

DAVIES PLANTATION HOMEOWNERS ASSOCIATION

Winners of 2009 Christmas Light Judging

This year, like every year, judging is difficult with so many wonderful homes all decked out for the holiday season. Judges were presented with all shapes and sizes of decorations from simple lights, to tastefully placed wreaths and garland, from blow-ups of every size, shape and character to light-shows set to music and from lighted candy canes to manger scenes, we were honored to be able to see each and every house in all of Davies Plantation. Most judges had between 18 to 20 selections within the 7 different categories and had to narrow their final choice for each area. Once that was complete, a tally of the votes were taken, awarding the following people as this year's winners. Congratulations to all that participated as well as the 2009 winners!

New Year's Eve

December 31st is fast approaching and quite a few of us will be venturing out to attend parties to say good-bye to 2009 and hello to 2010. Please plan ahead and pick your designated driver early. Police will be out in full force, not only on the main streets of Shelby County but in neighborhoods as well. It is not hard for a police officer to know a party is taking place when there are multiple cars located in the driveway and parked on the street. Have your driver attend the party with you, take a taxi and schedule a return pick-up, or have your driver drop you off then pick you up at a predetermined time.

Brunswick Farms Zoning Change Meeting
Jan 5th

The DPHA Board would like to invite anyone in the neighborhood who is interested to attend a meeting with the developer of Brunswick Farms, Pat Ryan at Hillwood on Jan. 5th at 6:30pm regarding a significant change in zoning requirements for the new homes under construction in Brunswick Farms (the new home development west of Brunswick between Hillman Way and Lakeside Hospital) that involves:

- Lowering the minimum size of some homes from 2400 to 200 square feet
- Changing the home building specifications from 90% brick or stone on the entry front to only that area not covered by a front porch roof.

The DPHA Board has taken an opposed stance to these changes in zoning. Feel free to invite anyone else you know who may be interested.

We need your input!

How Much Does Your Baby-Sitter Know?

If you are using a new baby-sitter, you will need to leave more than just some phone numbers. It is important to take some time before your first time away to introduce your sitter to your children, home and safety procedures.

Leave your cell phone number, the numbers of trusted neighbors or relatives that live close by and the phone numbers for emergency services in your area. In addition to writing down these phone numbers, be sure to write down your address. In an emergency, your sitter may not remember your house number, especially if they are under stress.

Discuss your fire evacuation plan. Instruct your sitter to make it the first priority to get the children out of the house in case of fire. They should not feel the need to try to put out any fire, regardless of the size. It is crucial to remove the children from the home and then call emergency services. Show the sitter all the exits from the home, how to operate all the locks and where to go after leaving the home to call for help.

In the event of a power outage, your sitter will need to know where you keep a flashlight, candles, matches and blankets. If you anticipate bad weather, you may also want to leave a weather emergency kit with a battery operated radio, basic first aid kit and bottled water.

If your child has special needs, your sitter will appreciate it if you write those down as well. It may be overwhelming to hear too many instructions all at once, so writing down things such as allergies, bedtime and other special care instructions your child may need can help your sitter to remember. Always remember that your sitter is NOT you. They are not as familiar with your home and your children as you are, help them be the best that they can be.

Feature Creature

Canadian Goose

Canadian Geese live in a great many habitats near water, grassy fields and grain fields. They are particularly drawn to lawns for two reasons: they can digest grass, and when they are feeding with their young, manicured lawns give them a wide, unobstructed view of any approaching predator. So they are especially abundant in parks, airports and golf courses.

In spring and summer, geese concentrate their feeding on grasses and sedges, including skunk cabbage leaves and eelgrass. During the fall and winter, they rely more on berries and seeds, they are especially fond of blueberries. And they are very efficient at removing kernels from dry corn cobs.

They mate for life with very low “divorce rate,” and pairs remain together throughout the year, with most not picking their mate until they are at least 4 years old.

Spotting a Canadian Goose in our neighborhood is not all that hard, even this time of the year. Many of the small ponds will host at least 1 pair of geese. They are fairly easy to recognize with a black head and neck, white chinstrap, light tan to cream breast and a brown back. They can be aggressive and will often help themselves to your swimming pool to take a bath.

Trees For Good Color

By: Jim Volgas
 Master Gardener & ISA Certified Arborist

Some trees that do well in the mid-south and display exception color include: Red Maples especially some of the new cultivars, Ginkos with their bright yellow-gold foliage and the Black Tupelo whose leaves may be yellow, red or orange depending on it's mood. The Common Smoke Tree with it's burnt reds, yellows and purples is another interesting palate of colors. Also breathtaking is the show put on by the berries of the Possumhaw or the deciduous hollies.

Color does not have to end when the leaves have fallen. Consider trees with exfoliating bark such as many crepe myrtles, the Paperbark Maple and some of the birches. I can't talk about color and trees without reminding the reader of a few basic maintenance rules which can better ensure maximum color. DO NOT PRUNE the early bloomers until after they have bloomed. Prune other late winter just before time for them to break out in buds. During drought years, water your trees through the winter months often enough that the soil around the roots

During drought years, water your trees through the winter months often enough that the soil around the roots does not dry out completely. Fertilize all in the spring using a "balanced" fertilizer with a low-nitrogen (the first number) content until after they have bloomed. DO NOT fertilize with a slow-release fertilizer after August. Mulch with a one to two inch layer of your favorite organic mulch, pulling it a few inches away from the trunk of the tree.

