Affidavit of Khaliel Kelly

I, Khaliel Kelly, having been first duly sworn, I hereby depose and say that I am a citizen of the United States and a resident of the State of Utah. I am over 18 years of age. I currently reside at 3436 North Foothill Drive, Provo, Utah 84604.

1. I first became acquainted with Gordon Bowen when my husband, Kevin Kelly, worked at Bonneville Media Communications in Salt Lake City around 1982. My last dealings with Gordon were around 1988 in New York when Kevin and Gordon were employed at Ogilvy in advertising. At that time Gordon was Kevin's boss and Kevin asked to be put in another group so he wouldn't have to deal with Gordon.

2. In 1995 Kevin and I received a wedding invitation to Barbara and Gordon's temple wedding in Salt Lake City. At that time we were wise to Gordon and we had severed our relationships with him. We were surprised to get an invitation. We did not go nor did we send a gift. It would have been hypocritical for us to have done so because we were not friends. I suspect the wedding invitation was meant to suggest he was not homosexual and furthermore that his Bishop and Stake President in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints had interviewed him and found him worthy for a temple recommend and a temple wedding.

3. I knew Gordon was not worthy of any such temple recommend and felt an obligation to bring this to the attention of the Stake President, President Stone. Our family and Gordon were in the same Stake in New York. Furthermore President Stone was a member of our ward, the Westchester Ward. I spoke with President Stone and told him I knew things regarding Gordon and that he should not have a temple recommend. I explained to President Stone that we suspected Gordon was homosexual, and that he lied about many things, and that he didn't go to church, and only paid tithing periodically as a show. President Stone told me that Gordon came to him in a hurry and left him a long letter, saying he could only meet briefly at this one time and that he had to leave town. President Stone said he did have a short interview with Gordon and Gordon answered all of the standard questions regarding worthiness and that Gordon claimed to be worthy of a temple recommend. He said he had to take Gordon's words for their truthfulness. I said to President Stone, "You know me and that I am not making this up." He replied, "I don't really know Gordon and the Bishop doesn't either, I wish I knew him better."

4. In 1995, after speaking with President Stone, I made a telephone call to Barbara Timothy Bowen in an attempt to cause her to reconsider her pending marriage to Gordon. I believed at that time that I knew things about Gordon that Barbara did not know, things that would cause a reasonable and prudent woman to not want to marry Gordon. Also I felt it was my responsibility to share that information with her to prevent her from being injured by Gordon. I was not acquainted with Barbara at that time. I told Barbara I thought Gordon was homosexual and dishonest and that he was not really active in the church. Barbara told me that people either loved Gordon or they hated him. Barbara told me that the man I was describing bore no resemblance to the Gordon she knew. Barbara was very sweet to me in that conversation. I ended the conversation by warning her not to get AIDS and to keep her money away from Gordon and to not let him hurt her sons.

15) Gordon Believes that Normal Rules and Boundaries Do Not Apply to Him. He is overly permissive and negligent

16) Gordon Uses Guilt, Threats, Brainwashing, Physical Force and Manipulation to Get Children/Youth to Do What He Wants and Think What He Wants

Dr. Victor Cline, who did a limited evaluation (Item 14a) stated, "I can certainly render an opinion based on 35 years of clinical practice as well as working many years with sexual addicts that . . . Mr. Bowen would appear to me to have reduced impulse control, gives evidence of being erratic in his behavior with sometimes poor social judgment, a long history of irresponsible behavior and highly probable sexual acting out which would be sufficient reason for the court to limit his association with his two children as being in their best interest as well as protect them from potential harm." Dr. Cline also wrote a letter, July 16, 2004 (Item 14b) in which he says, "In reviewing my previous "Limited Psychological Evaluation," of Mr. Bowen (10 May 2003) and in our discussions of April Braack's visitation reports (Item 1, 6 April Braack) would lead to my recommendation of Mr. Bowen receiving a psychiatric examination to evaluate his mental, sexual and emotional stability."

