

② Nnn. Daisy Sinclair

Daisy is a senior executive and head of casting at Ogilvy and Mather and has been with the organization for 42 years, so she observed what happened when Gordon was at Ogilvy, taking credit for work he never did, giving his own people raises and trying to take the American Express account with him when he was "relieved" at Ogilvy.

Ooo. John Dooner

John Dooner was one of the heads of McCann Erickson when Gordon was there. He was Gordon's boss when Gordon missed the meeting between Ogilvy and McCann and was found tied to the bed. I spoke with John about three years ago at Brendan Ryan's suggestion. John was not forthcoming about the "tied to a bed" incident but may be more open if deposed. He is on Gordon's enemy list and must be there for a reason. If we get the records from McCann, they may give us more information. John Dooner is now head of Interpublic which, as I understand it, is one of the biggest ad agencies in the world.

Ppp. Mary Ellen Schultz or Shultz

Mary Ellen was the secretary who supposedly found Gordon tied to the bed. I spoke with her about three years ago, and she denied having found him. She said that she had to meet with their boss, John Dooner, and talk about the story that was circulating but that she was not involved in finding him. She was so positive about Gordon and said that they had a wonderful relationship, I had to wonder if she has been paid to be quiet about this incident.

* Qqq. Mary Ellen Cloy

Contact of Paul Capelli's. Mary Ellen Cloy was another secretary at McCann. Paul thought that Mary Ellen Cloy (Nina Desezes's sp secretary) might know something about the "tied to the bed," incident and have information about where to find Mary Ellen Schultz. I spoke with Mary Ellen Cloy and she didn't have any information about Mary Ellen Schultz..

⊛ Rrr. Bill Grogan

Contact of Paul Capelli's. Bill Grogan was at McCann when Paul and Gordon worked there. Bill is now one of the heads at AOL. When Gordon was at McCann, he insisted on going to a shoot on the west coast, and he finally got tickets from McCann and permission from John Dooner to go, but he never showed up for the shoot. Bill Grogan called John Dooner and told John he'd found Gordon, to turn on channel 4 because Gordon wasn't on the west coast, he'd gone to Dallas and was at the Republican Convention. They all watched him on TV.

Sss. Curtis Dahl (#16 Testimonies)

KL I started at Bonneville in 1980, and I'm still there. When Gordon started, they asked Dick Allsop if he'd hire him. I think Arch Madsen asked. At first Dick said, "No," but then he was told he had to hire him and so they decided to do it. When he first started he was just another producer. We soon figured out that he never did anything. He was a brilliant strategist, but at creative, nothing. He had worked on Kellogg's in Chicago, and that sounded like big stuff to us.

He immediately scoped out the lay of the land—who's on his side and who isn't. I wasn't one he felt he needed to use—personna non gratis. He didn't need me to get to where he wanted to go. I came home and told my wife that Gordon was the most Christian man I'd ever met. When he was late for work, he told us that he'd taken a homeless man to breakfast. I used to think he was such an example of doing everything right. Then it seemed preposterous that he was always doing this, always at times when he was late for a meeting. He always had an excuse, an incredible excuse. After several times, I thought it was weird.

And then he showed his true colors. I had won a Cleo for a spot I had done called, "The Good Samaritan." And another piece I did, "Water Fight," won a Bronze Lion at the Cannes Film Festival. Gordon had nothing to do with that, but he'll claim he did that spot and he took both and put them on his reel for Ogilvy and Mather to get the job.

As soon as Bonneville got copies of the awards he took them home. Dick asked for them back and he said he didn't have them. But people had been to his home and had seen them. Mike McClean was at an award show with guys from McCann. Gordon was working for McCann and he had claimed to them that he did those spots and others. He would take credit to feather his nest and never give credit unless it suited his purposes. It was a standing joke that he claimed to have done all those things. He was hired by a big-time place, but he didn't do the work.

