

From the Executive Director of Adefua Cultural Education Workshop

We are deeply grateful to recognize the financial supporters that have sustained our operations and our artist. In these saddened times of COVID-19, we've been devastated and at a loss for current management and our next steps that coincide with our vision and mission. These following organizations and agencies have provided ways and means of hope, as we can now look into our community to further operate. Adefua has mobilized programming and planning. We will continue to reach out and support our community in courageous measure to continue to heal during this time.
