Opening Statement

#1- Hector Saucedo

Today, we stand together as The Church, the Body of Christ, united to say that we have seen enough injustice and inequality. When one part of the body suffers, the whole body suffers and we will not sit back and accept it any longer.

#2 - Jasmine McDaniel

Dr. Anita Philips describes racism as an autoimmune disease in the Body. It is attacking itself. And in order for our communities to heal we have to intentionally and patiently treat the wounds of the past and remove the enemies of racism and hate that caused the wounds.

#3 - Sheridan McDaniel

We are calling for the church to be the leader of peace, healing, and reconciliation for our families and our neighborhoods, by speaking up about the things that matter. Dr. Martin Luther King once stated, "In the end, we will remember not the words of our enemies, but the silence of our friends." So, friends, it is time that we have some hard conversations.

#4 - Ruthi Hanchett

Today we are here to say that Black Lives do Matter. To paraphrase Jeremiah 29:7, "We are going to seek the flourishing of our neighbors who are black. We refuse to participate and profit from the exploitation of others. We are going to come alongside them, stand with them, listen to them, and seek their wellbeing. And in their flourishing, we all flourish.

#5 - Elliot Chung

Today we are here to declare that racism is sin. We renounce, lament, and repent of this sin that plagues our land. People of God, we are taking a stand against this generational sin, especially against our African American brothers and sisters, and other peoples of color.

#6 - Charity Mahoney

Today we are here to respond to God's call upon his people, that if my people who are called by my name become humble and pray, and look for me, and turn away from their evil ways, then I will hear them from heaven. I will forgive their sin and heal their land.
