gordon had left his key in the front door. Gordon's response was, 'Oh, I was hoping you'd come back and rape me.' He always had boys staying with him at his house..There were always boys from Utah staying with him. I remember one that I found who had been waiting in the cafeteria all day. He was 16 years old. When I asked him what he was doing, he said that Gordon had promised if the boy would stay in Gordon's house, Gordon would help pay to get his teeth fixed. "

- 2) Annie Pratt (History of Aberrant Behavior, Item 1, Testimonies, no. 11) Wife of Tom Pratt who has worked for Gordon at Bonneville, Ogilvy and Mather, Young and Rubicam and presently at McGarryBowen. (Tom told me Gordon recently tried to fire him because he's hiring young, homosexual guys instead, but Tom's team protested the firing.)
"He (Gordon) stayed at our apartment for a few weeks when he didn't have anywhere to stay. My oldest son was about 3 or 4 at the time, but I've often looked back and wondered if anything happened. He's (Annie's son) had trouble; he's been secretive and dishonest. I remember when we stayed at Gordon's house in Salt lake city. My parents were with me and we had been invited to dinner. Suddenly we saw this sickly, strange boy who said he was staying there. My mother later said, 'That's not right. Something's wrong here.' We all felt it. Gordon was always the 'uncle' to everyone. He was always involved with young children. When we'd visit, he'd ask the children to come and spend the night, tell them he had a giant slide and offer things to make them want to stay. We always declined.
- 3) Ellen Richardson (History of Aberrant Behavior, Item 1, Testimonies, 31, 33. "Gordon is a predator. And he has huge resources to use. I've never seen anyone craft words like he does...He mimics any emotion which serves him, rapture or spirituality. He learns the vernacular of what matters most and then speaks to you in that language, using it to manipulate you. Whenever you reveal an emotion or concern, he maps out where to hit you next. The first way he will destroy the children will be to destroy you. His is the best at crazy making, game playing. He takes the brightest and the best people and makes them feel they are flawed. Gordon Bowen is a Ted Bundy. He is so bright, but he is devoid of human conscience. Gordon can't stand people who begin to see through him...(they) are a threat and he will say and do vile things to destroy them...He wants power over you and the children. It's all about his image. He feeds on the blood of others in his energy, like a vampire. He cannot energize himself if he is too long away from his victims. He has to create energy, chaos, blood to feed on. Every time he comes, he thrives on this. With Gordon it's always someone else's fault. He lied about everything, even things he didn't have to lie about. When he claimed he was in mortal danger from the evil spirits who were plaguing him, he got the men from Bonneville to stay with him. They were strong heterosexual men who were trying not to be weird, but were probably embarrassed by him asking them to sleep in the same bed to protect them. Gordon is the most dangerous man I've known in my life. He is capable of great psychic and emotional violence. He is very destructive and has no conscience. Gordon must not be left alone with the children. On one business trip there were guys who traveled with him and knew things they didn't discuss...He was involved with a group of young men, 10 or 11 year olds in a focus group where some strange things went on...Call Steve Williams. (Steve has recently made a film about LDS homosexual men using his background with Gordon for one of the characters.) Call Jeff Hilton 538-0777. Ask Jeff about Gordon's Chicago years. Gordon was instrumental in getting Bonneville to hire Jeff and Steve Williams. Other people to contact would be Steve Seastrand and Mike Collette.

This is all adding up to a profile of predatory behavior. Remember the 10 most common characteristics of a predator:

- 1) Refusal to take responsibility for his or her actions and blames others or circumstances for failures.
- 2) A sense of entitlement
- 3) Low self-esteem
- 4) A need for power and control
- 5) A lack of empathy
- 6) An inability to form intimate relationships with adults
- 7) A history of abuse
- 8) A troubled childhood
- 9) Deviant sexual behaviors and attitudes
- 10) Drug and/or alcohol abuse

I believe we need to act ASAP to get a new, responsible GAL in place, to begin preparing immediately for a TRO hearing, e.g. get the Haydee Mas notes and the DCFS notes and what ever else is needed so we will be ready when it happens. Please make this a priority. Thank you for everything you have done and are doing in protecting these (and other children).