I was in Australia working on a project when I got a call from someone who said, "Let me read you the memo—Gordon Bowen is no longer employed by Bonneville." It was the greatest memo I've ever heard. Gordon called me while I was in Australia. I didn't know why. He told me then, "I appreciated all you did." I asked myself, "Why is he saying this now?" I never heard more than three words out of him, even when I got those awards. He only said, "good job," as he was passing me in the hall. He didn't really want me to succeed because I was not one of his golden children, part of his inner circle.

I always felt uncomfortable around him, when I knew who he was. I always felt there were ulterior motives. I would never have gone to New York to work with him. In my estimation, he was fired because he made a power play for Dick's job and Dick got wind of it and started to see what was happening and looked for reasons, things that Gordon had done. At that point Dick said, "I'm finally going to get rid of him." I heard something about an expense report that wasn't right. He'd hired Lynn Dangel to come work at Bonneville and he had billed Bonneville for her moving charges, making sure that they were paid, but this was contrary to company policy.

For Gordon, the end always justifies the means.

Ttt. Steve Wunderli

I first met Gordon in 1993 when he was working on the Coke campaign. I was writing fiction at the time. I went to New York with Adrian Pulfer and thought that it was so generous of Gordon to let us stay in his apartment. It was the one above Madonna's apartment. While we were there Adrian was reading something from his journal which was left out and open and Adrian began reading about this woman in SLC that he had always loved, whose husband was dying from cancer. Suddenly I realized it was you. It was so strange. I also thought it was odd, but Gordon insisted that Adrian share the bed with him. Gordon treated me like I was nothing. I had never done any great work so he didn't care anything for me. I found he was a nasty man, especially about anyone else who was creative. He was bitter. He later said that we trashed his apartment when we were there and was very angry. I remember strange behavior like him fasting at the time to keep the Coke account.

When I began working at Bonneville, Gordon was more respectful of me. He hired me to do work with him while he was at Sundance. I did some work with him, but I told him I can't do big projects. I don't have the time.

I know that when Gordon was at Bonneville he took the creative team to Arch Madsen and tried to get Dick fired. Arch wouldn't talk to him. Apparently the security escorted Gordon out and they changed the locks. There was money that was not accounted for. My understanding is that he fabricated expense reports for about $40-50,000. Adrian said once in New York with Gordon, Gordon had about $2000 in traveler's checks from his company and that he used it to buy a watch.

He was only at Bonneville for two years. The creative group there hated him. He never came up with anything. But he's such a great salesman. He never worked on anything. He just took credit for it. I know he tried to get Dick Allsop fired. He took a reel with him from Bonneville to land the job with Ogilvy and Mather in New York after Bonneville fired him. But none of the work was his.

He always had a presentation to work on, always pitching some business, but I couldn't afford the time. Parts of Gordon are brilliant, but in parts he has a very dark heart. He know how to be presentable. Curt Dahl did work at Bonneville with him 20 years ago. Jen's mom met Gordon and after 10 minutes said, "Is he gay?" Apparently the art directors in New York commonly acknowledge that he is gay, but that he has a wife and children in Utah. They know he lives a double life.

Uuu. Steve Williams

Steve worked with Gordon at Bonneville. Steve is presently writing a screen play on homosexual Mormon men who are married to Mormon women, leading double lives. I told Gordon when I was working at Bonneville, "You don't know how to tell the truth." I don't have the negative things others have. He never screwed me over. One friend said, we ought to have a Gordon Bowen party and see who he's told the biggest whopper to. Since 1983, we heard that Barbara was the only one he could marry. He was so convincing. Gordon said it didn't work out with you because he hadn't told you he loved you. I had a romantic notion that he had changed when he married you. Everyone knows this about Gordon, that he doesn't tell the truth, that he doesn't deal squarely with anyone. People don't want to bring it up because he can promise them work. He's Sant Claus. Anybody he's dealt with over time has the same story.

→ just completed a film on married homosexuals (straight wives) LOS - used Gordon's profile

I felt there was bisexuality with Gordon. At your wedding, I kept thinking, he's getting married and he's gay. Everybody is afraid of Gordon because people know if you cross him, he will get you. Everybody was always afraid of him at Bonneville.