1) Gordon Displays Dangerous Delusional Thinking as Evidenced in His Journal and Enemy List and Conversations with Family and Associates. Gordon Views Himself as a "Savior" to Collin, Eric, Lily and Caleb, Having the "Voice of God," and Asserting Power Over the Children by Virtue of his Belief that he has this Special Relationship with "God" who tells him that he is full of evil spirits, yet a chosen son who must rescue all the children from Barbara, and that Eric has felt some sexual desire towards Gordon and needs hard, masculine love from him, that Barbara is full of evil spirits that Gordon gave her through intercourse. However, "God" also tells Gordon that he hurt "those beautiful boys" and their mother who trusted them.

a) A9, 42. Thom Harrison. "...Gordon's probable Dissociative Identity Disorder creates Gordon's report of hearing inner conversations and the voices of other personalities, which often comment on or address his family conflicts. These voices can be experienced as hallucinations. In Gordon's journals, he often becomes the voice of God, and this voice tells him to destroy Barbara and take no captives."

A17, 6. "Khaliel Kelly ...I also witnessed many attempts by Gordon to appear religious and generous but which upon further consideration were manipulative or dishonest or hypocritical...he seemed to have some sort of God complex, identifying himself with Deity."

When Gordon's aberrant homosexual lifestyle was being uncovered, he began seeing a therapist who specialized in casting out evil spirits, David Hamblin, who had lost his license for having had sex with his clients. Gordon also saw Melvin C. Fish, an unlicensed therapist who also did intensive work casting evil spirits out of Gordon, taught him about the tools of Satan and Satanic abuse (Item 18a "Healing the Inner Self by Melvin C. Fish"), and taught to keep a journal in which Gordon asks God a question and "God" answers. In 2003 and 2004, Gordon wrote over a hundred journal pages (Item 18b) with the following entry examples:

"You are a chosen son.. You have been a conduit of evil spirits that are legion—not a few—but battalions sent to destroy your work and works. .. Your sins were foreordained...so you could learn the secret combinations, words, ... signs, oaths, and songs... Evil spirits are being weakened in their grasp as the impurities are being flushed from your system. You've got to resist evil and for you sugar attracts evil like a magnet. Get prepared for war with Satan.. Barbara is his instrument now.. You can save these kids and you must. Lily is dying inside. Fight for her. Be a general and a soldier... Barbara is wacked. . . She would kill you if she could. No one loves them enough to ride into the sins of hell to save them... You have to go with the angels of heaven and take on Satan himself. Barbara needs to break to get well... You must begin to build a psychological profile of Barbara.

(Gordon's voice: Lord, should I ask for custody.?) You are going to have custody of the children when Barbara breaks down... Barbara will be in prison for killing the children. .. Plan the attack... Take no prisoners... This is Pearl Harbor.. You must proceed with intelligence and cunning.. Use everything you have learned in the biz to fight like you never have before... You need balls. In a humble context, you are an expert. It is my desire that you help heal Eric in the same way I have healed you. By casting out devils, unclean spirits... Eric needs you. Pray about him. Save him. You are the one who can. .. Eric needs hard masculine love from you. He's asking for it. He has also felt some sexual desire toward you which confused him because he is not homosexual..., all her boys are sexually wounded. They came into life that way, genetically. Steve's (Timothy~ stuff in them.

Eric, he's got Steve B. (Boyce) in him. Literally. (Gordon's voice: Huh? Is Steve back here living thru Eric?) (spirit felt here)

Gordon, my son, I'm going to speak plainly here. You are their chance for redemption. You were sent here to do that.... because to be redeemed they need to heal the Timothy line and heal the Boyce line and heal their mother. You were sent to do that. You were under oath to powers of darkness for sure but they did not steal your agency.

Jesus did not earn his pain. He owned his mission. You need to own yours.