Barbara

3. Linda Brewer: Friend of Barbara. "Barbara is an involved mother who is completely dedicated to her children. Through music, laughter, and games, Barbara is totally involved in every aspect of seeing that her children experience the joy of life. She has such respect for even the youngest of children, getting down on their level, looking them in the eye to communicate with them, sensitive to their tender feelings, and always patient beyond the norm. I have never seen her angry with any child, yet I've watched her be firm in a loving way with her own children when needed. Barbara communicates with children on a level where they seek to please her and follow her lead. Children respond to Barbara's sincere love for them." "To conclude...I believe anyone who would take full custody of Lilly and Caleb away from a beautiful mother like Barbara Bowen...would take the Nobel Prize away from Mother Theresa! "

4. Bruce Bell: Friend of Wes Bowen, Gordons father. Wes told him Gordon was gay.

5. Janet Cannon: Serves on Utah Board of Regents. Barbara is a magnificent mother and has a selfless nature with endless patience. "I can attest that being in Barbara's heart and home is a wonderful environment for any child."

6. Heidi Ehlers: Neighbor to Barbara. Learned of inappropriate sexual actions by Lilly.

7. Stanley Ferguson: Former business associate: "From my first encounters with Gordon I sensed there was something wrong with him and that he was an evil person. There was something that set off an alarm within me to be wary of Gordon. As time went on my concerns were reinforced and confirmed." "Gordon was a deceptive person and it was not always clear whether he was telling the truth or telling a lie." "The employees frequently discussed the weird stories we heard about Gordon. One of them in particular that stands out was that Gordon claimed to be fearful of evil spirits in his home. Gordon would sometimes call one of the employees and ask him to stay overnight with Gordon. I was not one of those who stayed overnight in his house." "After only a few years Gordon was fired from Bonneville. There was so much distrust of him that Bonneville hired a guard to stay in the building all night for several weeks so that Gordon could not gain access to the building." "In all my life I have never met another person in whom I sensed and observed so much evil, as Gordon Bowen. Consequently I kept a file on him, which I still retain."

8. Peter Georgescu: Former employer. "My first contacts with Gordon Bowen were social in nature as I saw him at various functions in New York. Gordon was a famous person in the creative world. I was involved in the hiring of Gordon at Young and Rubicam sometime in the late 1980's or early 1990's. Gordon was employed in the creative department at Young and Rubicam for four or five years I believe, but I am not sure for how long. I had a good working relationship with Gordon and I liked him personally. Gordon worked on many different accounts and I respected him enormously. I believe Ted Bell was the head of the creative department during the time when Gordon was employed in that department. While employed at Young and Rubicam, Gordon would sometimes disappear for days at a time without any explanation or giving any notice. On at least two occasions Gordon disappeared for an entire week. In doing so Gordon demonstrated he could not be relied upon. I was told stories of employees searching for Gordon and then finding Gordon under inappropriate situations but I cannot verify those stories were true. Persons in management and who were over Gordon, came to me at one point and explained they believed our company needed to part with Gordon because of his irregular and strange behavior. Gordon was let go from Young and Rubicam and his disappearances from work were critical to the decision to dismiss Gordon from that employment. I was personally involved in the decision to fire Gordon and I concurred and approved his firing.