Call Scott Swofford who's working on "The Work and the Glory," movie. Call Jeff Hilton, although he may be self protective. Ask Peggy Fletcher who told me she observed all the gorgeous men at your wedding. Ask Dodge Billingsly or Greg Carlisle who's on his own, live on Marmalade Hill. Ask Jerilyn Dreyfus who works with the Utah Symphony or Kent Frogley—583-2512. Talk with Lauri Milier or Keith Merrill.

Gordon hired me at Bonneville, introduced me to a lot of things. He is Santa Claus. I used to think, "he's the power; he can take me somewhere." He flew me to New York when I was in total depression, took me to stores and restaurants. He's totally a split person. He said he was hurt when Dick Allsop fired him. Someone came to meet with him once when Gordon had just been fired from a job and Gordon was in a really bad place. The person said to Gordon, "I see you are a Ghandi," I met with him after that and he talked about having been fired and referred to himself as, "the Ghandi that I am," He lives in utopia.

Uuu. Jeff Hilton

I spoke with Jeff Hilton and he said that he had had such a terrible experience in his association with Gordon that he didn't want to speak about it, he didn't want to even say his name. He may be willing to speak under subpoena.

Vvv. Bart North

He was my bishop in 1976 when Gordon came to me four days before my marriage to Steve and told me he had been fasting and praying on the mountain and that God had told him I was to him, not Steve. I was so upset, I counseled with Bart North who told me that I should marry the person who had courted me and been there for me (Steve) and not the person who had just shown up a few times with gifts and then tried to use God to pressure me into canceling my marriage to Steve.

Www. Dr. Frank Yanowitz

Dr. Yanowitz is head of the Fitness Institute at LDS Hospital. (408-1396) He is the doctor on Wes Bowen's death certificate, and apparently was the one who was called in when Scott Bowen found his father on September 4 and determined that there was no "foul play," that Wes Bowen had died from "natural causes incident to age." Dr. Yanowitz determined that Wes died either the evening of Monday, September 1 or Tuesday morning, September 2. Although Wes died alone, there was no formal autopsy because Wes had been seen by a physician on August 23, 2003. The obituary in the Desert News on September 9 states that, "Wes G. Bowen, 79, passed away at home of natural causes, September 2, 2003. The death certificated puts September 4 as the date of his death, I guess because that is when he was found. Dr. Yanowitz should give a statement of when he believes Wes died, which he told Scott Bowen—either Monday

Fff. Jean Boyce

My deceased mother. See "m" above.

Ggg. and Hhh. Brad and Pat Nygren (Testimonies #37)

Brad met Gordon 30 years ago when Gordon worked at the V.D. Clinic and Brad worked at the Drug Referral Center. Gordon told Brad he like examining the men and had no interest in examining the women. Gordon pulled many "pranks" with Brad including having Brad pick him up from the health department in a wheel chair, telling Brad that when they had wrestled the night before over who would do the dishes, and Gordon's toenail got torn off, that the subsequent infection had caused the doctors to have to amputate Gordon's toe. Brad said this was disturbing because he had a deadline for a grant to complete that night which Gordon knew about and Gordon had interrupted his time to work on it and all for a prank. Another time, Gordon lost 20 pounds and told Brad and Pat that he had cancer. Later he said that the cancer story was a joke, that he lost the weight because he had been fasting and praying for a week that I would not marry Steve Timothy and would marry Gordon instead. Brad worried that Gordon had romantic interest in him. Gordon would always give Brad a backrub, invite him to do voice work in Chicago or elsewhere for his company which always turned out to be fraudulent after Brad arrived, get Brad to the airport late so he'd often miss his flight and want Brad to share the same bed with him.

