Dr. Mallory Read Norfolk, Virginia

"Lincoln's Lues - The Disease of Tyrants"

Tyrants are leaders whose rule ignores laws and borders and may involve violence and cruelty to preserve and expand the area under their control. Courses on deviant behavior teach the fact that many ruthless dictators had brain infections, particularly the prevalent sexually transmitted disease, syphilis. While often sparing intelligence in it's early phase, the brain eating germs cause depression, headaches, monomania, delusions of grandeur, uncontrollable anger and aggression, and loss of certain important human functions such as judgement, insight, and compassion. The more than 16,000 books on Lincoln are mostly fawning praise of a man who was chief executive during the worst 4 years of our history, a time when the Federal government stole power from the States and committed unspeakable war crimes upon Southern civilians. Few of these mention that the 16th President took Bluemass, a mercury containing compound, 3 times a day for many years. There is scant serious medical consideration given to what was really wrong with Mary Lincoln, or with the Lincoln's diseased Seldom is the case made of the fact that the Commander-in-Chief of the Union had a common form of insanity. Join us tonight for an insightful medical discussion into this very probable situation.

Mallory Read, MD is the great grandson of Lt. Charles William "Savez" Read, CSN, and is one of 5 generations named for Stephen Mallory. He took his BA from UVa and MD from The Medical College of Virginia, now VCU. He served as Chief of Emergency Medicine at Norfolk General Hospital and Maryview Hospital, and was a medical director of the Rescue Squad. He practiced clinical medicine for 33 years, doing diagnostic work every day. He is proud to serve as Commander of The Norfolk County Grays.

Bring a guest to our September meeting. Supper will be served at 6:30 and we will introduce Dr. Read at 7:30. Our buffet costs $17 per person. Non members please contact Ken Parsons at kparsons4@cox.net or 757-564-0878 to confirm reservations.

Trivia Question:

What unit (north or south) had the greatest number of soldiers killed during the war?

Answer: Pending

Ancestral Memorial Candle:

Read by Compatriot Charles Eugene Bush in honor of Captain Thomas J. Key, Key's Battery - Arkansas Light Artillery

Program:

Introduction of Guest Speaker by 1st Lieutenant Commander Jeff Toalson: Our guest speaker was Ms. Marilyn Iglesias, who provided a vivid and fascinating first-person portrayal of Captain Sally Tompkins, CSA. The camp was regaled with stories of her life and in particular the role she undertook during the WBTS when she convinced Judge Robertson of Richmond to allow him to turn his home into the 'Robertson Hospital.' We also learned learn why President Jefferson Davis commissioned Sally as a Captain in the Confederate cavalry.

Committee Reports & Announcements: Treasurer' Report

Adjutant Ken Parsons requested prompt submission of dues by those members who have not yet paid.

Cemetery Report

2nd Lieutenant Commander Steve White thanked Compatriot Scott Summerfield for continuing maintenance efforts and indicated that recent wet weather has inhibited otherwise scheduled activities.

Support the Troops

Adjutant Ken Parsons again indicated that a replacement deployed soldier will need to be identified shortly in order to continue our "Support the Troops" project. Ken also requested assistance with packages and shipping.

Old Business

Commander Jerry White informed the Camp of ongoing efforts by many groups via the York County Board of Supervisors to inhibit the potential commercial/residential development of significant portions of the Williamsburg Battlefield.

New Business

The Nominating Committee submitted its slate of candidates for Camp Office for 2013-2015 and the Camp approved the following nominees by acclamation:

HONOR YOUR ANCESTOR

In the past four years we have had Camp members light memorial candles eleven times in honor of their ancestors. That is only about three per year!

Please provide 1st Lt. Commander Jeff Toalson with information on your ancestor and he will conduct additional research, coordinating with you and your family to select a night to honor ancestor.

NNUAL DUSS

Annual dues are coming in with about 85% of the Camp's members having paid. Those that haven't please bring your complete dues statement and available remittance to the meeting on September 25th. - Adjutant Ken Parsons

CONFEDERATE GRAVESITES

(Contributed by Historian/Genealogist Compatriot Fred Boelt)

William Henry Edloe Morecock was born on September 20, 1836 in New Kent County. He was the third child of William Beverley Morecock and his wife, Ann Cocke Edloe. While still a young child, his father purchased "Ashland," an 878 acre farm on Diascund Road in James City County [site of now defunct Colonial Golf Course]. This was where Morecock spent his childhood, but by 1859, he was enrolled at the College of William and Mary. The 1860 census listed him as a "clerk" [of County Court], living in the household of Catherine M. Maupin on Duke of Gloucester Street. The college records indicate that he was still enrolled there in 1861.