9. Khaliel Kelly: Former long time friend of Gordon's. She became wise to his homosexuality and dishonesty and they severed their ties with him. "When the creative team from Bonneville went back to New York in 1985 to work for Ogilvy; Parry Merkley, Tom Pratt, Kevin Kelly, and Gordon; they were given a $3,000 monthly allowance for an apartment. Gordon was in charge of arranging for it and ended up renting an apartment in the Dag Hammarskjöld Building which only had one king size bed in one room and another single bed in the second room. Gordon then shared that bed with Kevin while the others slept on couches. Kevin told me that several times in the night Gordon snuggled up to him in the bed. Kevin said this was very embarrassing and awkward to him, but when he confronted Gordon, Gordon gave some excuse about having slept with his brothers and that he was a bed hog." Gordon liked to tell various stories involving a penis. "Gordon repeatedly told about being in the bathtub and having his penis rise to the surface and about his cat attacking his penis. I heard him tell this several times. " "Eventually the time came when Kevin and I wanted to disassociate ourselves from Gordon Bowen because it was impossible to have an honest relationship with him. There was too much deception, too many attempts at manipulation." "LDS Stake President Belnap of the New York, New York Stake described to me how he watched Gordon from the stand as Gordon walked up one aisle and down the other before a Sacrament Meeting during Sunday services. He said he felt that Gordon was on the prowl and so he called Gordon into his office where he warned Gordon to stay away from the members of the congregation."

10. Lincoln Kevin Kelly: Former long time friend and advocate for Gordon. "Because I had become an advocate of Gordon Bowen, I was even more taken by him." "My first sexually abusive encounter with Gordon was when the team of associates first came to New York. My family hadn't arrived yet and Gordon rented an apartment for the team. The only problem was it was way too small. There were only two bedrooms for four men. But because it was New York and apartments are generally cramped I thought nothing of it. Parry Merkley took one bedroom and Tom Pratt settled onto the couch in the living room. And because I was a last one to arrive I was asked to share a king size bed with Gordon. It was a big bed and I didn't mind, until he tried to snuggle up against me one night. I pushed him away, but he didn't wake up. It was creepy. When he tried it again, I pushed him away again. Still he didn't respond and I edged closer to my side of the bed. When I mentioned what happened in the morning he commented that his brothers were always complaining that he was a bed hog. I should have figured out that he had designs for me. But it seemed impossible. I was married. And I thought he was my friend. So I didn't talk to anyone about it. Looking back is painful—painful to think that this man that I thought was my friend really had designs to bring me into his evil web of immorality and homosexual behavior.

Later, on a business trip when we were in Europe Jim Bogner, a colleague warned me that Gordon was in love with me. I denied this as well. We were good friends but this seemed impossible. On this trip Gordon mentioned that there was something wrong with his hotel room and because I had two single beds in my room asked if he could share my room. I said fine. But I remember coming in from the shower one day and finding that Gordon had pushed the single beds together. I pushed the beds back to where they belonged and nothing more was said. "After leaving Mr. Ogilvy's Gordon had the opportunity to book a hotel for us. I was surprised to find that he booked only one room for the two of us. When I questioned him, Gordon claimed he was trying to cut back on expenses, something Gordon, who has notoriously extravagant, seldom worried about. Looking back and knowing now of his sexual preference toward men, it's clear to me that all of Gordon's little advances can only lead to one conclusion—Gordon was trying to lure me into some kind of sexual perversion with him.

If Gordon could treat someone like me this way, someone who was a considered a true and devoted friend, I can imagine that he may well have designs on others. And I fear that those designs could target other unsuspecting young men. My present concern is that Gordon could exploit his own stepsons. When I was a bishop if Gordon had been a member of my congregation I would have considered him to be a predator—a wolf among the lambs. If Gordon could go after his best friend he could certainly go after Barbara's boys. It's also chilling to consider that Gordon's own children may be in jeopardy. "Gordon is a master liar. And he's persistent. "Gordon is perfectly described in Scott Peck's book People of the Lie. "Add to his deceitful nature his immoral conduct. Because Gordon wore his membership in the Mormon Church on his sleeve, his wicked ways have scarred forever the reputation of the church in the New York advertising community. Gordon's homosexual sadomasochistic activities became an embarrassing widespread joke in the advertising community after he left Ogilvy and Mather. It was voiced around town that while employed at McCann Erikson Advertising Gordon didn't show up for work for an important meeting. So an associate, worried about Gordon's whereabouts, made his way into Gordon's apartment only to find Gordon naked and handcuffed to his bed." "When I heard that Gordon had moved back to New York, I felt it was important to warn Brent Belnap, President of the New York, New York Stake, that Gordon had been excommunicated, so that he could protect the unsuspecting young men of that community. To President Belnap's surprise Gordon showed up to church that day. And so President Belnap decided to just observe his behavior without letting Gordon know he was watching. After the sacrament meeting he observed Gordon walking slowly around the chapel his eyes resting on attractive young men. President Belnap then approached Gordon and insisted that he visit with him. His interview with Gordon confirmed his suspicions that Gordon was a predator and he warned Gordon that he would be watching him. "

