

Remote Viewing & Remote Influencing

Remote viewing is a "mental projection" with your mind to another person or place and observing with your inner eyes what is taking place there, or what a person is doing and/or the details of a distant location. It is a form of telepathy or thought transference, which is the communication of impressions from one mind to another. This technique allows one to tune into the thoughts, feelings, desires and awareness of another person. Remote influencing is the ability to project your own thoughts, feelings, and desires to influence another person.

How does it work?

We remain in contact with everything we sense by means of 'sticky' aka threads, like drawn out strands of bubble gum, that never break and never get tangled. Every time we renew contact, another thread is formed, so that we are connected to certain people and places by cords rather than threads. In addition, by the power of thought we have the ability to send out a 'finger, (so to speak)' to places or people we have never been in contact with, and thereby seek out information or have an influence."

The basics of the technique presented here "Energy Flows Where Attention Goes."

Visualization to help reinforce the thread, by visualizing an link from one power center to another, to establish a "communications" link. This allows information to be received and "transmitted."

In Remote viewing, the mind subjectively (non-physically) detects subjective information about a subject, and then converts that information into a form that you can understand, such as a mental image, or words, or a feeling. It is important when using the technique that all information and impressions are not to be discarded.

The mental image (of what you remotely view) is not the actual communication. It is the end result of a mental process, just as the words or pictures on the computer monitor are the result of your instructions (given via the keyboard and the mouse) interacting with the word processing (or image processing) program, which then interacts with the computer hardware to produce light and dark pixels that you recognize as words and images.

TECHNIQUES

The technique: this Piko Piko is technique that many teach and I thought I would share it with you. In truth focus, your intent, and create your own way is usually the best for you. Pico Pico certainly creates a base line of reference for you to work with and a path to discover your own way.

Piko Piko:

Remote influencing:

Inhale with your attention on your navel. Visualize what you are trying to do, or the result of what you want at the navel. Exhale with your attention at your forehead, about 1 to 2 inches behind the forehead. Visualize that this energy radiates out, like an aka finger or "thread" going to the other person's forehead. As you visualize this hold the image of what you're trying to do. Send it out in one strong intense vibration with the exhale breath.

Remote viewing or receiving:

This is the reverse of the manner in which the signal was sent out. Inhale, as you see the aka finger attached to the person's forehead. Exhale, and bring the attention to your navel. Visualize information coming inward towards you through the aka finger, coming inward towards the navel centering at the navel.

Remote broadcasting:

Rather than send the vibration out of the forehead, bring it up to the top of your head. Hold the image at the navel on the inhale, on the exhale, attention is brought to the top of the head, and see the energy spreading out like a cone. You can work with any single aspect described above or combine them in various ways for many purposes. When finished with any of the techniques, just visualize that the Aka cord is dissolving.