...look what you did to those beautiful boys. They wanted to love you. They trusted you. And believed you. And you hurt their mother and hurt them. Barbara tried to love you. Reached out. You shut her out. You shut down her heart. She was a tender spirit and a great great soul and you broke sacred covenants. Over and over and over. Barbara is screaming, 'Put me in check. Give me parameters. My female raging waters are flooding the earth, and killing everything in their path. You must put me in granite channels of truth... Barbara is in open rebellion to me, but I will give her to you. Women are supposed to go to their men.'

b) In Collin and Eric's affidavits, (A2, 16c, A3, 61, A4, 9i.k) they both state that while in Gordon's apartment they have read journal entries of Gordon's writing in which he states that "evil spirits are possessing his body and mind and causing him to act out in a homosexual manner." Collin says, "I have also had conversations with Gordon in which he has told me that he is convinced that his homosexuality and the struggle he has had with it is the result of some sort of evil presence that inhabits his body." A4, 9i. Eric Boyce Timothy. Eric states, "In October 2003, Collin and I went back to New York for a short visit. During this trip, Gordon left his journal in plain sight and I noticed an entry where he had indicated that "evil female spirits" had taken over his body and caused him to be homosexual" 9k. On February 21, 2004, Gordon called me and asked me to meet with him to discuss my finances. In that meeting, I told Gordon that I could not trust him and that he was a liar. I told him that it made me irate that he came into this marriage while living a homosexual life, but pretending to be something else. Gordon told me that he had changed and was now only 10% homosexual. He said that "healers" had helped him to see that he had two evil female spirits in his body that had caused his homosexuality, that when they had been cast out he felt alive again, but that they had come back and he was having a hard time."

c) Summer 2003, Gordon hired David Hamblin and Kisi Watkins to fly back to New York where Collin and Eric were living with him in his $14,000/month apartment to interrogate and "brainwash" them in a three day process in which they tried to psychologically diminish them, to convince them that they were flawed and that Gordon was a "benevolent saint." Gordon joined the process on the third day, stealing their passports and plane tickets for a U of U summer class in Europe and threatening to send them back to Salt Lake City and not allow them to finish their internships in New York City. Collin and Eric both said that they were psychologically held hostage for this terrifying process in which David told the boys that their mother was crazy, that God would be angry with her for making the serious mistake of divorcing Gordon, that their deceased father, Steven Timothy was a sexual deviant and that they were sexual deviants who had inherited this from their father. Gordon tried to convince them that they needed to get therapy from David and have the evil spirits in them "cast out," that David was the only one who could really help them.

H a m b l i n

A9, 11. Thom Harrison. "Gordon tried to force this therapy upon Collin and Eric while they were in New York. These unlicensed mental health providers appear to have bought into Gordon's illness and his deceptive controlling nature... It appears this treatment attempted to first discredit Barbara and Steven Timothy in their boys' eyes and then continued to destroy these young men's belief in themselves. It seems to be a ploy to aggrandize Gordon's pathological position in the family."

In the evaluation performed by Thom Harrison, he states: (A9, 42. Thom Harrison.) "...Gordon's probable Dissociative Identity Disorder creates Gordon's report of hearing inner conversations and the voices of other personalities, which often comment on or address his family conflicts. These voices can be experienced as hallucinations. In Gordon's journals, he often becomes the voice of God, and ~

d) 1. Enemy List. After the death of Gordon's father, Wes Bowen, September 2, 2003, Barbara found a "to do" list of Gordon's for his father's funeral (Item 20a) which included a list of Gordon's "enemies"—men Gordon had molested (Item 1, ~ A5, 18-25. Ken Kenitzer, A23, 6. 29. Dennis Williams/Adrian Pulfer,) , my mother, my siblings. Gordon's siblings. Truman Madsen, business associates and friends, including John Dooner, Gordon's boss at McCann Erickson when Gordon missed an important client meeting in 1992 and was allegedly found tied to the bed. Additionally, after Gordon's homosexual behaviors were revealed , in March 2003, Gordon went into the community (Item 1, A13, 12. Jim Bogner) and gathered sympathy with the story that at age 7 he had been sodomized by his father's friend, while his father watched, (Item 1, A22, 26. Brad Nygren.) Yet Gordon denied having ever been abused to Dr. Heather Walker. As a note, the death certificate for Gordon's father (Item 20b) is dated, September 4, 2003. The police report indicates that he died approximately Monday, September 1, or Tuesday, September 2, 2003 and was found Thursday, September 4, so the obituary reads September 2 (Item 20c). Gordon said to Dr. Walker "I was playing golf with my father on Thursday and he suddenly died on Friday, completely confusing the date and circumstances of his death.