11. Mark Alan Kramer: Mark lived in Gordon's house as a caretaker. "I always took it for granted that Gordon was homosexual because of his actions. There were times when he got closer to me than I wanted. Dozens of times Gordon said to me, "You are so good looking." Once I was lying on my bed watching television in my bedroom with the door open, and Gordon came in and laid down on my bed with me and said he wanted to "break down my barriers." I played along and conversed with him. Gordon said, "Mark I don't really know who you are." I had become frustrated with him for lying all the time and I had let him know of my frustration and I had confronted him with his lies." "Gordon was irresponsible financially and uncaring about people who he did not perceive as prominent or important. He would lavishly entertain people who he considered to be important but he would avoid paying people that he did not feel were important. He would spend $1,000 a month on flowers for his home, cut flowers that were displayed in his home, and yet let people like the cab driver and the carpenter go unpaid." "When I heard from Lisa and Mori that Gordon was going to get married, I commented that I hoped he would not be stealing from his wife and that I hoped he would not emotionally damage this woman."

12. Dennis Law: Testimony of Gordon's courtship of Barbara and what a wonderful woman she is.

13. Karey Law: Barbara's friend and a professional educator. "As an educator, I have seen many parents and parenting styles. Barbara can be counted as one of the good mothers."

14. Parry Merkley: Testimony of Gordon's pattern of lies and deception and bizarre behavior. Parry was a close friend of Gordons.

15. Michael McLean: Former business associate: "Initially I was duped by Gordon like others were. Gordon was a master at convincing a person he was his best friend. He was a master manipulator and liar." "I recall that Gordon was an endless pattern of deception and deceit." "While at Bonneville Gordon would make a point to talk about how other people had said how Christ-like he was. I heard Gordon say this on a number of occasions." "After a period of time at Bonneville I got a strange sense of Gordon, that he was a liar and found it hard to tell the truth. I observed that if he got caught in a lie he would become desperate and go to lengths to try to make things right." "There were indications Gordon was gay and that he went to great lengths to make people think otherwise. " "During the time Gordon was at Bonneville I heard him claim that evil spirits were in his home and that he needed other employees to stay overnight at his home. I never did stay overnight in his home but I heard that some other employees did stay overnight with him. These evil spirit stories and other things regarding Gordon were talked about by the other employees. You couldn't work there and not hear these stories." "I was the first person to raise a hand and say that Gordon was no good. I told Dick Alsop, President of Bonneville, that I would not be able to continue my employment at Bonneville if Gordon stayed. "Gordon offered to let me stay at his apartment at Central Park West which was not too far from McCann. Gordon went to great lengths to explain to me that he was sorry he would not be in the apartment when I arrived but that he would leave instructions with the doorman for me. I arrived around 7:30 a.m. at his apartment building and the doorman gave me a note from Gordon, along with a key. The note told me what shower I was to use and that Gordon would see me at the 9:00 a.m. meeting. Gordon clearly led me to understand he would not be in the apartment. I used the key from the doorman to gain entrance to Gordon's apartment. It appeared no one was there. I did notice Gordon's scriptures which were left open and which gave the impression that Gordon was a spiritual person. I proceeded to take a shower using the shower described in the note I received from the doorman. As I stepped out of the shower and before I had a chance to dress, suddenly Gordon walked into the bathroom in his underclothes. I screamed as it scared the heck out of me. Gordon put on an act like he had been sleeping and was not fully awake. Gordon's act was clearly a sham. It was clear Gordon had deceived me and set up this encounter. A few minutes later as I was dressed and went out to wait for him in his living room, Gordon was kneeling in prayer with his scriptures open. This also struck me as being phony because a person would normally say their prayers in a private place, not one where they would expect to be discovered."

