

Quantum – Capo IV

INTRO

My mind's a computer it seems to be thinking

Pushed all the buttons but it's only blinking

Spend all my time counting zeros and ones

Think that it's over but it's just begun

Turns out that in between 's only the opening

From the mind's eye there's infinity beckoning

Screaming out loud from the left and the right

Whispering softly just follow the light

Some like to meditate some like to medicate

Deep down inside there's a longing to elevate

Circuits are firing it must be the wiring

Countdowns begun I can feel myself tiring

Maybe they're right maybe it's just the drugs

Maybe I'm offline I'm finally unplugged

Maybe I'm offline I'm finally unplugged

Maybe I'm offline I'm finally uuuuunnnnn

Does the rain seek approval from the sea

Try to keep from fallin' like the way we've all keep callin'

On each other when we don't know how to be

Cause it's oh so hard to know how to be

Does the wind seek direction from the trees

Try to keep from blowin' like the way we all keep showin'

That the hardest part is to believe

Yeah the hardest part is to believe, yeah

CHORUS I

Don't be surprised we never think for ourselves

Only believe what they put on the shelf

Don't be surprised we never think for ourselves

Only believe what they put on the shelf

Does the rain seek approval from the sea

Try to keep from fallin' like the way we've all keep callin'

On each other when we don't know how to be

Cause it's oh so hard to know how to be

Does the wind seek direction from the trees

Try to keep from blowin' like the way we all keep showin'

That the hardest part is to believe

Yeah the hardest part is to believe, yeah

CHORUS II

Don't be surprised we never think for ourselves

Only believe what they put on the shelf

Don't be surprised we never think for ourselves

Only believe what they put on the shelf