2) Gordon has a Charismatic Personality that Promotes Trust from Others

A11, 5. Stephen Allen. I am not sure I have ever seen anyone with better presentation skills than Gordon. He was an incredibly talented presenter...extremely polished. ✓

A12, 5. Bruce Bell. I did not know Gordon was fired from Bonneville International. But I did hear that Gordon was reputed to be one of the best salespersons in the advertising industry."

A18, 11. Mark Kramer. "...he did not pay people who lived on limited means. Gordon was a very good entertainer. He would have his house decorated and provided catered food. He is a tremendous salesman."

A 16, 7. Kevin Kelly. "Because I had become an advocate of Gordon Bowen, I was even more taken by him. Suddenly Gordon could do no wrong. I remember my colleagues at Bonneville...who had a first hand knowledge of some of Gordon's shady dealings...they tried to convince me that he was a liar, but I wouldn't believe them. I though they were jealous of him, or didn't know the Gordon I knew. It took me many years to realize the kind of man I was dealing with. I was charmed by his flattery and what appeared to be his sincerity. Gordon has a way of saying exactly what you want to hear to get what he wants. And his timing was always perfect. Gordon showered my family with gifts to keep our affection. This is one of Gordon's patterns, using gifts and flowery notes to flatter people into doing what he wants them to do."

A17, 4. Khaliel Kelly. "I made a call to Barbara Timothy Bowen in an attempt to cause her to reconsider her pending marriage to Gordon. I believed at that time that I knew things about Gordon that Barbara did not know, things that my responsibility to share that information with her to prevent her from being injured by Gordon. ...I told Barbara I though Gordon was homosexual and dishonest and that he was not really active in the church....Barbara told me that the man I was describing bore no resemblance to the Gordon she knew."

A19, 3. Michael McLean. Initially I was very impressed by Gordon Bowen. Gordon was a master at winning people over, convincing them he could be a trusted and dear friend. He could charm a person and use that person and then, when his need for that person ended, Gordon would just move on. In my experience I discovered he was a master manipulator and a brilliant liar."

A5, 5. Ken Kenitzer. "He was charismatic in a very fatherly, full-of-wisdom sort of way that was very comforting and disarming. Gordon derived a lot of identity from being a connoisseur of the finest things, and from his many connections to powerful people in advertising, the Mormon Church, and corporate America....Gordon was so convincing in his creation of images of 'the ideal.' (family togetherness, professional success, love, beauty, and spiritual well-being), there never seemed a need to question things. However, over time, I learned that these images Gordon had created for himself were totally an illusion. 6. The commonality of our religious faith and Gordon's direct association with the highest leaders within the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints further established for me credibility for Gordon and a powerful trust in what he had to say. 17. Sometimes it was difficult to get Gordon's attention, but when he did show his concern, he was there to save you, to build you up, and pitch the most colorful promise of a better tomorrow. July 1996...I experienced...the kind of callous and unfeeling predator that he really is."

A23, 34. Adrian Pulfer. Gordon is remarkably seductive and influential. Gordon is a charismatic character. Gordon is able to obtain the trust of people who most likely would not extend that trust if he were not so charismatic

3) Gordon has a History of Dishonesty/Deceit/Manipulation

A5, 9. Ken Kenitzer. "Gordon offered to pay me $10,000 if I came up with the 'tag line.' 10. In the end, the tag line chosen was 'IMPACT LIFE.' I told Gordon that 'Impact Life' an idea that I had come up with and presented to him relatively early in the process. ..He claimed that he had come up the lines himself..."