Brad related the events when Gordon lived on 12th East and complained of the evil spirits attacking him and his home because he felt Satan did not want him to complete the important work he was doing for the Church. Brad said Gordon had his bishop, Gil Sanders do an exorcism and give him a blessing, and had Pres. Boyd K. Packer also give him a blessing, but Gordon said the torment continued from the evil spirits, so Gordon would ask the young men at Bonneville to come stay with him and sleep in the same bed. Gordon came to their Brad's home one night and slept on the floor by the side of Brad and Pat's bed and insisted on holding Brad's hand all night. When Brad dropped Gordon off the next day, he received a call from Gordon 30 minutes later to come back and Brad saw that Gordon's home had been destroyed—windows broken, sheets slashed, chandeliers broken, furniture turned over etc. In the snow were two giant initials—GB and BN (Gordon Bowen and Brad Nygren) with no footprints leading up to the initials. The police were called in and they said it looked like the result of a dispute between gay lovers.

Brad said that Gordon talked about marrying me as his lifelong goal, but Brad noticed that the moment he married me, he lost interest. He also noted that Gordon didn't take any time to be with Lily after she was born, that Gordon would not be a good influence on Lily and Caleb. Brad said that he realized there are two Gordons, that his life in advertising has seduced him into another life, evidenced by Gordon's lack of church attendance, his language and just a general overall bad feeling Brad and Pat have about Gordon.

Iii. Ellen Richardson (#31,33 Testimonies)

Ellen worked with Gordon at Bonneville. She was also a girlfriend of Gordon's during this time. Ellen describes Gordon as her closest encounter with evil. She said: "Gordon tended to associate with bright, lovely women and caused everyone of them to doubt their sanity, their desirability and their femininity. After being his girlfriend for two years, I couldn't walk, feel myself or care for myself. I was completely debilitated. I was in bed for two years after. Gordon kept women as a shield. He stood me up and treated me abusively over and over again. There were some gay guys in SLC who said they should "out him" at his wedding, meaning they wanted to expose him, but I told them not to ruin the wedding. I have worried about you (Barbara) all these years. Gordon treats people terribly. He took me to Central Park at 2 a.m. and wouldn't take me back to the hotel. He just put me in a cab. With Gordon it's always someone else's fault. He lied about everything, even things he didn't have to lie about. He turned everything around. Gordon commits murder of one's professional life, soul, mental state and spirit. At one point Gordon said that there were evil spirits in his home because he was doing great work with the Church and he'd beg men at Bonneville to come stay at his home and always insisted that they sleep in the same bed with him. He had the bishop of the ward do an exorcism of the home. I went to his house and saw his clothing shredded with razor blades, potted plants thrown against walls, furniture destroyed. My friend, who is gay told me that it was such a classic example of a vindictive gay lover who was retaliating against Gordon.

Gordon was involved with a group of young men, 10 or 11 year olds in a focus group where some strange things went on. I WONDER IF A LOT OF HIS MONEY GOES TO HUSH MONEY.

After he was fired from Bonneville, he went to the Triad Center and sat in front of the Bonneville Corporate Offices for two to three days without eating, bathing or shaving, waiting for Arch Madsen. I was the Human Resources V.P. and I was leaving for Great Britain, but got a call from the night watchman at 3 a.m. saying that Gordon was pounding on the door to let him in. I got up and met him at 5:00 a.m. and sat in his office as he put things in boxes. Dick Allsop called and asked, 'Did you ever have sex with Gordon Bowen?' I collapsed in laughter and said, 'Gordon doesn't do women.' Dick then said, 'Gordon is attesting that he got his job at Bonneville by sleeping with you.' Gordon would buy people off. He bought expensive gifts for Boyd K. Packer. Gordon wanted to take over the management of Bonneville and Dick Allsop started to see through him. Gordon can't stand people who begin to see through him. All of Bonneville was in peril because of him. Gordon is a Ted Bundy. He is so bright, but he is devoid of human conscience. His power over you is to make you doubt yourself. He mimics any emotion which serves him, rapture or spirituality. He learns the vernacular of what matters to you most and then speaks to you in that language, using it to manipulate you. Whenever you reveal an emotion or a concern, he maps out where to hit you next. He knows what will move you and he plays on it. Barbara, he wants power over you and the children. It's all about his image. He feeds on the blood of others in his energy, like a vampire. And he cannot energize himself if he is too long away from his victims. He has to create energy, chaos, blood to feed on. Every time he comes, he thrives on this. You are not dealing with a rational man. With a normal person, you could have a conversation and work things out. He knows how to manipulate you. He talks with you about spiritual things. He goes to your parents and works on the boys and others trying to convince them that you're not stable, reliable or lovable. He tries to convince you of this too. Gordon is sophisticated enough to manipulate the brightest and the best people in the highest circles, but after they want nothing to do with him. He is toxic to normal people. The first way he will destroy the children will be to destroy you. He is the best at crazy making, game playing. He takes the brightest and the best people and makes them feel they are flawed. He switches emotional states and uses brainwashing techniques. He treats you abusively, then he lavishes you with gifts and words of love. In his presence, his energy is like mesmerizing brainwashing. Gordon Bowen is the most dangerous man I've ever known in my life. He is capable of great psychic and emotional violence. He is very destructive and he has no conscience. Gordon is several personalities and I'm not sure that they recognize each other. Some days he would show up disheveled, looking like a bag man with no recollection of the day before. Gordon is a predator and has huge resources to use. I've never seen anyone craft words like he does. He is a genius, especially in getting other people to do his work. Gordon's couldn't write a tag line or create a strategy. He is talented in assembling bright people to do the creative work. He is a predator using bright people. You are dealing with deep evil. We have seen this face and the danger is real. Gordon must not be left alone with the children."