Morecock was listed on the Muster Roll on April 28, 1861, but he was elected 1st Lieutenant of Company C, 32nd Virginia Infantry, on May 11, 1861. On May 29th, Lt. Morecock was detailed with two sergeants to reconnoiter the federal lines for Lt. Col. Benjamin S. Ewell. On December 6th, he was appointed Acting Assistant Adjutant General for Col. Ewell at his Williamsburg post. He served in this capacity through January and then was a Mustering Officer in February 1862. He was reelected 1st Lieutenant in May, but by June, he was absent due to illness and seems to have been in a hospital in Richmond through January 1863. He resigned on November 6, 1862, having already been dropped from rolls due to his absence without leave.

However, Morecock's service did not end here. Apparently when his health improved, by his own request, he was granted permission on November 20, 1863, in Fauquier County, to enlist as a private in Company C, 43rd Virginia Cavalry, also known as Mosby's Partisan Raiders. He was promoted to 4th Sergeant on December 7th and served with this unit through October 1864. On January 8th, 1864, he was wounded below the hip by a bullet at Harper's Ferry [another source suggests that he was wounded on January 10th in the Loudoun Heights battle].

Morecock served as a clerk in General Richard S. Ewell's office toward the end of the war. He was requested by the James City Artillery to become their 1st Lieutenant, but the war ended before this transfer was completed. William H. E. Morecock was paroled at Winchester, Virginia on April 24, 1865. The paper that he signed described him as age 28, 5 feet, 11 inches tall; light complexion and hair, blue eyes.

Before he was paroled, William Morecock married Harriett Virginia Jackson (1842-1929) at "Woodlawn," near Markham in Fauquier County, on April 6, 1865. Virginia, as she was known, was the daughter of George Jackson and his wife, Mary Ann Adams. Soon after the war was over, William and Virginia came to Williamsburg and lived on Duke of Gloucester Street near present day Wetherburn's Tavern. They eventually had three sons and five daughters.

William Morecock again became Clerk of Court in 1867. He was one of the three men who formed the City of Williamsburg School Board in December 1870, putting into effect the new state law requiring public education. He was elected chairman in 1873 and remained in that position until 1883. Morecock was secretary for the Board of Visitors of the College of William and Mary from 1877 to 1890, and he was treasurer of the college in 1888 and 1889. He was elected to be a member of R. E. Lee Camp No. 1, Confederate Veterans on December 30, 1887.

William Henry Edloe Morecock died at his home on April 12, 1896, after enduring failing health for a year. He was interred in Cedar Grove Cemetery. There is no tombstone at his grave; only a metal marker with his name, date of death, and 1st Lieut, Co. C, 32nd Va. Inf. inscribed on it.

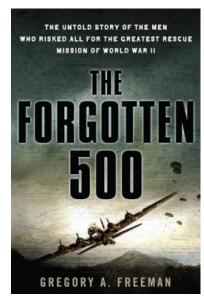

SEPTEMBER BOOK RAFFLE

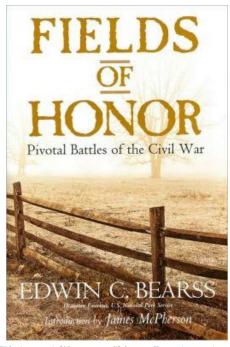

"The Brothers War - The Civil War Letters to their Loved Ones from the Blue and Gray" Annette Tapert, editor, Soft Cover, 1989, New York, 240 pages

A collection of letters home, mostly from the common soldiers, spanning the entire conflict. An interesting collection.

"The Forgotten 500" Gregory A.
Freeman, Soft Cover, 2007, New York,
300 pages

A daring WW II rescue of downed U. S. bomber crews in Yugoslavia using C-47 cargo planes landing on dirt strips cleared by the stranded Americans without tools and without alerting the Germans. Operation Halyard is quite a story.

"Fields of Honor - Pivot Battles of the Civil War" Edwin C. Bearss, Hard Cover, 2006, Washington, 447 pages Renowed historian Ed Bearss takes you on a written version of his famous walking tours of the key battle of the WBTS. Easy reading and insightful.

SEPTEMBER TRIVIA QUESTION

From which state did the most WBTS soldiers die and where are the most Union soldiers buried?