A13, 16. James Bogner. "Gordon was always spinning webs. He would tell me one thing and then tell Kevin or Tom something different. At one point Kevin, Gordon and I were all in a car together on our way to the airport from a location...Kevin and I confronted him about his lies and manipulations and expressed that we were on to him and tired of it. Gordon had no out. He began shaking and eventually admitted to his behavior..from that point on we would circle around to see if Gordon was telling us all the same thing."

A14, 3. Stan Ferguson. "From my first encounters with Gordon I sensed there was something at odds between him and the truth. ...There was something about Gordon that told me to be very wary of this man. As time went on and as I became more familiar with his erratic behavior, cunning intimidation, devious schemes and underhanded tactics, I began to realize that Gordon was more than just a really bad person. The only word I can think of to describe Gordon Bowen is evil."

A16,17. Kevin Kelly. "Gordon is a master liar. And he's persistent. I remember running into Scott Swofford, a former associate at Bonneville Communications. When I mentioned Gordon's name, he said, "Oh, that liar." Michele Avantario, someone who worked closely with Gordon in New York, caught on to his deceptive practices..., was able to see right through him. She told me on many occasions that Gordon could not be trusted. On a business trip Michele helped us catch Gordon in one of his lies...he didn't like to be caught. Gordon has deceived the very elect—General Authorities, Stake Presidents, Bishops, prominent members of the church and many former friends and business associates. It took me years to uncover his deceptions. Gordon is perfectly described in Scott Peck's book People of the Lie."

A16,19. "Kevin Kelly. "Gordon had put on his personal film reel a commercial that he had never worked on. I had written and produced this commercial myself...Ironically, it was a commercial produced for the Mormon Church to promote honesty...I confronted him and asked him to remove it from the reel. He lied and told me he was going to use the reel for church fireside...A week later he got a new job running the creative department at McCann Erikson Advertising...The man cannot be trusted."

A17, 29. Khaliel Kelly. "...Gordon told me I could attend Stephanie Pace's class at the University of Utah without paying...Stephanie later told me that Gordon frequently told people they could attend her class for free and that she object..because it put her in a awkward position with the university. 29. ...I do recall he was known to tell many lies...A big lie was that...when the Bonneville team went with him to Ogilvy they would all be getting the same salary. Later Kevin and I learned Lynn Dangel and Tom Pratt were paid $20,000 more than Kevin and Parry Merkley. This was a clear betrayal as they were all a group of friends going as a team."

A18, 18. "Mark Kramer. "Gordon perpetuated the idea he was employed working on an advertising campaign...but I knew he had been fired...19. A woman reporter from Advertising Age spoke with me and said she came to interview Gordon...She asked Gordon how he had been spending his time since he had been fired from McCann Erickson...20. Gordon told the reporter that he had been to Kenya to help get a new village established and to provide humanitarian aid...I am almost completely positive this was false...21. Gordon also told her he had spent some time in London and had purchased an antique book collection there...I am also certain Gordon did not go to London as he claimed at that time."

A18, 30. "Mark Kramer. "Gordon is a terrific story teller. Gordon once told me that he had met a homeless man on the street in New York who asked for money. Gordon said he brought the man home and fed him and let him take a shower. After I got to know Gordon and how deceptive he is, I thought Gordon had concocted this whole story to make me admire him. It certainly was not consistent with how he treated his creditors by having me give them bad checks and by not paying them. 31. I would point out to him his inconsistencies and he would go through a routine of saying "I can't believe you are saying that, and I am insulted by it, it really hurts me, and how could you say that to me because I care for you so much'. Gordon was always blaming me for his problems."

A19, 3. Michael McLean. Gordon was a master at winning people over, convincing them he could be a trusted and dear friend. He could charm a person and use that person and then, when his need for that person ended, Gordon would just move on. In my experience I discovered he was a master manipulator and a brilliant liar."