16. Brad Nygren: Former close friend to Gordon. Gordon claimed to be beset with evil spirits nibbling on his body. "Gordon would call me and ask me to stop by his house and stay with him because of his fear of evil spirits. Once he called me and I went to his house and found him looking exhausted and sitting in a corner on the floor. He told me he had been choked by an unseen evil presence. At his request I stayed overnight with Gordon possibly a half dozen times at his house. Whenever I stayed overnight with Gordon he always wanted to sleep in the basement, and he told me this was because he was uncomfortable sleeping on the main floor, and he had two renters upstairs. He only had one bed in the basement and he always wanted me to sleep in that bed with him, which I did. Gordon always wanted to sleep closer than was comfortable to me. I felt that he was lonesome and needed a good woman. Once and possibly three different times Gordon showed up at our house in the middle of the night all unraveled because of his experiences with evil spirits and asked us to let him sleep at our house. One night in particular Gordon called in the middle of the night and told us he was under siege from these evil presences. He wanted to come to our house, and I told him to come ahead. Pat had become more and more nervous about this behavior, and she insisted we call Gordon's bishop, Bishop Gil Sanders. We spoke with his wife Virginia who relayed Bishop Sanders' concerns to us. Bishop Sanders thought there was something seriously wrong with Gordon and that we were in danger by letting him into our home. However Pat and I prayed about it and we felt we should try to help Gordon. When he arrived, we let him come in and sleep on the floor by my side of the bed. Gordon insisted on holding my hand throughout the night.

At some point in our friendship, I began to become increasingly uncomfortable with Gordon and I had to consider that Gordon might have a romantic interest in me. Other people had said they thought he was gay. Gordon was always giving me a backrub and trying to get close to me physically. "There is much more of significance in his statement.

17. Scott W. Swofford: Former business associate. "From early on in my relationship with Gordon I was dubious and/or suspicious of him because something about him did not seem quite right. I suspected he might be homosexual. "Four years ago a number of former Bonneville employees got together for a reunion and we commiserated on how we were used by Gordon to remove opposition to his plans. I believe Gordon was successful in manipulating everyone in the department for his own ends and most of us in retrospect felt guilty for letting ourselves be used that way." "Probably in 1983 Gordon told us in the creative department that evil spirits had been either doing destructive things at his house or causing people to break in and vandalize his house. Gordon told us that Elder Packard had given him a wonderful blessing and suggested that another priesthood holder should stay in his home with him for a period of time. The creative department consisted of me, Michael McLean, James Gartner, Curt Dahl, and Kevin Kelly." "Gordon wanted us to rotate schedules and spend the night with him so one person was always with him at night. I believe I was the first person in the rotation. I went to Gordon's house for one night only. Gordon showed me sheets that had been cut and clothing in a closet that had been torn. Gordon told me that evil spirits had done these things. And Gordon told me that he was scared. I had already agreed to stay overnight and I expected to sleep on a couch or in a sleeping bag. We got ready for bed in the same room and we were in our underclothes. Gordon wanted to have prayer so we knelt down in our underclothes. Gordon had plenty of room in which to kneel and there was no need to even be close to me, however Gordon knelt down so close to me that I perceived it as an invasion of my space and it caused me to be uncomfortable. I thought it was weird that he wanted to be so close. There was a foam mattress on the floor. I told Gordon the mattress was fine for me. Gordon told me to take the bed and that he would take the mattress. I insisted that Gordon sleep in his own bed and that I would take the mattress. Gordon then said that we could both share the bed and that it was no big deal. I said no, and that I was good on the mattress. I did not get into the bed. The weirdness of his getting close to me for the prayer was as bad as it got. I told Jim Gartner about this incident and that I didn't want to spend any more time with Gordon because he made me feel uncomfortable and that I was convinced Gordon was homosexual. "Scott told of other attempts by Gordon to have him stay in the same room when on business. "When I take all things into consideration I am forced to conclude that Gordon's multiple attempts to have me stay with him in the same room were premeditated and based on false representations, and that Gordon's purpose was connected to his being homosexual. From that incident forward I have been convinced Gordon is homosexual. It was clear that damage had been done to his sheets and clothing, because he showed me. As I do not believe it was done by evil spirits as Gordon claimed, this left the possibility that Gordon had done it to facilitate getting us to stay overnight in his house and possibly get in bed with him. Another possibility was that a person had retaliated against Gordon for some reason. And I doubt that Elder Packer bought Gordon's story about evil spirits damaging his sheets and clothing or that he gave him any such blessing."

