

Oxford Numerology University®

International Accreditation Strategy

This document outlines the international accreditation plan of Oxford Numerology University®, structured into four strategic phases across the United Kingdom, Australia, the United States, and Asia. Each application strengthens the institutional profile, ensures educational legitimacy, and aligns with international recognition systems.

IPHM - United Kingdom

International Practitioners of Holistic Medicine

→ The largest global network of holistic therapists and educators. Accreditation through IPHM provides international visibility and affiliation within a broad community of alternative education.

IICT - Australia

International Institute for Complementary Therapists

→ A network for international practitioners and education providers in complementary fields. Accreditation enables the global acceptance and recognition of Oxford Numerology University® as a training provider.

AADP - United States

American Association of Drugless Practitioners

→ Accredits holistic educational programmes. Aligns with wellness and coaching networks, validating the institution's role in holistic development.

APQN - Asia

Asia-Pacific Quality Network

→ The largest transnational organization for quality assurance in higher education across Asia and the Pacific, providing alignment with internationally recognized quality assurance practices.

Oxford Numerology University®

Oxford Numerology University® affirms its strategic alignment with regional, continental, and global education standards and bodies, ensuring long-term integration of the COR 516102 EU Numerologist Standard into the international landscape of professional education.

11.04.2025

CATALIN COSTACHE,

Founder & General Secretary
Oxford Numerology University
Chief Executive Officer
Oxford Numerology Society (UK)