A20, 40. Diana Walker Neve. "He was meeting with the Stake President in order to get a temple recommend...He said it was hard because he had to refute so many rumors and things people had said about him."

A22, 9. Brad Nygren. "...in 1976 when Barbara was about to get married to Steve Timothy, I observed Gordon had not been looking well...I kept questioning him about his weight loss. Eventually Gordon told my wife Pat and me that he had cancer. 10. Then late one night...Gordon let me know ...the cancer story was a joke. 10. Gordon told me, and Pat overheard, that Gordon had actually lost the weight by fasting for a week...so that Barbara would have the inspiration to marry him rather than marry Steve Timothy, to whom she was...about to be married."

A23, 7. In a business setting, Gordon has deceived me a number of times. The first time Gordon was after my wife died, possibly in 1987 to 1990. Gordon asked me to develop a campaign for American Express (AMEX)...Gordon had told me the campaign was being backed by Ogilvy and Mather and I understood Ogilvy would pay Gordon and Gordon would pay me and my studio. 8. Eventually I called someone I knew at Ogilvy...I was informed by that person that Ogilvy knew nothing of any campaign Gordon was doing for Ogilvy. 9. At that time I had around $70,000 in studio overhead and salary for my employees and Gordon wasn't paying us. I was in a desperate situation...I seriously thought I would have to close my studio and sell my home to survive....10. I confronted Gordon...I asked him how we were going to be paid. Gordon had a way of glossing over things and making others feel foolish. 11. Gordon was then hired at Young and Rubicam and given a full time position as a creative director. 12. I was contacted by the Young and Rubicam financial office late at night...The officer then asked me if Gordon owed me money for developing the campaign...I responded I had over $70,000 in hard costs...13. The officer asked if I would sign papers releasing owner ship of the AMEX campaign over to Young and Rubicam if he brought me a check and the necessary papers that night. 14. I felt Gordon had really taken advantage of me. Gordon represented to Young and Rubicam that my AMEX campaign work was his and through this means Gordon had secured a high paying position with them. In doing so Gordon had deceived me on an ongoing basis.

A1, 9. Alma Boyce. "Sometime after that event, Gordon told me that he was a homosexual and admitted that he had lied to me regarding the questions I asked him in July 1995 regarding his involvement with homosexual activities. If Gordon had been truthful with me in July 1995, I would never have given my consent for him to marry Barbara. After this experience with Gordon, he lost all credibility with me and I do not know whether I could now believe anything he might tell me."

A2, 15. Collin Timothy. "Over the years, I have unfortunately learned that I cannot ever believe the words which come out of Gordon's mouth and that I cannot rely on him regardless of what he says. In my interactions with Gordon, I have observed a pattern of lying to cover his actions, making promises in order to gain favor and manipulate me into doing things which he wanted me to do (which were generally for his benefit) and then breaking those promises without any hesitation, explanation or apology whatsoever, and trying to create an image which was completely different than his reality. b. He was never interested (and never made an attempt) to try to determine what our needs were or what we were feeling. Rather he attempted to 'buy' our affection by promising us gifts or trips to cool places."

A3, 7. Collin Timothy. "I will preface my remarks with two words—Gordon lies. In my conversation with Dr. Walker and in my affidavit I explained that Gordon is a pathological liar, that nothing that comes out of his mouth is the truth; it is subterfuge and manipulation, and he lies to cover his actions and create an image that is different from reality. Through over twelve years of experiences with Gordon, I would say that this is the hallmark of who he is, along with the fact that he is an advertising genius and has an insatiable need for control, especially control of his image and his relationships."

A3, 45. Collin Timothy. "What I'm trying to emphasize here is that Gordon with his innuendo, his bold face lies, his strategy, cunning and spin doctoring can take any situation and convincingly promote himself. He takes a thread of truth and twists it. This last example is full of this. If Dr. Walker had cared to look at the facts, she would have realized this. Instead, she bought into Gordon's game. 45. "I am terrified of Gordon. I am convinced that he has the ability to damage me in my business and my personal reputation among all of my friends and business associates by spreading gossip and lies about me. I'm also convinced that he will do that now that I'm no longer willing to allow him to buy my silence with promises he doesn't keep. But I also think that if I don't tell the truth about the things he has done to me and my family, no one will ever be able to stop him from doing this to other people."