Strolling through public arboretums in the fall and early spring will expose you to many trees with beautiful color, plus, many of them are labeled so that you can put them on your shopping list.

Park Update

Dear Neighbors,
 It's hard to believe that the holidays are here and 2009 is almost over. I didn't realize until after accepting this office just how many projects, both big and small, are accomplished each year by our members. Special thanks to our DPHA Board and our band of regular neighborhood volunteers for their continued service and donation of their time and talents. The great thing is that many of you still have talents that we can utilize for current and future projects and our goal in 2010 is to find a place for all of them.

As most of you know, the City of Bartlett has purchased land for an 18 acre park site south of Davies Plantation Road between Pembroke Ellis and Alfred Dr. We are continuing to work cooperatively with the Bartlett Parks & Recreation to develop a neighborhood park that will strive to preserve and enhance the natural character of the neighborhood while providing basic park amenities primarily for Davies Plantation neighborhood families to use and enjoy. Preliminary site preparation is currently underway. The city has awarded a paving contract for a 20 car parking lot and driveway entrance/exit at a cost of approximately $40,000.00 from the $180,000.00 in budgeted funds. Construction is currently underway, and is expected to be complete in about 3 months depending on weather. Equipment for the small playground has also been ordered based on recommendations from the Davies Play Group and approved by the DPHA Board of Directors. The city is also preparing to drain the lake and relocate the fish in order to repair the dam which has been compromised by animal burrows. However, the ground must be dry in order to work on the dam. The remaining budgeted funds for completing the park will be used for an asphalt perimeter trail, benches, picnic tables and other small items.

As always, the DPHA Board welcomes comments and suggestions that help to improve our neighborhood. Feel free to contact any of the DPHA Board members, including me. Our phone numbers and e-mail addresses are listed in the newsletter.

7 Tips for Keeping Your Resolutions

Virtually everyone has made a New Year’s resolution—and then quickly broken it. While your intentions may be good, reality makes it hard to keep those promises. Use these 7 tips to help you achieve your goals:

1. Be Realistic. Don’t make too many resolutions or make your goals unattainable. It might be better to just have one resolution that is within reach. Example: If you want to pay off your debt, it won’t happen in a month, divide total debt by 12 and see where you can shave spending to aid in applying additional monies to bills.
2. Plan Ahead. Spend some time thinking about your goals. With some forethought, you can come up with a good plan.
3. Get A Buddy. Keeping your resolution a secret is a sure-fire way to slip up. Get friends and family members involved. Their encouragement will assist you in achieving your goal.
4. Give Yourself A Reward. Set some goalposts that you can reach along your resolution journey. Once you’ve accomplished a smaller goal, give yourself a reward. Buy a new outfit or see a movie after your first five pounds of weight loss.

5. Keep Track of Your Progress. A journal or chart can be a good way to watch your progress. A person trying to quit smoking can count the days on a calendar.
6. Hang In There. Behavioral scientists say that it takes about 21 days to form a new habit. It can take up to 6 months for it to become a part of your personality and feel second-nature. Give yourself some time to get used to your new way of thinking.
7. Don’t Be Too Hard On Yourself. If you do fumble and slip on occasion, you can still continue with your resolution. One reason many people give up is that they slipped up. Then they feel there is no use in continuing to tackle that goal. Instead, take each day one at a time. If you do have a lapse, simply restart your resolution again. You don’t have to give up completely or wait until next year.

Real Estate Update

By: John S. White

Although it has been a difficult year in the real estate market, the good news is that things are getting better. We started the year with significant inventory in the metro area. Some areas had more than a 15 month supply, where a 5-6 month supply is considered normal and healthy. Inventory levels have moderated, and Bartlett now has a more normal 6 month supply. In Davies Plantation, with nearly 900 homes, there have been 21 sales this year with 16 homes currently on the market. Sales have been slower on some properties, but the overall trend has been very positive in the second half of the year. Sales in our neighborhood will benefit from the extension and expansion of the $8,000 first-time home buyer credit, but even more from the $6,500 credit for buyers who already own a home.

One factor that is very important to successfully selling your home in this market is property condition. With the choices that higher inventory levels have given buyers, homes that have not been properly prepared to sell have been bypassed as buyers have simply moved on to properties that require less work to upgrade. Key items such as interior paint (both color and condition), carpet and counter tops are important. Dirty or worn carpet, chipped paint and an accumulation of all those little problems you have been meaning to fix for years will not only slow the sale of your home, but will result in a lower sales price when the property is eventually sold.

When one of the world's leading independent marketing information firms asked our patients about the quality of service we provide, the message was clear: Saint Francis Hospital - Bartlett provides an "Outstanding Inpatient Experience."

That's why, in 2007-2008, we were the first hospital in Tennessee to be recognized as a J.D Power and Associates Distinguished Hospital. In 2008-2009, we've been honored once again.

Christmas Lights "Must See"

As you drive through the neighborhood you will see beautifully decorated homes and wonder why they were not selected as winners. Well, the rules are; winners may not win again for 2 years. This allow others a chance to be recognized for their hard work. This year though, we decided to ad a list of must sees. These are homes that are either not eligible or were slightly out-done by another. Please take the time to drive our neighborhood to see all the wonderful lights and decorations.