B Jjj. Jeff Streeper (Testimonies #36)

I first worked with Gordon at Ogilvy and Mather. He didn't like me because I didn't kowtow to him so I left. And then when Adrian and Gordon got together at Y&R Adrian brought me in to work on stuff and I continued working with Gordon until it became so untenable and I had to leave. Gordon was not supportive. He would back stab. I told him how I couldn't work with him anymore unless I could work somewhere else in the agency, so I was looking for another job.

Gordon's a pathological liar and all of that. The problem is he actually believes his bull shit which is terrifying. He believes all his grandiosity. He gives you promises that "if you stick with me everything will be great." He had his todies he would drag around like Dodge Billingsly and various people that believed his promises of things, but then he'd never follow through. He did that with Curtis Glade. Gordon used Curtis's credit card without his permission. Curtis was going to call the cops and have him arrested. He used a number of people's credit cards without telling them.

It's crazy because he's a confidence—his move depends on the moment and he's always on the move. He sees the world this way, how he's been wronged. It's never about what he's doing to hurt anyone else nor does he really care. He isn't really capable of caring for anyone else because his reality is what he can create and write because he has no real connection to reality. I don't have any other stories. I heard Kevin Kelly found Gordon tied up in his living room. He said that he had been robbed by a homeless person.

I did work with him at Ogilvy and Adrian and I on the potential American Express account. We kept a couple of service providers open over the weekend, ordered type, spent $60,000-$70,000 to keep things going for the presentation for American Express. Then we found out that Gordon didn't even have approval from American Express or from the agency. It was something he had speculated on and brought us into. We didn't get paid for 4 years. He kept telling us we had to change the invoices and things. It just wasn't authorized. I assumed he was always doing triple billing and things.

evening or Tuesday morning, to counter Gordon's statement to Heather Walker that they were all playing golf on a Thursday and that his father died on a Friday.

Xxx. Dr. Charles Ralston

Dr. Ralston is Lily and Caleb's pediatrician since birth. I have a statement from Dr. Ralston to counter the letter from Gordon, January 2006 stating that Lily's cheek had been damaged due to fall on the stairs and that Gordon had contacted specialists in New York her felt it might necessitate surgery, implying that I had not handled her medical needs well. Dr. Ralston states that the dimple in Lily's cheek is natural and that there is no damage. He implies that I have taken good care of the children. If he were asked, he would state as he did to me the Gordon's letter looked like he was trying to set me up and that I have taken excellent care of the medical needs of both Lily and Caleb.

