The Conversation Series 1

Presenting original bird life art in a new way that attempts to communicate with the human spirit.

Birds talk.....

We can listen by watching. The inspiration is through the eyes. What are they thinking? What are they saying to each other? Can we, as humans eavesdrop? Yes we can.

"Kooka & King" has been a commissioned from the Conversation series. SOLD

Observing and befriending our wildlife is natural, rewarding and a joy to all artists and patrons.

As an artist, I have tried to capture these moments from sly grins to the squawks of joy. This has become a passion with days spent photographing and sketching with all of my loyal but noisy and restless models. I hope you share those moments and my interpretation. These moments in time are for you to enjoy in respect for my feathered friends who said they appreciate it

The Artist

Peter Baron studied for 4 years at the Hull College of Art in England. Moving to London in the 70's he was mentored by Robert Scott, the son of William Scott and Ben John, the grandson of Augustus John.

History

Peter has exhibited at a number of galleries with works in Parliament House. He has won an Australian Design Award and featured in three pages of Time Magazine.

Guarantee

All canvas works are created from original observations and inspirational photographs taken by the artist.

Limited giclée canvasses are edition numbered and signed on the face side. (30)

Any limited print runs are individually numbered and also signed on the face side. Additionally, the rear has an individual red fingerprint, also with a signature by Peter. (50)