18. Mike Washburn: Former business associate of Gordon's. He declined to provide an affidavit but said he heard rumors Gordon was homosexual even though he was married.

19. Diane Walker: Female friend of Gordon's. "I detected things were not right with Gordon and that there were things he would not discuss. Gordon told me he had a lot of demons to contend with. Quite a way into our relationship I asked Gordon directly if he was gay. Gordon said, "Am I homosexual – absolutely not." And then, "Is my relationship with women what it should be – absolutely not." It became very apparent to me that Gordon was a deeply troubled individual." "My motivation was to try to reach him and show him he could really have a relationship with a woman. Gordon talked about demons, darkness, and evil. He said his patriarchal blessing was just a garden variety. I observed Gordon had delusions of grandeur. It seemed he felt he had some grand mission to accomplish in the church, but at the same time, it was obvious he wasn't active. More often than not, he did not go to church on Sundays, and his wearing of garments was not consistent. Sunday was certainly not a day he kept different from other days." "Once, sometime after Christmas in 1990, Gordon and I were in bed together and at some point I was naked from the waist up, but clothed from the waist down. I was never naked from the waist down with Gordon. I'm not sure how this began, but I was trying to reach Gordon. Gordon started to kiss me and to touch me but he couldn't do it. This only lasted a couple of minutes. It did not feel like he stopped because he felt it was wrong; in fact he said something about being distracted and distraught about the job dilemma that he couldn't continue." "Another time after Christmas in 1990, Gordon and I were lying together, kissing and cuddling. We had our clothes on and I was lying on top of him. For a moment Gordon wrapped his legs around me and did a pelvic maneuver as if he were a woman having sexual intercourse. It only lasted a second but it struck me as being abnormal and that he was imitating a woman having intercourse."

20. Martsie Webb: Close friend. "Presently I see Barbara as the conscientious, vigilant mother she has always been. Lily and Caleb bring her inexpressible joy. " Has high praise for Barbara. "Barbara does it all because of her pure, selfless, guileless love for these children. Her motives are good and without question. These children are lucky to have her for a mother. Discipline, play, routine, good habits, security, love, fun, work, etc are principles on which every child thrives. But even beyond all this, Barbara's greatest gift to Lily and Caleb is her loving presence. Would that all parents could be this way."

21. Dennis Webb: Mayor of the City of Holladay, high praise for Barbara as a person and mother, disdain for Gordon because of his coldness to Barbara's petitions in Dennis's presence. "It struck me then and has often since how someone could be so cold and non-caring towards someone in such need. " Dennis heard Gordon admit to having called male prostitutes while watching Lilly. "I have observed that Gordon hurts people emotionally, that he lacks integrity and that he is driven by personal ambition and power."

22. Von Whitby: Not too important. Some information about a lawsuit against Gordon filed by Idea Exchange that was later dismissed for failure to prosecute.

23. Deb Whipple: Testimony of what an amazing mother Barbara is.

24. Stephen Wunderli: Testimony re Gordon's sexual advances on Adrian Pulfer and that Gordon crawled into bed with Adrian uninvited. Stephen coached Barbara's children. Stephen observed manipulative actions by Gordon. Stephen opined Gordon was trying to legitimize himself with a wife and family, well known homosexual tendencies. Testimony re what a good woman and mother Barbara is.

25. Dennis Williams: My testimony of my interview with Ellen Richardson that she considered Gordon to be a dangerous man and she was afraid to make an affidavit.