Yyy. Dr. Victor Cline (Items 14, a,b)

Dr. Cline did a limited evaluation of Gordon in May 2004 and a follow-up recommendation for a psychiatric examination to evaluate his mental, sexual and emotional stability. It was based on information I gave Dr. Cline, including statements from Gordon's associates, Gordon's journal and other information in the box of information given to my attorneys, Heather Walker, and Dr. Barden. Dr. Cline says 'Not having interviewed or subjected Mr. Bowen to a thorough psychological evaluation I do not think it appropriate for me to label him with a DSM IV diagnostic category. However, I can certainly render an opinion based on 35 years of clinical practice as well as working many years with sexual addicts that based on what evidence we do have that his children (ages 2 and a newborn) would be at risk to be in his care unsupervised beyond four hours and never at this young age over night. Frequency of contact might be safely once every 2 to 4 weeks. Mrs. Bowen cited an instance where when she was in the hospital having the in vitro fertilization procedure, Mr. Bowen, while baby-sitting Lily, in a hotel room was making calls to male prostitute escort agencies. Mr. Bowen would appear to have reduced impulse control, give evidence of being erratic in his behavior, with sometimes, poor social judgment, a long history of irresponsible behavior and highly probable sexual acting out which would be sufficient reason for the court to limit his association with his two children as being in their best interest as well as protect them from potential harm.

Privately, Dr. Cline told me that Gordon's journal presented delusional, perhaps psychotic thinking. He said that Gordon had definitely chosen the "dark side."

Zzz. Dr. Bernard Grosser (head of psychiatry, University of Utah)

I saw Dr. Grosser on a few occasions to get medication for depression. I also had my son, Eric, see Dr. Grosser for depression, beginning December 2004, then switched, 6 months later to Dr. Doug Gray, head of adolescent psychiatry, University of Utah. Dr. Grosser did a brief review of the materials in the box mentioned above. He wrote a short statement, sent to Russ Hettinger, saying he recommended Gordon get psychological testing.

Privately, he told me that Gordon's writings appeared delusional. He said he felt the children should never be left alone with Gordon. He also said that the one word people had not used to describe Gordon, but which he found most appropriate was ,

"seductive."

Aaaa. Richard Eyre

Rick and Linda Eyre have been long time friends of Gordon's. They are aware of the homosexual behavior, but they reserve judgment. When Gordon's homosexuality was found out by our family, Gordon went to Rick Eyre and told him about Gordon's father's friend's sexual abuse of him and how he had had just a little problem with hiring men to hold him. He told Rick he was going to quit his new company, McGarry Bowen, move back to SLC and fight to save the marriage and the family.

Rick would be one to contact regarding Gordon's statement that he had been sexually abused, countering the statement he gave Heather Walker about having never been abused. However, he may be more reluctant, and Truman Madsen, whom Gordon also contacted and told about the abuse, I believe, has stated his willingness to make a statement.

Bbbb. Aldo Papone

American Express
Aldo was one of the head's of American Express when Gordon was working on the account. Michelle Avantario suggested that we contact him to find out if Gordon had any dishonest dealings with American Express. Adrian Pulfer said that when they were doing the work to pitch the American Express account that Gordon didn't have authorized, Gordon triple billed American Express, Ogilvy and another agency.

Cccc. Jerilyn Dreyfus

Jerilyn worked for the Utah Symphony and is an independent filmmaker. She is a very reliable source. She has had some experiences with Gordon and stated to Steve Williams, "Everyone knows that Gordon lies."

Dddd. Helayne Spivak

Lynn Dangel
She is a long-time friend of Gordon's, presently working in Chicago for BBDO. She let Collin stay in her apartment in New York when Collin was pursuing modeling work. Gordon helped arrange for the apartment. Helayne told Lynn Dangel the sexual fantasy story of Gordon's that every Sunday the whole family, including grown boys, gets into bed naked. She also commented on the feeling she had that Gordon was more married to Collin than to me and that Gordon would show her provocative pictures of the boys but none of me.

Eeee. Heber Wolsey

Director of Public Communications for the LDS Church, went to work for BYU. Gordon tried to have Heber lose his job so Bonneville could take over the work the Church was giving to public communications.

Ffff. John Kinnear

John was the assistant director of public communications and has some knowledge of interaction with Gordon.