A4, 9. Eric Timothy. "...I believe that he is a pathological liar, dishonest and untrustworthy in his life, unpredictable and irresponsible to the point of being frightening (even to an adult), careless, self-indulgent, extremely manipulative, dissociated, callous, involved in deviant homosexual activities, involved in bizarre religious ideas and activities, and incapable of truly loving or caring for others."

4) Gordon Takes Advantage of People/Engages in Psychological Abuse

A24, 6. Scott Swofford. "Gordon asked me and I heard him ask others about the weaknesses of my superiors and bosses...Gordon would bring up the topic when several people were present. Then, once Gordon had the information he would magnify it and build a case why these people needed to be removed and present it to the President or Vice President of Bonneville."

A11, 1. Stephen Allen. "I was Director of Media for the Missionary Department ... In 1984 the Media Division got moved from Public Communications Department to the Missionary Department of the LDS Church. 4. Gordon Bowen became creative director at Bonneville Communications. 11. Gordon began to quietly sew seeds of discord on both sides. He would tell us one thing and report the opposite to his staff. A spirit of contention developed. 13. We identified falsehoods that each other had been told by Gordon going both ways. 14. Gordon had been manipulating both sides. The dishonesty was apparent."

A24, 12. Scott Swofford. "Four years ago a number of former Bonneville employees got together for a reunion and we commiserated on how we were used by Gordon to remove opposition to his plans. I believe Gordon was successful in manipulating everyone in the department for his own ends and most of us in retrospect felt guilty for letting ourselves be used that way."

14, 6. Stan Ferguson. "Gordon attempted to get me to resign from Bonneville by his treatment of me. He would avoid talking to me directly most of time. When he did invite me into his office for a 'conversation,' he would just sit there without saying anything to me. He had a large office that was dimly lit. He would invite me in to talk and then just sit there and look at me without speaking. Finally I would have to ask him what he wanted to talk about and then Gordon usually had nothing of consequence to discuss. It appeared that he was trying to intimidate me."

A23, 33. Dennis Williams/Adrian Pulfer. "My observation is that much of what Gordon does is like a play, in that his life seems theatrical. This includes the home he buys and his marriage to Barbara. I have felt for a long time that Barbara and the two children were props for Gordon's public display. I felt Gordon used Barbara and the children to give him credibility as a normal married man with a family, when in fact his marriage and sexual orientation were anything but that."

A23, 34. Dennis Williams/Adrian Pulfer. "When I consider my experiences and those of others, particularly his marriage and family, I have to see Gordon as a predatory who takes advantage of people when they are vulnerable. Gordon is remarkably seductive and influential. Gordon is a charismatic character. Gordon is able to obtain the trust of people who most likely would not extend that trust if he were not so charismatic."

A3, 31. Collin Timothy. "But on the flip side, if you decide you no longer want to be controlled by Gordon's designs which require that you prostitute yourself in some manner and feed into his inflated image of himself, he resorts to using guilt or threats, and if that doesn't work, he begins a campaign to discredit you and systematically destroy you. Gordon undermined my sense of self by assaulting my psyche, making me think I'd said or done things which I hadn't, spreading lies about me to my friends. He enticed me in, abused me, then dropped me when I was no longer of use to him."

A3, 34. Collin Timothy. "I was stunned by how closely Gordon's behavior, which I had witnessed over the past twelve years, mirrored the characteristics outlined in the book describing sociopaths—pathological lying, manipulation, grandiose sense of self-worth, lack of remorse for hurting others, lacking conscience, inability to empathize, deception in their actions with a phony façade of good works and moral high ground. I thought about Gordon's lies to me, his righteous façade in the LDS Church as a family man while
